Questions for Boys
Gas for Chicago
Garbage, Out and In Jobs and Santa Claus

By Arthur Brisbane

"A party whose card is enclosed called at my office today and endeavored to interest me in the purchase of land at 'Pinewald.' One of the outstanding points in his argument was that Arthur Brisbane and Adolph Ochs have purchased land there, and that Arthur Brisbane highly recommended this land at a banquet."

This writer never recommended the purchase of any particular real estate anywhere, never heard of "Pinewald," which may be highly desirable, nevertheless whoever quotes this writer as recommending anything for sale is mistaken or worse.

Boys passing the Edison examination must tell "the value of an acre of farming land in Iowa, what should be done with Communistic propaganda, the proper working of the theory of survival on a desert island," etc.

The questions are not easy. Nobody in Iowa knows exactly what an acre of farming land is worth. Neither Mr. Edison nor our government knows what is to be done with "Communistic propaganda." We shall have to wait and see. It depends on prosperity.

As to the theory of survival of the fittest on a desert island, it would depend on cocoanut trees, goats, physical strength, and a "man Friday." Winning the examination would not mean, probably, survival of the fittest.

Through a $100,000,000 pipe line, the Chicago Gas Light and Coke Company is bringing natural gas from Texas to Chicago. And hereafter, Chicago, instead of paying for so many cubic feet of gas, will pay for so many "heat units." There is more heat in natural gas than in manufactured gas, and it seems just to the company that consumers should pay more. The Illinois commerce commission agrees with that theory.

Some Chicago Anarchist will probably suggest that since God Almighty made the gas, and the company has nothing to do but let it run through a pipe, it seems hardly necessary to make an extra charge, once the pipe is paid for.

A new kind of bootlegging appears in New York city. Scows, belonging to the city, operated by city employes, go out to sea, carrying ashes, dead horses and other garbage, to be thrown into the ocean.

And, returning from the deep waters, they sometimes bring another kind of garbage, namely, bootleg liquor, with them.

One of these scows returning from its toil, seized by prohibition agents, was found bringing back $130,000 worth of liquors.

The government says it will seize the $75,000 steel barge although it belongs to the City of New York.

That city will have to explain which of its intelligent politicians combined pleasure with business, hauling out one kind of garbage, hauling in another. Every employe on the scow knew of the law-breaking and grafting, of course.

Revelations in connection with rioting in the prison at Auburn, N. Y., throw light on our "prohibition act." It is testified that prisoners made moonshine whiskey in their cells, drank it, and dead drunk, were put into their berths by prison guards, presumably rewarded for their trouble.

Calvin Coolidge says no act of Congress can control what men think.

Congress also has difficulty controlling what men drink.

Turkish territory was invaded by savage tribesmen, coming out of Persia. Kemal Pasha threw his troops into Persia to get them, and killed thousands of them.

To Persia's demand for damages "for invasion" Kemal replies, "Come and get the damages."

What interests students of history is the fact that Kemal has announced his intention to "end nomadic tribal life in Turkey." It seems strange to think that millions of human beings are still ready to fight to the death for the right to wander up and down the earth, with no settled habitation.

Among other things including lowest wheat and cotton prices, and a general uncertainty, our nation is "enjoying" the worst drought in its record.

Washington officials say the dry spell is unparalleled, in records reaching back 50 years.

TWO BODIES ON PINTHIS RECOVERED

Divers Find Them in Search for 17 Believed to Be on Sunken Tanker

In a calm sea off Scituate divers working from the salvage tug Cricket recovered the bodies of two members of the crew of the sunken tanker whose torn hull is believed the tomb of 15 others.

No announcement was made as to whether the bodies were identified. They are believed to be those which Diver Hubert Grove reported last Monday to have been entangled in the rigging of the Pinthis, 90 feet below the ocean surface. The others are believed inside the hull.

In a calm sea on which a hot sun beat down, Diver Grove stepped from the ladder of the seagoing tug this afternoon to begin the work of recovering the dead.

While attorneys representing the owners of the Fairfax and lessees of the Pinthis looked on, Grove in his diving suit slid down a line to the broken hulk.

The work was cloaked with secrecy, reporters being barred from the tug on which no one would talk for publication.

It was understood Grove and another diver who was on board had orders to report their findings only to their employers, the Merritt-Chapman & Scott Co., New York.

The Cricket pushed out of Plymouth harbor at 8:50, reaching the scene of the disaster at 10:15, only to find that at the time of Grove's previous dive, when he discovered two bodies, no bouys were placed.

Some two hours were then spent in sounding for the wreck, which was eventually located about noon and bouyed. During this period a Coast Guard patrol boat, under

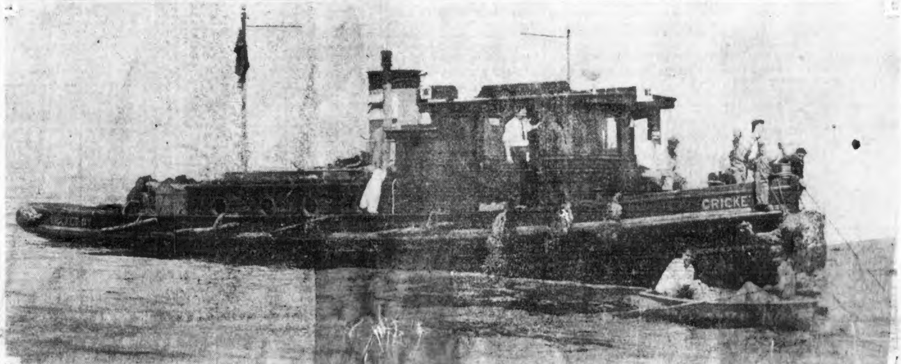
E. H. R. Green Under Blood Tranfusion

New Bedford, Aug. 1 (AP)—Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of the late financier, Hetty Green, and widely known philanthropist, underwent a blood transfusion at his home at Round Hill, South Dartmouth, it was learned today. The nature of Col. Green's illness could not be determined.

First Picture of Divers at Spot Where Pinthis Went Down



SALVAGE TUG CRICKET snapped as she anchored over the sunken Pinthis, showing divers on deck before they put on their diving suits, and small boat dragging a hook to catch hold of sunken tanker.

BECAUSE NO BUOYS had been placed over the Pinthis, nearly two hours was lost while men in rowboat dragged for contact with the tanker. These pictures were rushed to shore in a fast motorboat and then to the Boston Evening American office by automobile.

BABE CLOUTS 37TH HOMER

Fenway Park, Aug 1—Babe Ruth poled his 37th home run of the season into the right field bleachers in the first inning of the final game of the series with the Red Sox here today. There were none on base at the time.

Hod Lisenbee was on the mound for the Red Sox when Ruth smashed out his circuit drive with Barry behind the plate.

GRABS $15,000 GEMS, FLEES

Twelve diamond rings valued at $15,000 were stolen by a lone thief in a bold, carefully planned robbery at the Bigelow Kennard & Co., Inc., store, 511 Washington st., this afternoon.

The thief, a young and fashionably dressed man who had made two previous visits to the store as a prospective customer, escaped with the tray of rings by dashing through crowded West st. and down an alley.

Henry A. Kirby, in charge of the diamond counter, told police he had twice previously discussed with the man the purchase of an engagement ring "for the most beautiful girl in Boston."

The theft occurred after Kirby had placed the tray on the counter and was reaching underneath for finger measures.

Maine state and county prosecutors probed today the "hush drowning" of Al Lassman, football star, at "Izzy" Zarakov's camp in Harrison, Me., with a view to fixing criminal responsibility—if any.

The investigation was into charges that false testimony was given at the coroner's formal inquest following the drowning, and that the testimony held up Lassman as a possible suicide, rather than a hero.

A story that the three boys who were with Lassman in the canoe that overturned on Long Lake were later spirited away to Old Orchard Beach by Al ("Special Delivery") Marsters, Dartmouth football star, so they could not be interviewed, was included in the probe.

MRS. ZARAKOV CALLED

The 14 summonses issued on order of Atty.-Gen. Thomas F. Robinson of Maine and County Attorney Ralph M. Ingalls of Cumberland county, included Marsters, Zarakov and his wife, who was at the camp when the drowning occurred.

According to David C. Jacobs, head counsellor at Camp Ropioa, also on the lake, when Jacobs took the three rescued boys back to Zarakov's camp, Mrs. Zarakov rushed up and cried:

"We must keep this news quiet."

Jacobs, who was one of those

R. I. BOY WINNER OF EDISON TEST

West Orange, N. J., Aug 1—Arthur O. Williams, Jr., of East Providence, R. I., was today declared the winner in the Thomas A. Edison scholarship for which boys from 48 states and the District of Columbia competed.

G. Dudley Mylchreest, another New Englander, from Hartford, Conn., received the second highest average in the questionnaire, which ranged from a query as to the location of the Taj Mahal through intricate questions in physics, chemistry and mathematics to the value of a Ford coupe driven 5000 miles.

The Rhode Island boy's victory means he will receive a four-year technological and scientific course in any college or university he selects.

To New Jersey went the honor of having the third place winner. He was Gordon K. Burns of Maplewood, a residential suburb just over the hills from West Orange.

Hammerstein in Fight Breaks Hand

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Arthur Hammerstein, theatrical producer, was summoned to court today because of a row, in which he said he broke his hand hitting Jack Haskell, erstwhile dancing instructor for his new musical comedy. Haskell caused the summons to be issued, charging assault. Hammerstein said he struck when Haskell menaced him following a row between Haskell and Sally Rand and her brother George, members of the chorus.

Walter Johnson's Wife Dies Suddenly

Washington, Aug. 1 (AP)—A long series of misfortunes for Walter Johnson, one of baseball's best loved figures, climaxed today with the death of his wife, Hazel Roberts Johnson.

A recent automobile trip from Coffeyville, Kan., through the intense heat had sapped her strength and early today she died. She was 36 years of age.

NAB 1 ROBBER IN BATTLE, BUT OTHER ESCAPES

Captive Slips His Bonds as Rescuers Arrive; Cashed Many Money Orders

Abducting the clerk in the sub postal station at Oak Island Revere in Wild West fashion, two armed men today cleaned the place out of blank money orders and toured Greater Boston cashing these for several hundred dollars before being halted in Brookline Village.

One of the men, said by police to be J. J. Orchard, address unknown was captured, but the other escaped.

The capture of this man, as dramatic as the lassoing, handcuffing and kidnaping of the clerk at the start of the wild escapade, was accomplished through the nerve of the clerk, Aaron Cohen, and the quick action of a Brookline policeman and two civilians.

FELLS BANDIT DRIVER.

Driving through Harvard st., Brookline, Carl Johnson, who conducts a garage at 20 Webster pl., saw a machine with a man in the rear seat trying to free himself from ropes that bound his feet.

Johnson gave chase and abandoning his own car, leaped on the running board of the other car, just as the man in the rear, Cohen, was picking up an auto jack and swinging it over the head of the driver.

Another man, Michael Joyce of Perry st., Brookline, also jumped on the running board, and Cohen stunned the driver with a blow as the other men brought the car to a stop, directly in front of Traffic Officer Charles Davis, who had been attracted by Cohen's screams.

FIND PISTOLS, ETHER

A man sitting beside the driver fled. The driver was arrested and Cohen was freed from his entanglements, except the handcuffs, which later had to be filed off.

Also in the machine was found two 38-calibre revolvers, 50 cartridges and an empty ether can, and it is believed ether was applied to Cohen at the start of the trip, after he had been knocked unconscious.

Money order stamps and other articles were recovered, together with letters taken from the postal station but the uncashed money orders were taken away by the man who escaped, according to his captured companion. The arrested man had $125 in his pockets.

Orchard was questioned at Brookline police headquarters by

DELAYED BY GALE OVER QUEBEC

Was Driven Back 15 Miles While the Repairs Were Made to Torn Fin

St. Hubert Airport, Montreal, Que., Aug. 1 (INS)—Another brilliant page was written in dirigible history today when the R-100, Great Britain's challenge to Germany's pre-eminence in lighter-than-air navigation, completed a transatlantic flight from Cardington, Eng.

The R-100 was sighted from the airport here at 2:57 o'clock this morning, Boston daylight time, 75 hours and 42 minutes after she left Cardington.

Because it was dark at the time, the world's biggest dirigible did not moor to the powerful million-dollar mooring tower here until 5:36 a. m., 78 hours and 52 minutes after she departed from Cardington.

Until the very last leg of her journey she was making splendid time. Then she encountered damage to the fabric of her stabilizing fin and stormy weather conditions—a combination that forced her to greatly reduce her speed.

Damage to the fin's fabric was negligible, officers of the ship said upon her arrival. Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, commander of the R-100, said the big dirigible came through in fine condition. He characterized the voyage as a good test flight and he and other officers interviewed indicated that in their opinion the flight was a success in every respect.

SAFELY MOORED.

The R-100 is now attached to the mooring mast of St. Hubert's airport. She stands out horizontally from the top of the morning mast, 200 feet above the ground—a big, proud looking ship, the sun's rays glinting off her dull gray sides.

The R-100 carried 44 persons on the 3400-mile flight. There were five officers, 32 members of the crew and seven observers and officials. Her commander, Squadron Leader Booth, although only 35 years old, has had 15 years' experience in aviation.

After the giant airship had been safely moored the chief officers aboard joined in an interview with the press. Those present were Comdr. Booth, Wing Commander P. M. Colmore, director of airship; Sir Denistoun Burney, director of aircraft development and designer of the R-100; Maj. G. H. Scott, assistant director of aircraft development, and Squadron Leader E. L. Johnston, navigating officer.

Wing Commander Colmore said the damage to the fin was not serious. He said only the fabric had been affected. Temporary repairs made while the airship was in flight will be supplemented by further repairs here.

He remarked that the damage to the fin was somewhat similar to that which befell the Graf Zeppelin on one of its westward flights across the Atlantic to Lakehurst, N. J.

The R-100 established a new record for east to west crossing of the Atlantic and covering 3364 miles to this airport.

LOS ANGELES' MARK.

The previous low record was set by the United States navy dirigible Los Angeles, formerly the ZR-3, in her initial flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., in 1924, when 5060 miles were covered in 81 hours 17 minutes.

The best time made by the Graf Zeppelin in a Europe-America crossing was 95 hours, 22 minutes in August, 1929, from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst at the start of her world flight. The Graf covered 5003 miles on this crossing, taking the longer, southerly route instead of the great circle chosen by R-100.

orders from District Commander Wilcox, assisted.

With the wreck buoyed the airpump was uncovered and Diver Grove got into his suit to begin the work of recovering the bodies, a task first urged by the Boston Evening American.

Accompanying the Cricket was the excursion streamer Neptune, bearing newspapermen and Scituate residents.

Aboard the salvage tug, in addition to her crew and divers, were Robert Duncan, attorney for the Shell Petroleum Products Co., lessees of the Pinthis, and Miles Waumbaugh, counsel for the Merchants & Miners line, owners of the Fairfax.

The two companies are sharing expense of the work which the Navy and Coast Guard did not find "within their jurisdiction," after public demand, sponsored by the Boston American, forced the issue of recovery in behalf of relatives of the men lost.

summoned as investigation witnesses today, said he believed Mrs. Zarakov mistook him for her husband.

WITNESSES QUESTIONED

In addition to Zarakov, Mrs. Zarakov, Marsters and Jacobs, those summoned to testify in Portland today included Alec Sutherland, former swimming instructor at Harvard and now connected with the camp; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stanley, directors of Camp Ropioa, and Norman Percells, Yale baseball star, who with a boy from the Ropioa camp, paddled to the place where Lassman's canoe had overturned.

Percells said two boys were perched on the bottom of the overturned craft and told him Lassman had taken them from the water and placed them there. The Yale man pulled the third boy from the water.

The questioning of witnesses took place in the municipal court building in Portland, after the attorney-general and county attorney had gone to Zarakov's camp with Sheriff Lloyd W. Jordan of Cumberland County and had served all the summonses except those on the Zarakovs.

County Atty. Ingalls reported that there were guards, armed with clubs, about the camp and that entrance was refused the officials until the summonses were displayed.

Neither Zarakov nor his wife, who has been at camp with him, could be found, therefore summonses for them could not be served. It was believed Zarakov was at his home in Cambridge.

"If there is criminal responsibility in connection with Lassman's death or if facts in the case were deliberately misrepresented to the medical examiner, then we will take action against the offenders," the county attorney asserted after his camp visit.

Zarakov, up to noon, had issued no statement regarding the Lassman drowning, but Sutherland said that Zarakov would give out a statement later in the day.

"The story is greatly exaggerated," Sutherland declared in making this announcement.

LEARN BOYS' NAMES

The names of two of the three boys declared to have been with Lassman when he was drowned were learned today. They were Morris Shapiro of Brooklyn, N. Y., and John Wynn of New York city.

GREATEST POOL RAID STAGED IN WEST END

Portland St. Printing Plant Is Seized; Six Arrests; Spectators Halt Street Traffic

In the biggest lottery seizure on record in this country, Boston police today garnered a harvest of 3,000,000 tickets in a printing plant in Portland st. and smashed New England's largest pool, the Leader.

Printing equipment, four numbering machines and three presses were also seized and five men and a 16-year-old boy arrested. One of these, George Picket, 54, of Norfolk st., Dorchester, was charged with setting up and promoting a lottery.

Charged with being present where gaming implements were found are Malcolm Knox, 35, Gaylord st., Dorchester; William McElroy, 53, Shirley st., Winthrop; William Green, 46, of Roxton st.; Byron Morgan, 58, of Fells parkway, Melrose, and the boy, whose name is withheld.

Besides the Leader, tickets on three other pools, the Unique, the Thursday Special Lucky Dime and the Double Action Lucky Dime, were also confiscated.

Police declared, following the raid, that they will seek warrants for three members of the organization, one of them a Charlestown gambler said to be one of the organizers of the Leader Pool.

He has conducted distribution of tickets in this pool for 12 years and is reckoned one of the biggest lottery men in New England.

CROWD HALTS TRAFFIC

A large crowd gathered in Portland st. while the raid, and removal of the men and machinery, were in progress and traffic was halted for a time.

Police say the real leaders of the pool, two Boston gamblers and an outsider, have not been caught but efforts are being made to link the seized evidence with them.

The raid was engineered by Lieut. Thomas Connolly, who is acting captain of division 3, West End. He and Sergt. Patrick J. Morrissey led a specially picked squad of eight officers.

Lieut. Connolly received information last Tuesday that a partial change in ownership of the business had taken place.

A partition which separated an outer office from the printing plant was smashed down. When the easily movable articles were taken away in the patrol wagon, which made several trips, the place was sealed and plans started for removing the heavy presses later.

TICKETS SEIZED

More than 1,000,000 printed tickets for the Leader pool dated for the week of August 4 were numbered among the seizures. It was in connection with this pool, the police say, that two men were sentenced in Quincy court earlier this week, on complaint of a winner of the $3000 tip prize who failed to collect.

FRECKLE-FACED BOY

Young Williams is a freckle-faced youngster of 17, a direct descendant of Roger Williams, settler of Rhode Island. His father is chief clerk of the Providence Gas Co. Arthur graduated from East Providence High School in June and was valedictorian in his class.

For several summers, he said, he had been working to save money with which to attend college, and he selected Brown University as the school because it was in Providence.

WILL GO TO M. I. T.

Now, he says, he will go to Massachusetts Tech at Cambridge, where Wilber Huston, last year's winner, is a student. Williams will specialize in physics.

Charles Edison, son of the donor of the scholarship, said Arthur was by far the "brightest boy" of the 49 who took the examination. Last year it was close. This year, Mr. Edison said, there was no question as to who was the winner.

"Williams' information on current events and general information was remarkable," Mr. Edison said, "while his answers to scientific questions were practically perfect."

CHINA WARNED TO SAVE ALL AMERICANS

U. S. Consul Sends Edict as Red Rebels Menace Hankow With Fire and Pillage

Shanghai, Aug. 1 (AP)—C. T. Wang, Chinese Foreign Minister, was warned by the American legation at Peiping today that the American Government expected the Nationalist rule to protect lives and property of Americans in Changsha, Hunan treaty port, looted by Communist armies.

Simultaneously foreign consular authorities at Hankow said they were convinced the Nationalist government was unable to protect its own interests in Changsha, pillaged by the Reds, and expressed fear for the safety of Hankow, rich industrial city on the Yangtse river, which they said might be the next city to fall into the hands of the plundering armies.

Should Hankow fall, the sister cities of Wuchang and Hanyang would lie at the feet of the Reds, who have swept into the Yangtse valley, burning, killing and pillaging.

Communist troops in unknown numbers surrounded Hankow. Consular authorities said, despite Nationalist promises to organize a drive against the invaders, the situation was questionable because the Nationalist forces were not strong enough even to support their own pickets.

Authorities in the Hankow Japanese concession have erected barbed wire entanglements about the area. Chinese authorities have already disclaimed responsibility for foreigners in Kuling, south of Kiukiang, after three days, and the fate of Kukyang itself was in doubt, although additional British gunboats have been ordered to reinforce the Yangtze patrol.

Postal Inspectors John J. Breslin and Thomas Cronin, and later by Asst. Dist.-Atty. Warren Bishop of Middlesex county, State Officer Edward O'Neil and Police Chief Holbrook of Framingham, regarding a recent holdup in that town.

He was charged with robbery. Boston police, who broadcast a description of the escaped robber in behalf of the postal authorities, expressed the opinion that the fugitive may have been involved in the abduction of Youssell Sherman, Boston sporting man, from Revere a year ago, for which two others went to State prison.

Money orders were cashed in Revere, Chelsea, Charlestown, West Newton, Allston, Brighton and Coolidge Corner, Brookline, and one or two other places, according to Cohen.

LASSO THEIR VICTIM

It was not until he wriggled free of the ropes and tore an adhesive plaster gag off his lips that Cohen was able to take steps to halt his captors and attract attention.

Cohen said the two men entered the store conducted by himself and his brother, at 47 Oak Island st. at 11 a. m. and talked of buying the place.

They induced him to go in front of the counter and suddenly tossed a lasso over his head, pinioned his arms to his sides, handcuffed and gagged him and marched him to the waiting automobile in front of carefully concealed revolvers.

Postal authorities expressed the opinion that the two men were familiar with postoffice methods, as they filled out and stamped the money orders in accordance with practice.

The automobile they used had both dealer and repairman's number plates. The escaped man was meagerly described as six feet tall, weighing about 165 pounds, and wearing a blue suit and straw hat.

Stranded Beauty Queen Aided by Nicaragua

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 1 (AP)—Newspapers here today published a report that President Moncada had ordered funds cabled to Senorita Haydee Morales, who appeared as Miss Nicaragua in the recent Miamia international beauty contest and who was reported stranded in the United States.

Senorita Morales

The funds were sent to buy her a ticket home.

CANCEL LICENSE OF STOCK SALESMAN WHO MADE $10,000 A MONTH

ACCUSED OF CHEATING WOMAN

Answers to Stock Inquiries on Page 9.

Lou K. Dichter of Watertown, who made $10,000 in commissions in less than a month selling stock chiefly to "credulous women," according to the securities division of the public utilities department, today lost his right to sell any more stock in this State.

Revocation of Dichter's registration as a stock salesman followed complaints by women clients to the Stock Fraud Bureau of the Boston Evening American.

"His particular specialty was credulous women," states the order of revocation.

"He would take them on automobile rides and on returning to their homes he would come away with their cash or their securities.

MADE $10,000 IN MONTH.

"From a monetary standpoint he was highly successful. The books of his employer show he was paid $10,000 in commissions on sales made during a period of less than a month.

"He sold to one woman 689 shares of a certain trust company, receiving a commission of $4208.

"He obtained the confidence of a man and his wife, assuring them he would treat the man as he would treat his own father, and then manifested a filial devotion by selling them 74 shares at $115 of a stock whose fair market value at the time was between $70 and $80. His commission was $459.

"On another occasion he called upon a woman at 9:30 in the evening, telling her that the sale of the Associated Gas & Electric Securities Company's bonds, of which she held $3500 worth and which he had assisted in selling her, had been stopped in New Hampshire and was going to be stopped in this state before the next night.

GOT POWER OF ATTORNEY

"'Do just as I tell you; otherwise you are going to lose every cent of it.' He went away with the securities and a signed power of attorney.

"He persuaded another woman to deliver to him $10,000 worth of securities and to sign a paper which she was not allowed to read, but which she supposed was an order to purchase a $100 bond of the trust company.

"While direct evidence is lacking, it is a fair inference that the paper the woman signed was power of attorney. She later received by registered mail 50 shares of trust company stock.

"On all the evidence the division finds that the registrant has been carrying on his business as a salesman in a fraudulent manner and it is accordingly ordered that the registration of the said Lou K. Dichter as a salesman be and is hereby revoked and cancelled upon the register."

The order, which is signed by John C. Hull as director of the securities division, also gives a history of Dichter's career as a salesman, as follows:

GIVES HIS HISTORY

"The respondent has been a registered salesman since 1924. In that year he was employed by C. P. Dow & Co. and the Wollaston Land & Construction Co. In 1925 he was with W. A. Nash & Co., Inc., and Alan Shepard & Co., Inc.

"In 1926 and 1927 he was with Alan Shepard & Co., Inc., at one time owning one-half the corporation.

"In 1928 he worked for the General Management Corporation. In 1929 he was with Hodgdon, Cashman & Co. and with the Associated Gas & Electric Securities Co., which company vouched for his honesty and integrity.

"On March 8, 1930, he was released from this latter organization and was immediately employed by R. F. Sheeran & Co. On April 9 he became associated with persons carrying on a brokerage business under the name of W. H. Wardwell & Co. On June 13 he transferred to Duren & Co., where he remained until July 16, 1930.

MAKES A PROMISE

"On July 25 he wrote the division: 'I shall not re-engage in business until I have made a connection with a firm which is above question and I shall not sell any security which is of doubtful nature.'

"In March of this year this man became a star actor in a scheme to sell to gullible people stock of a certain trust company at a price far above its fair value."

Douglass Steadily on Way to Recovery

Although the name of Congressman John J. Douglass is still on the danger list at City Hospital, he is reported as steadily improving today. He was taken to the hospital several days ago, suffering from pulmonary hemmorhages.

Flames Peril Blooded Racers But Girl Speeds to Rescue Three

AFTER HUNGRY FLAMES were almost subdued at the John R. Macomber estate, "Raceland," Framingham. The loss was $200,000. Seven race horses made their escape and others were rescued.

THIS RACER SAVED HIMSELF at the height of the fire. He is Dixon Mammon and was found at the J. C. Bauld estate, four miles away from the scene of the fire. He is held here by Joe C. Clements, who found him at the Bauld place.

SAVE HORSES IN $200,000 FIRE

Emmet H. Robertson, watchman, turned in the alarm and herded the frightened horses into Raceland track, adjoining the building, later destroyed.

SOCIETY GIRL AIDS

Robertson was the only occupant of the stable. Macomber attended the races at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., yesterday, where several of his prize stock were entries. He continued this trip to New York city for the merger of Harris, Forbes Co., Inc., of which he is president, with the Chase Securities Corp.

Robertson gave the alarm by firing a pistol into the air after he was awakened at 4 a. m. by the crackling of flames in the hay loft.

The shots attracted Mrs. Raymond Ablondi, a neighbor in the Salem End rd. section, and she notified the fire department.

With Mrs. Abner Neyhart and Dorothy Neyhart, Mrs. Albondi rushed into the dwelling part of the combination building and saved valuable furnishings.

Fire Chief William Coulter ordered a general alarm sounded and aid was summoned from Natick. He could not estimate the damage but stated it would run well into six figures.

FINE HORSES SAVED.

Three expensive automobiles, housed in fireproof garages under the burned building, were run out under their own power after the flames were brought under control, little damaged except for smoke and water.

The horses rescued included Bashon, Pete the Scribe, Heart Breaker, Pan Tango and Package, all owned by Macomber, and an Arabian horse owned by N. W. Harris, financial partner of Macomber's.

R. I. Boy Predicted That He Would Win Edison Test

Providence, Aug. 1—Arthur O. Williams, Jr., told his parents he thought he would win the Thomas A. Edison scholarship and then went out and did it!

News that the youth who graduated from East Providence high school last June had defeated boys from every state and the District of Columbia in the examinations at West Orange, N. J., was received with acclaim not only in the town but throughout the State today.

Gov. Norman S. Case was one of the first to wire his congratulations to young Williams.

INTENDED TO WIN.

"Arthur had expressed both the hope and intent of winning, but, while we had confidence in him, we were not openly optimistic because we knew the disappointment would be great if he did not win," his father said.

"He was president of the high school senior class, vice-president of the Mathematics Club and a member of the staff of The Crimson, the school paper.

"We had planned to send him to Brown University this Fall, but now I suppose he will go to Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"I am delighted and his mother is delighted. Nobody knows the joy that is ours. My boy worked hard for the honor, and he deserved to win."

At her Summer home in Toulsset, Mass., the boy's mother said, "That's great!" when a reporter told her of her son's victory.

"We hoped he'd win, but we never counted on it," she said.

"Son would never let us know by a message. He said he'd wait until he got home and could tell us himself.

He's a very quiet lad," she volunteered, "but he shines in his written work. He always was most interested in physics and chemistry."

Tentative plans to honor the winner upon his return are being made by Samuel E. Lincoln, chairman of the East Providence school board, and Governor Case expressed the desire that the State be given an opportunity to co-operate.

"The winning of first honors reflects great credit not only upon our school system, but upon the State itself," Lincoln said.

Governor Case declared:

"I am extremely pleased, of course, by the result. It is pleasing to every resident of the State. I congratulate him, his parents and his teachers."

Brother of Capone Tried as Vagrant

Miami, Fla., Aug. 1 (AP)—Albert Capone, younger brother of Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone, Chicago gangster, faced criminal court trial today, on a charge of vagrancy filed against him after the Alphonse Capone estate at Miami Beach was raided for liquor, March 20.

The younger Capone and two other men were taken into custody as they returned after a swimming party, following the raid in which a quantity of liquor was seized.

Seven Near Death in Icehouse Fire

Springfield, Aug. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Aurilla Thompson, 78, is at the Springfield Hospital, where she was taken after being overcome by smoke in a fire, early today. An aged blind man, Paul Spaulding, and another woman and four young children were rescued from their smoke-filled cottage as a result of a fire which completely destroyed an old icehouse on government property at Water Shop pond.

Would Save Boy Listed in Edison Problem

The Edison problem as to which members of an exploring party should be saved brought varying solutions from Boston men and women today.

Most of those queried by the Boston Evening American thought that the boy should be saved, and from then on opinions were divided as to the two others.

The problem, as presented to his "class" by Mr. Edison, is:

"You are the head of an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are: A brilliant scientist, 60 years old; two half breed guides, 58 and 32; the scientist's wife, interested mainly in society matters, aged 39; her little son, aged six; the girl you are engaged to marry; your best friend, a young man of your own age who has shown great promise in the field of science.

"Which would you choose to save and which to die? Give your reasons."

ATTY.-GEN. JOSEPH E. WARNER: I would choose to save my best friend, the six-year-old boy, and the youngest guide assuming that the guide would be essential in finding the way back to civilization. I choose the young man because he has been my friend.

As between the 60-year-old scientist and the six-year-old boy I choose the boy because he has had only six years of life. I should disregard the genius of the scientist in such an emergency.

In the case of the girl to whom I am engaged I would assume that she loved me as much as I loved her and would be willing to remain with me and be united in death.

MISS ELISABETH HERLIHY, executive secretary City Planning Board: I would save the little boy, his mother and the youngest guide. The boy deserve his chance in life and represents potential good to the world; his mother represents the principle that since God cannot be everywhere he made mothers, as expressed by some poet; and without the guide the party could not be saved at all. The young guide, 32, should have his chance at life, too, so I'd save him.

MRS. HENRY PEABODY, National Chairman of Law Enforcement League—I'd save the little boy and the engaged couple. I think that the potential contribution of a family as represented by the engaged couple is of greater value to the world than more scientific inventions, and the child of course should be saved.

DR. LUCILE EAVES, head of research department, Women's Educational and Industrial Union—The child should be saved first. The adults in the party would very likely decide as they do in the army when volunteers are called for in time of peril. The head of the expedition would be obliged to decline on the same principle as a captain of a sinking ship is expected to stand back until all others are saved.

DR. AUGUSTA BROMER, co-head Judge Baker Foundation—It is an interesting question, but has no scientific value. As a psychologist I wonder why Edison propounded it. The object seems to have been to determine either the boy's intellectual acumen or his personality characteristics; that is, to discover whether he is a normal boy with an instinct to save himself, his fiancee and his friend, or whether he is chiefly concerned with the sociological tendencies, such as preserving the family and helping the world.

MRS. FRANK STETSON, Chairman Social Welfare, State Federation Women's Clubs—The judgment of a young man who has had a childhood of honorable companionship, fair and just treatment through his adolescent years and has not lost faith in humanity in his youth would, in my belief, act with honor and credit in this emergency.

REV. CLARENCE LATHBURY, supplying Boston pulpits during the summer: This Edison question is a stunner. I would save the wife of the scientist, the young woman and the six-year-old boy. These are more helpless than the others. Men can more easily get out of difficulties than women.

In Unusual 'Love Suit'

SUIT FOR $50,000 DAMAGES has been filed in Salem by Miss Tyyne Neimi, former maid in the Leslie Buswell home in Gloucester, against Buswell, who, she alleges, placed her in an asylum "because she refused to spurn the attentions of a famous musician, a Buswell guest." (Staff photo.)

EDISON CANNOT ANSWER HIS OWN POSER

About an Ancient Flivver? Well, He'd Get Whatever He Could, He Says

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison doesn't know how he would have answered the "desert question" which caused the most brow wrinkling among the 49 youngsters that took the competitive examination for the Edison scholarship.

The question was: What would you, as leader of a party of eight, do if you knew you had just enough food and water to enable three to reach the outposts of civilization and safety, with the remaining five doomed to die on the desert? The eight: A scientist, 60; two half-breed guides; the scientist's wife, 39, socially ambitious; their son, 5; the girl you are engaged to marry; your best friend—a young scientist—and yourself.

"One thing is sure, you've got to have a guide to get you out," Mr. Edison said. "He'd probably be an Indian. I have not thought enough about it to pick the other two. What I wanted was to see how the boys would work it out."

Mr. Edison was asked how he would answer the question:

"What price would you ask for a Ford car that had run 5000 miles?"

"I'd say, get what you can," Mr. Edison said with a broad grin.

Then, chuckling, he said he had paid $75 in Fort Myers last winter for a Ford truck 13 years old and that two of his employes had driven it to New Jersey this summer in three days.

While waiting for the winner to be announced, Mr. Edison examined the trucks containing the sound news apparatus of the cameramen. He appeared intensely interested, climbing in and out of the trucks and examining all the parts minutely.

Naval Air Chief to Marry French Girl

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—Announcement of the engagement of Mlle. Annie Pierrette de Grandmont, daughter of Mrs. Pierre Chauvin de Grandmont of Paris, and Capt. John H. Towers, U. S. N., was received here today.

Candidate Fails to Defend Papers

Salem, Aug. 1—Peter Joyce of Charles st., Boston, on whose nomination papers as Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, numerous forgeries were alleged to have been found, failed to appear today to talk with Marshal Daniel Phelan. It was understood that two days ago Joyce had agreed to visit the marshal to discuss the forgeries, and his failure to do so may result in drastic steps being taken.

MAID SUES FOR $50,000 FOR LOST LOVE

Charges Leslie Buswell Put Her in Asylum Because Noted Musician Liked Her

Miss Tyyne Neimi, 25, former maid in the employ of Leslie Buswell, wealthy amateur theatrical producer of Gloucester, brought suit against him today for $50,000, charging unwarranted commitment at an insane hospital because she "refused to spurn the attentions of a famous musician guest at his home."

Attachments have been made on Stillington Hall, Buswell's Gloucester estate, and the suit is returnable in Essex County Superior Court in September.

Buswell makes a complete denial of the alleged motive, declares the girl was ill. He said he will fight the action to the limit.

Miss Neimi sets forth that she was discharged from the State hospital at Danvers after a 30-day observation.

"All that the doctors said about me was that I was a love-sick child," she said.

"The love of a man for a maid," according to the maid, resulted in warnings from her employer not to accept the man's attentions and finally ended, when she refused to abide by the warning, in her being overpowered at Stillington Mall by a policeman, butler and matron and carried to the hospital.

Events immediately preceding her commitment she described as follows:

"I was dressing in my room when the butler came to the door and said he had a letter for me. I told him to leave it at the door and I would get it when I came out. He said a signature was required, so I opened the door part way.

"As I opened the door a policeman put his foot in the door and started to push it open. I resisted, but he and the butler started to rush in with the matron.

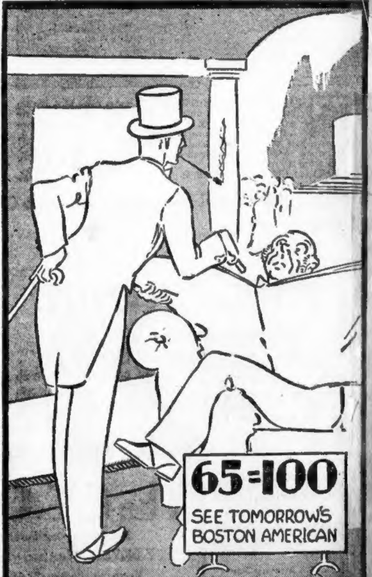
"I managed to slip past the three of them and I ran to another room, and locked the door. The three of them tried to break it down and when they failed the butler finally got some tools and removed it from its hinges.

"They came in and the matron threw a blanket over my head. I fought while they carried me through the house to an automobile and then I fainted. When I came to I was at the Danvers State hospital.

"When I was finally examined after 30 days I was released. All that the doctors said about me was that I was a love-sick child."

12 Miners Hurt in Powder Explosion

Tiltonville, O., Aug. 1 (AP)—Twelve miners were injured, one critically, by the explosion of a keg of powder in the Red Bird mine of the Warner Collieries Company of Cleveland, near here, today. All the injured were taken to a Martins Ferry hospital.



Morgan's Corsair in Fast Run to London

New York, Aug. 1 (AP)—J. P. Morgan's new yacht Corsair made its first Atlantic crossing in a little more than eight days, traveling more rapidly than its builders or owners had anticipated. It made better time each day than the day before, and carried Morgan right up the Thames river to London.

LADY HEATH TO FIGHT PLEA

Cleveland, Aug. 1—Lady Mary Heath, British aviatrix, will fight "to the end" to prevent the appointment of a guardian for herself, asked by her nurse and companion, Miss Florence Madden, in a suit pending in Cuyahoga County Probate Court.

Lady Heath declared that she was perfectly capable of taking care of her own affairs despite the allegations that she is "incompetent by reasons of mental disorders."

Steals Vacation Fund to Buy Rum

Hartford, Ct., Aug. 1 (AP)—George S. Carlson, a trusted employe for 24 years, is accused of embezzling $1200 from an employes' vacation fund of the Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Company. Carlson, treasurer of the fund, is alleged to have confessed he appropriated $1 to $5 a week to buy liquor.

Charged with embezzling $1200, John F. Morris, 19, a clerk in the Hartford National Bank & Trust Co., was also under arrest. Bank officials accuse him of forging endorsements on checks.

Ready to Fight

CALLED "INCOMPETENT" by her nurse, Lady Mary Heath, aviatrix, will prevent the appointment of a guardian.

HARRIS, FORBES ABSORBED

Acquisition of the Harris, Forbes companies by the Chase Securities Corporation, investment affiliate of the Chase National Bank of New York, was announced last night.

Consummation of the deal, the most sweeping in the investment banking field in years, marks the end of plans that have been under consideration for two years.

Harris, Forbes & Co., Inc., the local firm, is headed by John R. Macomber, president, and has long been one of the most active and progressive investment banking firms in the city.

The Chase corporation is acquiring the entire capital stock of the Harris, Forbes companies, which own the various operating concerns bearing the name. The Harris, Forbes interests will become large stockholders of the Chase National Bank, the largest banking institution in the world. The terms of the exchange of stock were not revealed.

Under the terms of the transaction the Harris, Forbes companies will continue business as heretofore under the same management, and will retain their separate identities.

Mountainous Bonfire Will Signal Royal Stork's Arrival

Glamis, Scotland, Aug. 1 (AP)—Tenants of the Glamis Castle estate where the Duchess of York is resting in expectation of an early visit from the stork, today began collecting fuel for the huge beacon which will announce the royal birth.

High on Hunter's Hill, overlooking the ancient castle, fagots were piled in a mountainous heap. Ligting of this beacon will be a signal for other bonfires throughout the country, in accordance with ancient custom.

Today two special telephone lines were connected directly with Buckingham Palace, London, so the king and queen may be in touch with Glamis Castle.

Kiss in Auto Crash Costs Driver $11,783

Stockton, Cal., Aug. 1 (AP)—A kiss assumed the value of $11,783 to J. A. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Lucretta McConnell as the result of a judgment on file here today.

That was the sum awarded Julian Williamson injured, he testified, when Fitzgerald who was driving accepted Mrs. McConnell's invitation to kiss her and the car in which all three were riding overturned.

ROB STORE IN FRAMINGHAM

Two armed men forced the manager of a chain store at Concord and Hartford sts., Framingham, into the back room of his store today, beat him unconscious with revolver butts, then rifled the cash register of $40 and escaped.

The manager, Leo Galvin, was found unconscious on the floor of the back room and was taken to Framingham Union Hospital.

According to witnesses, the car in which the armed bandits escaped was a new, light roadster, but the plates carried on the car were issued for a 1923 sedan of a heavier make.

Execution Is Held 'No Accident,' But 'Death on Purpose'

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP)—Death by execution is not accidental, it happens "on purpose," Federal Judge Woodward has decided in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Diamond of Gray, Ind., against the New York Life Insurance Company.

The Diamonds sought to collect on a $10,000 accident policy carried on their son, Harry, who was electrocuted at the Michigan City, Ind., Penitentiary for the murder of his wife. The Diamonds contended their son was put to death by unknown hands against his will, this constituting accidental death.

MEARS MAY HOP OFF TOMORROW

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP)—John Henry Mears expects to take off tomorrow between 4 and 6 a. m. for Harbor Grace, N. F., on the first leg of a round-the-world flight designed to regain for him the record won in 1929 by the Graf Zeppelin.

Henry J. Brown will pilot the plane, the City of New York. Mears has been awaiting favorable weather for some weeks. Mears and Brown will take off across the Atlantic as soon as they have auspicious weather after their arrival at Harbor Grace.

Leap Fatal

Howard, R. I., Aug. 1—John Kennedy, 55, of Bristol, suffered fatal injuries yesterday when he leaped to a cement sidewalk from a second story window of the state prison dormitory here.

DIRECT SERVICE TO CAPITAL PLANNED

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

Boston will be connected directly by air with Washington early this month, with the inauguration of hourly service between New York, Philadelphia and Washington, according to an announcement made today by the NYPW Airways Corp. from its New York office.

While the new line will start from New York, the present four-a-day airplane service between Boston and Gotham, operated by Colonial Air Transport, will make the through connection between the Hub and the capital.

Operating tri-motored Stinson air liners, powered with 220-horsepower Lycoming engines, the New York-Washington run will be the first air shuttle service between two or more population centers. Planes will be started simultaneously at 8 a. m. from Washington and New York, and every hour on the hour thereafter until the last trip at 5 p. m.

Colonial, leaving Boston and New York four times a day, will coincide with three of these ten trips, making flying time between Boston and Washington 3 hours and 30 minutes. The 200 miles, from New York south, will be covered in an hour and 45 minutes.

C. Townsend Ludington of Philadelphia is president of the NYPW line and the famous Amelia Earheart is vice-president in charge of public relations. The company is owned by the two Ludington brothers, Townsend and Nicholas, and is totally financed by them. No outside stock will be sold in the million dollar organization.

The Weather

For Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight and Saturday; not much change in temperature; gentle variable winds.

For Southern New England—Fair tonight and Saturday; slightly cooler tonight in southeastern Massachusetts; gentle variable winds.

For Eastern New York—Fair tonight, slightly warmer in west central portions; Saturday fair followed by showers in north portion in afternoon or at night; gentle variable winds becoming southwest Saturday.

OCEAN FORECAST

Felt Weak and Faint

"I was feeling very weak and very nervous and I took fainting spells. My side also gave me a lot of trouble. Someone recommended your medicine and I got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took it. I feel a lot better in every way. I sleep well because my nerves are better and I have a very good appetite. I will answer letters and recommend the Vegetable Compound to other women who suffer."—Mrs. Jessie Cook, R. No. 2, Box 88A, Murphy, North Carolina.

Recipes for Canning in Demand

CANNING RECIPES IN GREAT DEMAND

FASTER AND faster come the requests for canning recipes and since the space in our Canning column doesn't permit of answering all the requests at one time I am going to give all the space today to some extra good canning recipes. Vegetables fruit and pickles are particularly popular.

Martha Lee

BREAD AND BUTTER PICKLES

Peel and slice cucumbers as for table. Sprinkle with tsp. of salt to each quart of cucumbers. Let stand three hours and drain. Put one cup vinegar, ½ cup sugar, 1 tbsp. whole mixed spices in kettle and add cucumbers when liquor is boiling. Cook fifteen minutes. Seal in hot jars.

SUCCOTASH

1 cup boiled corn.
1 cup boiled Lima beans.
1 cup milk.
Butter, salt, pepper.

Cut one cup of corn from the cob, add the cooked beans and heat all together a few minutes and then serve.

CANNED BLUEBERRIES WITHOUT SUGAR

Pick over, wash and drain the blueberries and dispose them in sterilized jars. Shake down and add as many berries as possible to each jar. After adjusting the rubber rings, set the jars on the racks with the covers beside them. Put on cover of each receptacle and heat the water gradually to boiling point. After berries are hot throughout and settled in jars use those in one jar to fill three or more. Adjust the sterile covers but do not fasten them. After cooking 10 minutes tighten the jars and remove to a board. Use no sugar or water. Berries may be cooked in a saucepan if more convenient for filling the jars.

This currant and raspberry jelly is truly delicious and I can't keep enough of it on hand in the Lee household.

CURRANT AND RASPBERRY JELLY

Mash the currants slightly to break the skin and release the juices. Use equal amounts of currants and raspberries, or three parts of currants to one of raspberries if preferred. Cook the currants for 15 minutes with sufficient water to cover the bottom of the kettle and strain. Combine with the raspberry juice and boil eight minutes. Measure, and add one cup of sugar for each cup of juice. Let simmer until a little tried on a cold plate will "jell." Pour into clean, hot sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin when set.

KENTUCKY WONDER BEANS

1 peck beans.
1 pint salt.
1 pint sugar.

Wash, cut beans in small pieces lengthwise or crosswise. Mix well with the salt and sugar and let stand over night. In the morning there will be enough brine to cover beans. Pack in fruit jars. When ready to use, drain, rinse, add fresh water, cook five minutes, add fresh water and cook until tender.

That's all I've room for today, but if there are any special rules or recipes you'd like, just drop me a line and I'll be glad to send them on.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

ELBOW MACARONI AND PINEAPPLE SALAD

2 cups elbow macaroni (cooked)
1 cup canned Hawaiian pineapple tidbits
¼ pound sharp cheese
1 head lettuce
Pineapple slices
Salad dressing

Chill the macaroni. Combine with pineapple. Press soft yellow cheese through a sieve and reserve 2 tablespoons for garnish. Combine the remainder with the macaroni. Line a salad bowl with cool, crisp leaves of lettuce and fill with the salad. Sprinkle the remaining cheese over the top and garnish with pineapple sections, placing a whole slice of pineapple in centre of salad and arranging around it the smaller sections with the salad mixture showing between.

SUMMER SPECIAL

2 cups orange juice.
1 cup lemon juice
¾ cup to 1 cup sugar.
5 cups iced water.
Cracked ice.

Combine the fruit juices with sugar to taste and the ice water. Pour over a generous amount of cracked ice, in glasses. The ice is the secret of success with summer drinks.

FOR CHICKEN PIE

A little minced green pepper, parsley or onion or pimiento added to the filling for your chicken pie will be appreciated. To prepare the pie make an ordinary fricasseed chicken, remove the bones, arrange in baking dish and cover with rich baking powder biscuit dough.

SALAD DRESSING

Thin ¾ cup mayonnaise with ¼ cup Hawaiian pineapple juice. Add 2 tablespoons minced onion or chives, 1 chopped tomato and 1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper.

PRUNE PUDDING

Remove stones from 3 cups of stewed prunes. Cut in pieces and return to their syrup; add one-third cup of sugar, one-fourth tsp. of cloves, one-fourth tsp. cinnamon and simmer for five minutes. Mix one-third cup of cornstarch with one-half cup of orange juice, add to the hot mixture and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture is thick and smooth. Cool slightly, add one-half cup chopped nuts and fold in two stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into molds and chill. Serve with whipped cream or custard sauce.

Peppermint Frosting on Cake

Who said there's nothing new under the sun? The Martha Lee department is prepared to rise and take issue with him, her or them because we have just bitten into the most gorgeous cake ever. We're partial to chocolate frosted cakes any time of the day or evening, but never before has our sweet tooth been treated to a chocolate peppermint frosting, spread deliciously over a delicate white butter cake, the whole guaranteed to bring murmurs of joy from the most hardened of cake critics.

This cake is made by our favorite cake company, and we never have a moment's qualm in giving their products to our family because we know that every ingredient is tested and inspected as rigidly as in our own kitchen. Fresh eggs, fresh milk, good flour and baking powder, and carefully watched baking in spotless kitchens. The result—food for the gods, no less.

The Daily Dollar

Mrs. Ella Slipp, 37 Brighton rd., Brookline, Mass., claims the $1 recipe prize today for this:

CALIFORNIA FRUIT SALAD

Have equal measure of large "ox heart" cherries, pink and red, pineapple (either fresh or canned), and oranges, with a few large raisins that have been cooked until soft, chilled and seeded. Pit the cherries, cut in halves, cut pineapple in half-inch cubes, peel oranges, cut in inch cubes and sprinkle all (except raisins) with granulated sugar. Mix raisins with ½ cup of fresh English walnut meats broken in pieces. Mix all lightly together, and marinate with a French dressing. Just before serving, arrange materials in individual nests of lettuce heart leaves, and mask with Chantilly mayonnaise.

WHEN PACKING CLOTHING in suitcases, lay garments on table and as you fold have one thickness of newspaper in the fold. Lay flat. Clothing packed this way will not need pressing.

Give Prunes New Dress

Remember when little girls were taught to say "prunes and prisms" in the belief that it made their mouths small and cute? But prunes have a far more urgent use in little girls' lives—and little boys' too—than puckering up little lips. Prunes are so very, very good to eat, and I don't doubt but the old fashioned maiden would far rather have eaten her prunes than pronounced them.

Even in the old days, prunes were good, when they were dry and wrinkled and required much chewing and jaw work to masticate, but now-a-days they come in cans and look very much like fat fresh cooked plums, which, of course, they are.

FRENCH DRESSING

Put ¼ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. paprika in small bowl, add 4 tbsps. olive oil, slowly, stir constantly. Add 2 tbsps. lemon juice drop by drop, beating until all is used. Chill, and just before using beat again thoroughly, pour over salad, and top with Chantilly mayonnaise, made by adding 1 cup of heavy cream whipped stiff, to ½ cup of mayonnaise.

Good Dish for Hot Days

2 cups chicken stock.
2 tablespoons flour.
2 tablespoons butter.
1½ cups cold chicken, chopped.
½ teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
½ cup buttered breadcrumbs.

Parboil the spaghetti for 7 minutes in 2 quarts rapidly boiling water to which ½ tsp. salt has been added. Drain. Thicken the chicken stock with the flour. Add the butter. Stir in the chopped chicken. Remove from fire and season with salt and pepper. In a well-buttered baking dish place alternate layers of spaghetti and chicken mixture until all are used up. Cover top with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for ½ hour.

KEEP COOL

How you feel depends on what you eat. Just try a bowl of crisp Kellogg's Corn Flakes. With cool milk or cream and a bit of fruit. You'll surely delight your appetite! And you'll feel better. For Kellogg's are extra easy to digest. They don't "heat" the body. They help you keep cool when it's hot!

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

KELLOGG'S Corn Flakes are delicious for breakfast, lunch and supper. Ideal for the children's evening meal. Just try a bowlful for a late bed-time snack.

Always look for the red-and-green Kellogg package. Oven-fresh in the patented inner sealed waxtite wrapper. At all grocers. Served by hotels, cafeterias, restaurants — on dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. The original Corn Flakes.

Tercentenary Pilgrimages—No. 46

HOMESTEAD OF JOHN ADAMS, QUINCY

This little dwelling was the subject concerning which John Adams wrote: "I had rather build on Penn's Hill than be the first prince of Europe." Mrs. Adams, too, can be quoted: "My humble cottage at the foot of Penn's Hill has more charm for me than the drawing-room at St. James."

Abigail Smith, daughter of the Rev. William Smith of Weymouth, certainly had courage in face of parental and neighborly objections to marry the struggling young lawyer, whose very profession was despised. It is tradition that not a lawyer was allowed to join the Mayflower group, being looked upon as unnecessary and untrustworthy.

DESPISED BY ALL

Poor John Adams was looked upon in this light by the parson and his friends, but Abigail believed with John that a lawyer could be an upright Godfearing man.

He endeavored earnestly to live up to his belief, and became second President of the United States, as well as first minister to England.

John graduated from Harvard and went to school teaching. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar and at 26 married Abigail Smith, her father finally consenting and performing the ceremony.

DEFENDED PRESTON

His first prominence was gained in defending Capt. Preston in the "Boston Massacre" affair. During his absence in Philadelphia, Boston was besieged but Mrs. Adams wrote often and he was thoroughly informed of home affairs.

She wrote: "From Penn's Hill we have a view of the largest fleet ever seen in America. They look like a forest." This was in March at the evacuation of Boston."

Their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary was spent in St. James Court, somewhat different from the little home where they started their married existence. The two houses, home of his father, and birthplace of his son, John Quincy, stand side by side in homely simplicity. They are not far from the square in Quincy, located on Franklin and Independence Aves.

Boy Gets Life Term

Moultrie, Ga., Aug. 1 — Ellis Peters, 17, was sentenced to life imprisonment here yesterday for killing Green Mercer, an aged farmer.

The state contended the boy and Mercer had a dispute and that Peters later hid himself near the Mercer home and shot the farmer. Peters said he killed in self-defense.

FILM STAR SEES PLOT IN DRUG CHARGES

Los Angeles, Aug. 1 (US)—Mary Nolan, beautiful young film star, declared today that she is the victim of plotters who seek to blast her reputation by circulating reports that she is a narcotic addict.

The basis for the reports was the fact that on Wednesday United States Commissioner David B. Head issued search warrants permitting officers to examine three of her apartments.

One of these is in a Hollywood hotel, another at a beach club at Santa Monica, and the third her dressing bungalow on the studio lot where she is employed.

SUNBURN VICTIM

Miss Nolan is in St. Vincent's Hospital, suffering from a severe case of sunburn.

"I a drug addict? I have never heard of such a thing. Such a report is utterly without foundation. It is ridiculous. It is too preposterous for words," she said.

The affidavits charging Miss Nolan with drug addiction were made by two nurses. When told this, the actress said:

"Yes, I know them. They have been calling me up repeatedly at my hotel and at the studio. But I can scarcely believe that those two women would say such terrible things about me."

Miss Nolan unquestionably has a severe case of sunburn. Her back is badly scorched and so are her legs. She fell asleep in a boat on Lake Arrowhead last week-end, she said.

CASE ENDED

The records of St. Vincent's hospital show that "sunburn," and that only, is what she is being treated for.

So far as narcotic addiction is concerned, Miss Nolan was exonerated by V. H. De Spain, a federal narcotic investigator, who visited the hospital, with the three search warrants in his pocket. None of the apartments had been examined.

"Since I am convinced that Miss Nolan is not an addict, I will not search her residence places," De Spain said. "I will return the warrants to Commissioner Head—and that will be the end of the case."

Whether or not the alleged plot will be looked into by the authorities was a matter not decided today.

Before she adopted the screen name of Mary Nolan, the actress was Imogene Wilson. Several years ago she figured prominently in a romance with Frank Tinney, noted blackface comedian. It was asserted at the time that Tinney beat her up on one occasion.

Imogene Wilson was a noted beauty of the Ziegfeld Follies when Tinney was funmaker for that troupe.

Only Sunburned

MARY NOLAN, film star, known as Imogene Wilson when her romance with Frank Tinney was in full bloom, blames plotters against her reputation for the report that she is in a hospital because of drug addiction.

BANKER ABSENT IN THEFT CASE

Worcester, Aug. 1—Ernest L. Smith, 55, treasurer of the Millbury Savings Bank until two weeks ago failed to appear in district court today for arraignment on a charge of larceny of $12,795.59 from the bank, which experienced a run in July when about $400,000 was paid to depositors before their anxiety as to the stability of the institution was quieted.

Notwithstanding the protest of Asst. Dist. Atty. Brown, who objected to Smith's absence, hearing was postponed to Aug. 22. Brown questioned Smith's right to be absent when the statutes demanded his appearance.

Judge Riley made no comment but granted the extension of time as asked for by Smith's attorney, Charles N. Dewey.

Smith was placed under arrest last night by State Detective McCarthy. He is under $25,000 bail.

Question Woman in Poison Death Probe

Sarnia, Ont., Aug. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Richardson, 29, was held for questioning today, in connection with the death of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Richardson, 73, who died July 19 of what authorities said was poisoning.

Alex Butters, formerly of Erie, Pa., also was taken into custody to be questioned regarding the source of the poison.

Lipton Yacht on Way to Newport Again

Horta, Aug. 1 (INS) The Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's contender for the American cup, was plowing the seas today escorted by the steam yacht Erin after leaving port here on the last leg of her journey to Newport, R. I.

The two yachts were separated recently in a heavy mist and for a time fears for the safety of the Shamrock V were entertained.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

Letters from readers on current subjects are welcomed. Letters should not exceed 250 words in length, should be written on one side of the paper, and must bear the writer's name. Names will be omitted in publication, if requested. Address Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq.

His Motto, Boston Work for Bostonians

Editor Boston American:

The writer is led to believe that there is a "Santa Claus." Confronted with headlines in the morning press of a $30,000,000 project sponsored by Mayor Curley and W. J. McDonald—real estate promoter—students of government tell us that the extensive building proposal should take on "local talent" for construction work—in other words—Boston work for Bostonians.

Outsiders should be told gently but firmly to keep in there own cities—and co-operate with their chambers of commerce, rotary clubs and churches and create new enterprises—to the end of building up there own communities.

Thanks Man for His Kindness to Kittens

Editor Boston American:

I certainly think that Mr. Albondi deserves a lot of credit for being so humane in saving the dear little kittens. I wish I knew what the matter is with some people that they cannot be intelligent enough to send for the Animal Rescue League, but guess it is just plain ignorance.

A friend of mine happened to be near the wharves, on Atlantic ave., chanced to glance down in the water, and saw a beautiful St. Bernard dog floating, with a collar on. Can't something be done by the harbor police in such cases? So sorry I cannot take one of the kittens, but have two strays now and have my hands full, as my apartment is very small.

My children have been taught to never pass a lost dog or cat without finding out its owner, or bringing them to me. Thanking Mr. Albondi again for his kindness, I am sincerely,

MRS. M. J. MURPHY.

Says U. S. Should Get Bodies From Pinthis

Editor Boston American:

The United States can if it wants to, and should remove the bodies now reposing in the sunken tanker Pinthis.

When an emergency exists, then there can be no law to forbid a humane act, and that is recovering the bodies of these unfortunate men.

Be they so poor that they are worthless?

Oh, no! A greater value is at stake, and that, humanity.

Our country owes them this obligation, in that they are citizens of this country. Humanity cries aloud for action.

Says Women Working Keep Men Out of Jobs

Editor Boston American:

There are so many reasons for unemployment that it compares well with the number of places where Oliver Garrett has been seen.

Women are taking men's jobs today. Every job held by a woman means less jobs for men. We will have to face this fact, sooner or later.

A common reason why men marry late or not at all is that they can't afford it. They are unable to support themselves, their wives and their children. The young woman who has worked and married wants to be treated as generously with money as before.

It is hard to blame a girl if she does not want to give up a lucrative position and economic independence for a stinted allowance and what may appear as enslavement to husband and children.

Women working are crowding men out of the marriage prospects. This is the long and short of it. It makes unemployment more evident when women snatch men's jobs away from them.

scovers Value of man in the Home

ditor Boston American:

Summer in the modern home proves how valuable women are? Here I have been in my home for a month getting my breakfast. My family has been away for that period.

I have come to this conclusion that women are especially fitted for home keeping. No man can take this prerogative from them. It is a good thing that we have and need women for homes for without them there would be no homes.

I have also thought after washing dishes as well as wiping them daily, before I go to work that any home that makes a wife and mother a drudge cannot be a home in its highest sense.

Yes! I will confess it after being a month without my wife and children in my home, they being on a farm in New Hampshire, that an important addition to home life is a wife. I'm sick of getting my breakfast.

ays Henry Ford Is All rong on Bathtubs

Editor Boston American:

Henry Ford has started a tempest in a teapot. He wants more bathtubs. Does he know that this age is the cleanest age of history? People today use bathtubs with conscientious regularity.

The Puritans and Pilgrims never took a bath. They wanted to be clean in body, but they did not have the means. None of the kings or queens of the 18th century took a bath. Just take a peep at Louis XIV in French history and compare him with the immaculate physical condition of royalty of today.

John Wesley used to preach in that century to hordes of people, but because they never took a bath and were odoriferous he invented that saying and fung it at crowds, "Cleanliness is next to godliness."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

After reading your paper this evening I wish to give you my report of my trip as a Gold Star mother who made the pilgrimage to France to visit my son's grave. I cannot say too much in regard to the wonderful kindness that was shown us, and there was no distinction between millionaires and any Gold Star mother on either the Republic or the America, and also the courtesy that was shown us at all times by everyone connected with the pilgrimage will never be forgotten by me. The hotels used us well; our rooms were furnished beautifully and had private baths and wonderful beds and there was excellent service I can furnish you, if necessary, the names of the 15 Gold Star mothers who made this trip, and as a representative of the Standard am inclosing my reports of this trip, which are the absolute truth. I hope you will publish this letter.

Sees Traffic Lights As Failure in Hub

Editor Boston American:

May I say another word about the traffic lights? They are making congestion in Boston's narrow streets. These traffic lights have no judgment, no initiative in unravelling traffic problems, and they mount up at certain hours of the day. The traffic officer with his skill can end it.

Boston's streets are too narrow for this general system of traffic lights.

To prove this just see the congestion in Washington and Tremont sts. with adjoining streets, any busy morning. There is no judgment in the traffic signals. They just change without any consideration. A human mind is needed to guide traffic in Boston or else confine traffic to the broad highways, where traffic lights are doing good service.

But Boston's streets were never intended for the mechanical means of directing traffic.

Hits Those Who Block Entrances

Editor Boston American:

I am glad to notice that the statue of Gen. Hooker in front of the State House has been cleaned. Your paper called attention to it some time ago.

I am glad to notice that some of the bunting has been removed from the decorations of the State House and a better display of bunting is replacing it.

I would like to know why so many people stand in front of entrances to Boston buildings, blocking them and preventing other people from entering them.

I am glad to know that Bostonians can reread Voltaire's "Candide" once put under the ban here. But the wise Treasury Department at Washington has declared "It can pass." They have O.K.'d it. It will not corrupt them. AN OBSERVER.

Visitor Finds Something New in Old Boston

Editor Boston American:

One afternoon last week, I browsed around Boston looking at many historical points. I wandered into King's Chapel, School st., where I had a good chat with the genial sexton of that old building, erected in 1749. Among other matters, he told me to look out through several panes of glass. I did so and then I just gazed back at him, saying:

"Why I saw double through that pane of glass! What's the matter with that glass?"

He then explained that in Colonial times they did not make window glass uniformly good, as they do today and some panes of glass have an ancient glare about them, causing gazers through them to see double, with no reflection upon what they have taken. I also learned that the suspended sounding board over the pulpit in gone-bye times was often let down to touch the head of the three-hour preacher of sermons, to make him cut it short. King's Chapel is one of the most interesting centers of historic lore in Boston.

Answers Query About Figure of Christ

Editor Boston American:

That question asked of this paper, if the wooden figure of Christ which was bought for a mere pittance proved to be the creation of a 17th century Spanish artist or sculptor is in Boston?

It is in Boston in the Gardner collection and is a masterpiece worth thousands of dollars.

"Let's Walk Down to the Bank"

Frequently a bank will lend money on good securities which for some reason can't be sold immediately. Its willingness to lend is a good test of the soundness of the security.

When John Jones, stock salesman, offers to sell you stock that will bring you riches—when he claims that the dividends will make you wealthy—when he draws word-pictures of spurting oil wells and mines bursting with precious metal, just suggest to him—

"Let's walk down to the bank."

Your bank will soon tell you how much it will lend on the offering. Always, too, your Better Business Bureau stands ready to help dig out the facts for you.

FUELING PLANES PASS HALF-WAY

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 1—Bob Black and Lou Reichers in their Red monoplane reached the half-way mark at 9:30 (D. S .T.) today in their attempt to break the 554-hour refueling endurance record of the Hunter brothers.

At 2:30 the Red plane had been up 283 hours.

St. Louis, Aug. 1—The monoplane Greater St. Louis, flying toward a new refueling endurance record, passed its 270th hour of sustained flight at 1:11 p. m. today. At that hour the pilots, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, former record holders, were six hours into their 12th day aloft and signaled that all was well.

STORE TO KEEP OPEN SATURDAY

For the convenience of customers, the Houghton & Dutton Co. store at Tremont and Beacon sts. will be open tomorrow and all Saturdays throughout the remainder of the summer, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

This is in accordance with the policy inaugurated by the company last year. Previously the company closed Saturdays during the two mid-summer months but the customers of this popular store expressed a desire to have it open on Saturdays during part of the summer, at least.

Finding that patrons were able to shop more conveniently on Saturdays than other days, the management decided to end the Saturday closing with the end of July. Members of Houghton's store "family" will be given additional vacation time to compensate for their loss of the Saturday holiday.

Finds Ancient Greeks Inclined to 'Necking'

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP)—Dr. David M. Robinson of Johns Hopkins University has made the interesting discovery that the B. C. Greeks were not above "necking," that they used face rouge, that they had shower baths and bathtubs, and that they even laughed at comic strips.

Dr. Robinson, professor of archeology at John Hopkins, made his observations at the University of Chicago yesterday. He has just returned from Olympus, Greece, where important excavations were made.

"Olympus was at the height of its glory about 900 B. C.," he said. "In its two-story residences each bedroom had an adjoining bath with an overhanging urn which served as a shower. A slave would pour water into the urn while the master stood under it.

"Compacts we have found compare with the present day vanity case, and sculpturing revealed the Greeks in 'necking' poses."

The "comic strip artist," Dr. Robinson explained, molded his comedy characters and was rewarded by coins thrown to him as he paraded through the community.

Fine Spanish Paper for Cuban Interview

Madrid, Aug. 1 (AP)—The government today ordered the police to confiscate editions of the newspaper Heraldo de Madrid and fined the paper 1000 pesetas (about $120) because it published an interview with the Cuban ambassador, Garcia Kohly, without first submitting it to the censor. The interview was regarded as friendly to the ambassador, but the authorities maintained the censor should pass on such articles.

The New Ford De Luxe Phaeton

THIS car, newly added to the Ford line, has achieved distinguished favor because of its low, fleet lines, beautiful colors, and attractive sport treatment. The spirit of youth is reflected in its sprightly appearance and alert performance. To an unusual degree, it combines style and utility.

Among its pleasing features are an adjustable front seat, folding windshield and windshield wings of Triplex shatter-proof glass and a side fender well for the spare tire. Upholstery and trimming are in keeping with the latest mode. The rear quarter is slightly depressed below the belt to receive the top when down, thus preserving the straight flowing lines of the car.

EXPERT CALLS HEARST STOCK DESIRABLE

By LEWIS HANEY

Director New York University Bureau of Business Research and Former Economist of Federal Trade Commission.

New York, Aug. 1—After a careful study of the new stock offered by Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., I am glad to say that I consider it a desirable investment. Not only is it a sound issue, but it offers certain desirable features in the way of profit-sharing which will appeal to investors who desire a chance to make money through an appreciation in price.

The business is a long-established, growing one. It includes such outstanding newspapers as New York Evening Journal, Chicago Evening American, Detroit Times, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Oakland Post-Enquirer, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Herald, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, together with the great American Weekly.

WELL DIVERSIFIED

Thus it is territorially well diversified. It centers in the great metropolitan areas, and may logically be expected to grow with them.

Incidentally, there are valuable tangible assets in the shape of real estate and equipment. The plants of these companies are modern, and most of them quite new.

Speaking of growth, the figures for the past four years show an uninterrupted increase in gross revenues from $64,264,000 in 1926 to $85,273,000 in 1929.

The preferred stock is "preferred," both as to earnings and assets (in case of dissolution).

CUMULATIVE

It is "cumulative," which means that if a dividend were ever passed, that amount would remain payable. Nothing can go to the common stock until all dividends are fully paid on the preferred.

But it seems very improbable that this safeguard will ever be needed, because the preferred dividend is only a small part of total net earnings. The net increased from $10,000,000 in 1926 to $12,854,000 in 1929. It has averaged well over three times the requirements for preferred dividends.

In addition to safety, there is the chance to share in any extra earnings. After the common stock gets $1.75 a share, the preferred stockholders share with them in any additional dividends, up to 3 per cent a share. This feature is attractive. If the business continues to grow and prosper, the preferred stockholders may find themselves getting a good deal more than 7 per cent.

SEES HIGHER VALUE

The bare chance of this will give a higher market value to the preferred stock.

Similar 7 per cent preferred stocks are now selling between 110 and 120 and yield only about 5.7 to 6 per cent. The new Hearst issue is being brought out at par ($25) and this yields 7 per cent. I can see no reason why it should not correspondingly sell above 30—perhaps up to 35.

Note, too, that this issue is being offered to Hearst employes. A company does not sell stock to employes unless it is good, and most such stocks have been very good. This together with the fact that the stock comes out during a period of deflation, makes me think that the terms have been made very fair and attractive.

STOCK QUERIES ANSWERED

In this column questions submitted to the Boston Evening American Stock Fraud Bureau are answered daily. More than one person asks about various stocks, so read this column carefully, as your inquiry may be answered under the initials of another.

E. G., Lawrence—Motion Picture Producing Co. of America stock was banned in New York in 1924. The stock has no value.

E. L., Roxbury—There seems to be no market for Altex Petroleum Company.

E. T. C., Roslindale—Consolidated Factors Inc. is in charge of trustees appointed by the Federal court and is now under investigation.

WALTER J. MARANVILLE WARD E. MARANVILLE

FATHER OF WALTER J. "RABBIT" MARANVILLE dies in Springfield, where he was retired from the police force a month ago after many years service. Thousands saw him when he attended Maranville Day festivities at Braves Field last Saturday when he witnessed the great triumph of the famous shortstop of the Boston Nationals.

DO-X READY FOR NEW TESTS

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Universal Service Special Cable

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

Friedrichshafen, Aug. 1—With Germany's smallest airplane, that being used by Hirth and Weller on their flight to Chicago, now ready to span the Atlantic from the Orkney Islands via Iceland, the Reich's and the world's largest plane will emerge from her hangar today with a new "American engine face."

The DO-X has now been fitted with 12 American Curtis Conqueror motors, and will be shown with her new power unit today for the first time when she leaves the Dornier airplane works, on the Swiss side of Lake Constance, preparatory to the trial flights that must precede the air giant's coming transatlantic flight to New York.

The little German Klemm monoplane, with a single 40-horsepower motor with which Wolfgang Hirth and Oscar Weller are preparing to fly from the Orkneys to Iceland, weighs scarcely half a ton. The Dornier DO-X, with its 12 motors aggregating 7200-horsepower, and with 20 tons of gasoline, its crew and equipment, will weigh 53 tons when it takes off from Lisbon, probably on September 8.

The 12 propellers of the DO-X were attached yesterday.

After the plane leaves the hangar today, there will be tests of each of the 12 motors with the craft standing still. The first test flight will be taken either tomorrow or Monday.

MARANVILLE'S FATHER DEAD

Springfield, Aug. 1—Ward E. Maranville, second oldest member of the Springfield police department and father of Walter J. "Rabbit" Maranville, shortstop of the Boston Braves, is dead at his home, 61 Cass st., here. He was 72 years old.

A "Maranville Day" at the Boston Braves game last Saturday was the last public appearance of the baseball star's father. He attended the festivities and had the privilege of seeing his son come in for public recognition. The patrolman had retired from active service a month ago because of failing health.

Legion Plans First Aid Demonstrations

Arrangements for the most ambitious program of first-aid ever scheduled for a Boston convention have been made by the first-aid committee for the annual national convention of the American Legion, to be held here in October.

Dr. William J. Dwyer, the chairman, anticipates recruiting a large staff from Legionnaires and others who have taken first-aid courses, especially those who have been in medical corps units of the war or of the National Guard. Three large first-aid stations will be maintained throughout the convention.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of those who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PRESENTING

PHILCO

TONE-CONTROL

PHILCO again steals a march on the radio industry and announces a remarkable improvement in radio reception—CONTROL OF STATION TONE—operated by YOU.

Now, sitting quietly in your own home listening perhaps to the music of the great Philco Symphony Orchestra—or entertaining your guests with the liveliest of dance bands, you can bring in the music the way YOU like it, by the turn of a knob on the front of the set.

Classical music, great singers, famous artists can be heard the way YOU have always longed to hear them, with rich, full sonority perhaps, or again you may like your tone as brilliant as a brass band. You can have either, or BOTH, with Philco Tone Control. Again, you may like your favorite dance orchestra bright, crisp, snappy or mellowed down to match the changing mood of a party. Both are yours now, with this wonder-working device.

Speaking voices, momentous messages from our public men, can be brought in with a realism only surpassed by their actual presence. And finally, for the radio stations which come in harshly or accompanied by crackles and buzzes from interfering electrical apparatus in your particular section, you can subdue the stridency and noise and enjoy many additional fine programs.

It is the four positions of TONE CONTROL on the new Philco Radios which give you these marvels. At a mere turn of the knob you have reception which is "brilliant"—"bright"—"mellow"—"deep."

Each and every Philco has balanced units which produce the true, clear, UNDISTORTED Philco tone—new, exclusive circuits of great selectivity—wonderful distance range and power—reduction of static and background noises—new, improved electro-dynamic speaker, and a new Station Recording Dial on which you can permanently log your favorite stations.

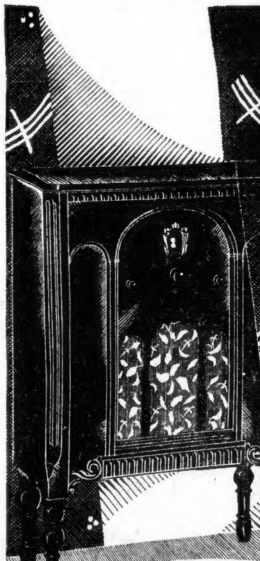
The Philco Screen Grid Plus has, in addition, AUTOMATIC VOLUME CONTROL, which counteracts fading, so you can not only get, but HOLD and ENJOY, distant programs—enormous power, built-in aerial—a super-radio for those who want EXTRA performance.

These new instruments are housed in beautiful cabinets—furniture of which you can be proud, priced from $95 to 198 (Radio-Phonograph). Philco Radios are available for operation on AC or DC electric current, or by battery. Ask your nearest Philco dealer for a free demonstration of Philco Tone Control today. No obligation, of course, and easy terms when you decide to buy.

Philco Tone-Control

BRILLIANT · BRIGHT · MELLOW · DEEP

You can turn the Philco Tone Control to these four positions of TONE QUALITY. You can change speech or music to suit your taste. You have a PERSONAL CONTROL over the tone sent you by the station. You operate it yourself with this knob on the front of the set and vastly increase your sphere of radio entertainment. It is truly "radio's newest miracle."



SCREEN GRID LOWBOY

Annual Driftwood Club Event Is Attraction at Samuel G. Mixter Estate

SOCIETY TODAY SMILES upon the annual Driftwood Club Fair, gayest event of the season on Peach's Point, Marblehead. The beautiful grounds of the Samuel G. Mixter estate have been transformed into a fairyland of artistic decorations for the largest fair the club has ever held, and one which eclipses all previous efforts to benefit the Children's Island Sanitarium. Miss Peggy Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Preston Rice, is manager of the fair, and Miss Janet Eustis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eustis, is secretary and treasurer. The special object of the fair this year is to raise funds to purchase another sand box for the children at the sanitarium. Moving pictures are being shown at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rice, and tea served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Little, both estates adjoining the "fair grounds."

THE TOPIC ON EVERY tongue today seems to be race week in Marblehead waters, August 9-16. Elaborate plans have been made for this brilliant water classic which is to be this year the feature of Marblehead's tercentenary celebration, and the occasion for a constant round of festivities. Yachts are returning from vacation criuses almost every day in anticipation of race week and almost 300 entries have already been received for the events. Among the forest of spars in the harbor will be Secretary of the Navy Adams' boat, The Bat, conditioned for the races. The Eastern Yacht Club is to direct the first three days' events, the Boston Yacht Club has the fourth day and the Corinthian the remaining three days. The Eastern will be the scene of a ball and of many smart dinner parties during the week. Every home is preparing to entertain race week visitors. Among the early arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dewey Everett, formerly of Milton, now of Rye, N. Y., who are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel G. Mixter at Peach's Point.

Bridge Is Planned at Beverly Farms Estate August 7

UNDER THE TWINKLING lights on the terrace of Pinewood, at Beverly Farms, the elite of the North Shore colony will gather on the evening of August 7 for a smart bridge party. Thus will sweet charity be generously served following the fair in aid of St. John's Church on the same day. Mrs. Robert S. Bradley, chairman of the fair committee, is hostess for the party at her magnificent estate. Entrance to the grounds will be from the Pride's Crossing gate. Proceeds of the bridge are to swell the day's receipts for the church.

MEMBERS OF THE MYOPIA, Essex County, Montserrat and Beach Clubs and their guests have one more day before entry lists close for the annual tennis tournaments of the Beach Club at Magnolia. The plays begin Monday with a large field divided into two groups of players, juniors and seniors. The star performers who will compete include Virginia and Priscilla Phelan, Ralph Pope, Anne Burnett, Ann Howard, Polly Morrill, Eleanor Swift, Edward Hall, Parkman Denny and Benjamin Bradlee of Manchester; Marie O'Connell of Nahant, Barbara Brewer, Elizabeth McKean and Henry Goodhue of Beverly Farms; Mary Ann and Frederick Lippitt and John Cutler of Beverly. Silver cups wil lbe awarded first and second prize winners by the Beach Club.

Smart Society Dresser

HANDSOME MRS. THOMAS J. PROCTOR, JR., of Hamilton, is an ornament to any social gathering. She is considered one of the smartest dressers in the North Shore colony.

Debutantes Busy With Plans for Their Bows in Early Fall

ONE OF THE EARLY FALL presentations will be that of Miss Elizabeth Stephenson, for whom her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. C. Stephenson of Brookline, are planning a tea dance for October 29 at their home on Edgehille rd. Miss Stephenson is being entertained by friends on the North Shore this summer. Miss Mary Proctor, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Proctor of Milton, is to have her coming out party on November 15. Plans for a sojourn abroad were abandoned by the Proctors because of illness in the family.

TODAY OCCURS THE ANNUAL food sale in aid of the Beverly Anti-Tuberculosis Society, with a large coterie of socially important matrons assisting. The sale is taking place on the grounds of the Kendall estate at Pride's Crossing where sub-debs are serving as waitresses. Mrs. Augustus P. Loring and Mrs. Lloyd Nichols are in charge, with members of the Health Center Board.

FAIR EQUESTRIENNES ON the South Shore are on the qui vive today as final plans for the Cohasset Horse Show at the Bancroft place reveal the scope of the exhibition. The show is to be held on August 22 and 23 with many valuable prizes and a large entry list. Miss Mary McElwain and Miss Jane Bancroft will be among those taking the high jumps and Miss Virginia Tolman, Miss Lillian Davidson and Helen Davidson are in the saddle classes. Constance Matlass is also showing her pony this year. Hugh Bancroft is in general charge of arrangements.

Wife Speaker at Rally for Draper

Stoughton, Aug. 1—Former State Treasurer James Jackson and Mrs. Eben S. Draper were the principal speakers at a meeting of Republican women, held yesterday at the William Otis Faxon estate in the interests of Eben S. Draper, of Hopedale, candidate for Republican nomination as United States Senator.

Mrs. Draper said that her husband's youth and past accomplishments qualified him for the office.

ADAMS SQ. LOOKED LIKE THIS half a century ago. Poor Samuel Adams' statue is moved to Faneuil Hall sq., all in the march of progress or the automobile. The horse car, coming out of Cornhill, ran to the Old Colony and Albany depots and to City Point, while the other ran from the Eastern, Lowell and Fitchburg depot to the south. The depots, as well as the cars, are but memories. At the right is the Leopold-Morse store, back of it the then proud Quincy House. At the left corner of Cornhill is a new building housing the Iver Johnson firm.

Heads State Forest Gift Committee

Mrs. Robert Parmenter Will Direct Federation's Plans for Memorial

By NANCY BREWSTER

And now the clubwomen of the Commonwealth will know who is to pursue to completion the State memorial forest, the tercentenary gift of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs to the State.

Appointment of Mrs. Robert Parmenter of Arlington, as chairman of the committee on conservation for the federation, is hailed by the 150,000 Massachusetts clubwomen. As a member of Mrs. Daniel M. Goodridge's committee for the last three years, Mrs. Parmenter distinguished herself along conservation lines, proving of considerable value to the chairman.

That she has taken up the reins alone, gives promise to great achievements. It was Mrs. Goodridge's brain-child, this idea of a State forest as a gift of Bay State clubwomen and a memorial to their movement and progress. Endorsed by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the parent body, the project was given hearty support and added impetus when Mrs. John F. Sippel, president, personally hailed the plan.

Mrs. Azel A. Packard, retired state president and Massachusetts director in the General Federation, urged the affiliated clubs to support the project and at this date the project is assured of success. An early fall announcement of the location of the forest and the date of its dedication is anticipated.

It is to be as Mrs. Goodridge described it some time past "Sanctuary for the home of lovely living things in one corner of Nature's Garden."

Mrs. Harding Will Direct Federation Extension in State

Mrs. Herman Harding, newly elected fourth vice-president of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, who comes from "way down on the Cape," will have Mrs. John H. Kimball's job, that of federation extension. Mrs. Kimball is now third vice-president of the State body.

Federation extension, although particularly concerned with the spread of federation activities through rural areas with special attraction for the rural woman, is not so limited in Massachusetts. Rural activities in this State are not what the General Federation hold them to be, that of the farm women.

Hence federation extension as Mrs. Harding will preach the gospel, will be a goodwill message to clubs all over the State from the parent group.

General Federation Stresses Influence of All Clubwomen

Inspirational messages are ever reaching the ears of clubwomen all over the country from the president of the General Federation, Mrs. John F. Sippel.

In her most recent words, she says that it is vital that women "realize the influence which we exert silently, unintentionally, may be transformed into service of inestimable value to the community, advancing women to positions of leadership, making possible in countless ways better communities and a larger measure of the good things of life for a larger number of citizens of all communities."

In two ways does Mrs. Sippel explain this influence:

"It must be increasingly evident to us all, that this great power should function in shaping the policies of production of motion pictures and radio programs, for the wholesome entertainment, education, moral uplift and unfailing inspiration of our children."

Y. W. C. A. Official to Spend Vacation at Vineyard Haven

Miss Leete fulfils the duties assumed this past month by Miss Helen Libby, who has been serving as program counselor.

Organdie Revived to First Place

By ANN ARDEN

(ANN ARDEN broadcasts latest style news over WHDH every Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a. m.)

ORGANDIES HAVE certainly received a diploma for outstanding chic this year. They are utterly intriguing. Such a diversity of styling! They are as charming in sophisticated guise as in the more naive. Two quite different types of organdies were found chatting to each other in one group recently. One was made with a simple bodice belted with a velvet ribbon from beneath which a voluminous skirt flared forth. The dress was a delicate pink with great splashes of brightly colored flowers appliqued on the skirt. Short sleeves were animated by crisp flaring ruffles.

* * *

A HUGE sheer straw, in matching shade, was worn with this. And the shoes had been dyed in one of the bright tones of the flowers. The other frock was worn by a well-known actress. It was in a pale blue shade. The bodice had a fichu-like collar which joined a short peplum. Both collar and peplum were embroidered in white daisies. The skirt, unlike that of her companion, flared way below the high waistline. Contrasting colored mitts and slippers added interest.

* * *

THE FORMAL frock pictured is the sort that will be found at least once in every chic young person's wardrobe. It is a Norman Hartnell model. This young English designer, who has created such perfect frocks for European debutantes, now offers us an array of charming party costumes.

* * *

THIS MODEL is of flesh pink net and French organdie. Graduated ruffles of the organdie are applied flat to the full net skirt, topped by a shirred belt of the net, with big bow sash and long ends, in the newly revived bustle silhouette. The slim bodice is sleeveless, of net and organdie, accented by two bouquets of posies, "Bachelor Buttons," in shades of pink, backed in shiny green leaves.

* * *

* * *

WIDE BRIMMED hats of straw and dress materials are the darlings of this summer's mode. They are made to match the picturesqueness of garden party dresses, and it is possible to find the perfect complement for every frock of a sheer material. The most recent newcomers to the mode are batiste hats. A lovely white one with pleated band and flange poses at the brim edge a cluster of red currents, a tart accent to white.

Many Women Join Butler Organization for Fall Campaign

The "open house" opening of the women's division of the William M. Butler campaign headquarters at the Hotel Bellevue, with Mrs. Alfred B. Williams of Taunton in charge, is proving a considerable success.

The complete organization has, as yet, not been perfected, although many of the county and division chairmen have been named and appointed. Mrs. Williams, however, will announce the full woman's slate in about a week.

Among the first to be presented to Mr. and Mrs. Butler were Mrs. Hannah M. Brigham, Belmont; Louise B. Thompson, Boston; Mary M. Kimball, Boston; Katherine Murray, Salem; Mrs. Stephania Z. Lougee, Boston; Mrs. Jacob A. Shea, Worcester; Louise Keany, Boston; Miss A. Peppeard, Boston; Mrs. Charles C. Torrey, Newburyport; Mrs. W. H. Hulbert, Ipswich, Mrs. H. A. Flynn, Denver, Col.; Miss K. N. Waterhouse, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Fuldah M. Washburn, Taunton; Mrs. Cora B. Garniss, Taunton; Mrs. Mabel Manter, Taunton; Helen E. Williams, Fairhaven; Mrs. Laura B. Grammer, Fall River; Miss Mary E. Butler, Fall River; Mrs. Mary M. Blair, New Bedford; Mrs. J. D. McLaughlin, Dorchester; Sally Gaber, Allston; Eunice M. Pratt, Dorchester; Helen M. Reiliu, Boston; Winnifred Glennon, New Bedford.

THIN SLICES

THIN slices of Grandmother's Bread are dainty and delicious for sandwiches. And Grandmother's Bread does slice thin—without crumbling—because every step in its making is carefully watched by A & P's master bakers.

Starting with the best of materials, A & P's bakers combine them skillfully then bake them in ovens so controlled that each loaf is baked to perfection. That's why the crust is delicately brown, the texture of the loaf so firm and even, and why it tastes so good.

So A & P offers you—at seven cents—a full twenty ounce loaf of bread. A price and quality which make Grandmother's Bread the greatest seven cent food value today.

CUMMINGS MAY BE FOR PETERS

John J. Cummings, Boston lawyer and candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor today offered to withdraw from the race if former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald would also retire. Cummings said he would support former Mayor Andrew J. Peters.

An attack on Gov. Allen, Mayor Curley, Joseph B. Ely and Fitzgerald was contained in the Cummings statement. He charged Ely was being jockied into the gubernatorial candidacy and Fitzgerald into the senatorial because it was not to the interests of Mayor Curley to have a [illegible] Governor this year [illegible] Allen as [illegible] present governor.

German Fliers Take Off on Iceland Hop

Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, Aug. 1 (AP)—Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, Germany's transatlantic air adventurers, today hopped off from Kirkwall on their first overwater jump toward the American continent. Their immediate destination was Iceland.

2 GIRLS NAMED BY MRS. THAYER

Worcester, Aug. 1—Mrs. Jane M. Thayer is one up on her husband, Fred B. Thayer, wealthy retired mill owner of Grafton, today in their cross divorce suits which are developing new features of romance almost every week.

As it was in the beginning, Mrs. Thayer sought a divorce on the charges of cruelty and intoxication.

Thayer countered with a cross suit that astounded the county naming Albert Desjardin, the family chauffeur, as [illegible] having been too friendly with Mrs. Thayer.

And now Mrs. Thayer has received permission from Judge Frederick Chamberlain to amend her original petition to contain the names of two women with whom she alleges the old man was altogether too friendly.

They are Miss Catherine Murphy, a Worcester nurse, and Mrs. Anita Girouard, of Pawtucket, R. I. No dates are given by Mrs. Thayer, who says she prefers to wait until the suits come to trial Sept. 3.

Also pending in the tangled marital affairs of the Thayers is a $25,000 alienation suit brought by Thayer against Desjardin.

MacDonald Off to See Passion Play

DOUBLING for LOVE by WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Judy Finally Has a Talk With Kit

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Judith Archer is a country school teacher, 22, and good looking. She wants to be a college professor, while her mother would like her to go in the movies. But Judy lived a double life. She becomes interested in the story of a jewel robbery in London. She goes to New York and calls on Cap'n Charley Marceau. He suggests Judy and her mother take a trip with him. Judy returns home and on a spring evening takes a walk with Roy Varman, principal of her school. He kisses her—her first kiss. It enrages Judy but also opens a new line of thought. She takes passage on Capt. Charley's ship for her mother and herself and draws all her money from the bank. Judy finds herself looking for the radio operator with the sea-green eyes—but he does not remember her.

CHAPTER 9

"Hullo, there—"

Judy's look came jerking around. Away from the cloth of silver ocean to the glints in his green eyes, the half-enquiring, half-delighted grin that swept her up and down.

She had meant to forget Kit Camp, to be very cold and distant if ever he spoke. But now she found herself grinning back and blushing the cool touch of the wind.

"I say—didn't mean to frighten you. Aren't you the girl that came to see Capt. Marceau? I'm the sleepy-head he threw out—fellow he called Sparks."

Long at Sea
Kit Camp Talks

"You do remember me then!"

"Remember you! Rather! You're watching to see who puts the salt in the sea?"

Something very young, very winsome about his chuckle and his precise accent. For perhaps the first time in her contact with men Judy did not rear a defense—turn reserved and suspicious—and so he went on grinning at her as if they shared some delightful secret.

"You've been going to sea a long time?" she asked finally. "It must be wonderful—all change and adventure—"

He looked out over the sea, the glints in his eyes. A self-possessed young man. He would know what he wanted and fight till he got it. And he did not seem like one who would hunt rainbow ends.

"Adventure? I suppose so—hadn't thought of that. Things look about the same in time. Had a lot of experiences. Left home when I was 18. That's eight years ago."

He was 26. Yet he looked younger, he looked like an urchin somehow grown tall and broad. He would be over six feet and his shoulders were a football player's. His features were clean-cut and proud.

Settle Down
And Have Garden

"You'd like him even if he is a man!" tumbled into Judy's thought.

"Went to New Zealand first," he rambled along. "There's a little jaunt—to New Zealand. But I didn't like it. Then I tried Australia. The States are best."

"You've spent time in America?" Judy kept comparing the color of his eyes with the green of the sea, where it rolled in the shadow under the port rail. His skin was an odd tint, too; not quite bronze. It made you think of jade reflections in old ivory. She smiled at the fancy and he flashed his grin.

"America—oh, rather. Fancy New England, y'know—Connecticut. It's a little like home, do you see. One day I shall settle down there when I've had enough of this."

"Enough of the sea? But how could you?"

Jail Two Girls in Hub Drive on Reds

BOTH REFUSE TO PAY $20 FINES

While Communists mobilized in Boston for demonstration in celebration of International Red Day, police of Division 15 struck swiftly this morning, arresting two girls for distributing handbills without permit.

Grace Oakes, 20, and Mary Page, 23, both giving 345 Charles st. as their address, were taken into custody by Lieut. Jeremiah Riordon and Officer Joseph Normile, at Charlestown bridge.

The girls were stationed, one at each end of the bridge, passing out bills calling on workers to attend an anti-war demonstration at the Parkman Bandstand, at 6 p. m.

In Charlestown court, Mary Page said it was her first appearance, but was confronted with a record showing several arrests. The girls were fined $20 each, but both said they would not pay, and were sentenced to Charles st. jail.

Meantime although Supt. of Police Michael H. Crowley said he would issue no general order dealing with the Communists, it was learned police were prepared for any emergency.

Special details were held in each station house where trouble might be expected. Capt. Louis Lutz, departmental drill master, his assistant Thomas Cavanaugh and Officer Edward Seibert, amorer, were busy at headquarters.

Instead of going to the Wakefield range to instruct members of the department in small arms marksmanship, they were held at the police armory in readiness for any call.

"There have been no special detail orders sent out," said Supt. Crowley.

"Capt. Jeremiah Gallivan of Division 4 will be in charge of the police detail at the demonstration tonight on the Common.

At Lagrange st. station Capt. Gallivan held all day officers and special men to cover the demonstration scheduled for the Common. This force is to be augmented by inspectors from the bureau of criminal investigation.

Machine and riot guns had been carefully examined and oiled at headquarters armory and the stock of tear bombs gone over.

Hit-Run Victim Dies in Hospital

Maurice L. Cohen, 50, of 129 Lowell st., Peabody, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by a hit-and-run automobile while changing a tire on his car on the Lynn marshes roadway, mid-way between Lynn and Revere. Cohen died a short time later, in Lynn Hospital.

Early today the police were without a clue to the identity of the driver of the car that struck Cohen. The latter was the proprietor of a gasoline station at 34 Central st., Peabody.

Bathing Suits Stolen

The Waltham police are looking for a bathing suit thief who entered the yard of John Collins at 16 Central st. and appropriated five bathing suits of various sizes and colors from a clothes line.

Injunction Denied in Waltham Suit

The petition of the City of Waltham for an injunction restraining the Waltham Bleachery & Dye Works and the Boston Manufacturing Company from diverting the waters of the Charles river was denied by Judge Henry T. Lummus in Suffolk Superior Court yesterday.

The court ruled that the companies "owed no duty" to the owners of upper riparian rights.

It was alleged that the flow of water over the companies' dams had reduced the level of the river to such an extent that health was threatened and the city's river carnival on August 12 might be ruined.

Tableaux to Show Signal Systems

How messages have been transmitted down through the ages will be pictured tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the tercentenary tribune on the Common in the pageants and concert which have been arranged by the Boston tercentenary committee.

Seven tableaux, directed by George H. Beaulieu of the Community Service, will portray the early Greek Marathon, the Indian smoke signal, Benjamin Franklin's electrical devices, Bell's telephone, Edison's light, and the radio. Stars of WEEI broadcasting station will provide music for the tableaux as well as a special concert.

WIFE, 20, DEAD OF POISON

Mrs. Caroline Austin of 78 Allston st., Cambridge, who would have been 20 years old tomorrow, died today at Cambridge City hospital after drinking a quantity of an inhaling preparation.

According to Capt. John J. Canney of the Central sq. police division, she was a suicide. Medical Examiner David C. Dow is making an investigation. Friends said the young wife had been despondent.

The remainder of the poison, which Patrolman J. J. Morrison carried to the police station in a vial in his pocket, leaked out, and besides burning a hole in his clothes, badly seared his leg, requiring hospital treatment.

The girl's moans awakened her husband, Ira B. Austin, and Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson, lodgers in the same house.

Plan Pageant Aug. 11

The date of the Tercentenary pageant to be presented on Waltham Common by the children of the playgrounds has been set for Monday, August 11.

Fiedler Improves After Collapse

Arthur Fiedler, Esplanade orchestra conductor, is resting comfortably following his sudden indisposition in the midst of the concert, last night. According to his managers, the illness is not serious and resulted from fatigue. They say he will be able to resume his duties today.

CHECK FIRE AT ARMY BASE

The drydock pier at the army base, South Boston, was threatened by fire today when debris from Old Ironsides piled in a nearby field was set ablaze.

Heavy timbers and other refuse dried by age and piled high had been purposely started burning and 10 minutes later the flames were licking up the creosoted posts supporting the pier at the land end.

A fireboat was called on a still alarm, put out the fire beneath the pier and held the dump blaze in check until it burned itself out.

School Milk Bids Limited

The Waltham school committee has voted to limit bidding for the school milk supply contract to Waltham dairymen.

$100 Weekly for News Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston American offers the opportunity. Every week $100 in prizes will be given for news tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip.

There will be $25 given weekly for the best, first exclusive news tip received, $15 for the next best, $10 for the next best and $2 prizes for each of the 25 next most valuable tips. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

ANNUAL RACES OF AMERICAN IN CHARLES RIVER BASIN

Entries Already Pouring in; Events to Include Dashes and Distance Swims

Mermaids, ahoy!

The Boston Evening American's 17th amateur swimming races for women and girls will take place in the Charles River Basin Saturday, August 23, at 2 p. m.

These races will include the New England A. A. A. U. one mile championship for women.

There will also be a fancy diving event from a 10-foot board, each entrant to do eight dives, three of which must be front, back and front jack knife dives.

Among the first entrants are Margaret Lynch, 17, of 10 Russell st., Cambridge; Mildred Toomey, 16, of 30 Carney st., Charlestown; Lillian Davis, 14, of 11 Burget ave., Medford, and Betty Chapman, 14, of 12 Chauncy st., Watertown.

ALL ARE EXPERTS

Miss Chapman is the junior 440-yards champion of New England, and Miss Davis is the junior 880-yards champion, while the Cambridge girl is a former junior 50-yards champion. Miss Toomey is a very speedy swimmer and will be seen in the 100-yard and 200-yard breaststroke races.

The thousands who have displayed interest in these races in the past will remember the three triumphs of Olive Holland, the Wollaston girl, and the victory of Delna Carlstrom of Worcester over Miss Holland and a bevy of other entrants in 1923.

Then came Ederle the great—the same Gertrude Ederle who later swam the English Channel—with a sensational triumph over both these past victors and other leading favorites.

ENTRY BLANK IN PAPER

Gone from swimming competition are most of the stars of past years, but some remain, and a new crop of younger experts have come to the fore [illegible] and to [illegible] out the records now standing. Enough of the old favorites are sure to be in the running to please the spectators of bygone days.

Entry forms are being widely distributed by H. Bradlee Fenno of the Boston Swimming Association, but an entry blank is printed in this edition of the Boston Evening American for the convenience of those who are unable to secure the regular pink blank.

Every entrant must be a registered amateur, as this meet is sanctioned by the New England A. A. A. U. Get your registration number from J. Frank Facey, 36 Prospect [illegible] before you enter.

Entries close Aug. 16 at 3 p. m. with H. Bradlee Fenno of the Boston Swimming Association, 60 State st., room 727, Boston; telephone, Hubbard 5427.

MANY PRIZES OFFERED

Each entrant is limited to three events. Three prizes will be given in each event and for the mile swim there will also be medals for girls finishing in places fourth to eighth.

The events are as follows:

N. E. A. A. A. U. mile championship; 880 yards free style open; 220 yards backstroke open; 220 yards breaststroke open; 100 yards free style open; 50 yards free style for girls under 14 years of age; 100 yards free style, novice, for girls who never won a prize in free style events; fancy diving.

CURLEY HAPPY OVER END OF 6-YEAR LIGHT RATE FIGHT OF CITY

STREET LIGHT CUT NOW SOUGHT

Mayor Declares That $70,000 Spent by Hub for Counsel Was Good Investment

Praise for the Public Utilities Commission for reducing rates of the Edison Illuminating Co. from 8½ to 7½ cents per kilowatt hour, was given today by Mayor Curley.

The reduction in rates [illegible] resulted today in stock of the Edison company dropping $5 a share to 257 in trading on the Boston Stock Exchange.

The dip down, however, was short lived, as sales after the opening were quoted between 257 and 260. The cut in rates will still enable the company to earn $12 a share, in belief of the Public Utilities Commission.

In praising the reduction, Mayor Curley said:

CURLEY PLEASED

"During the past six years the city of Boston has spent nearly $70,000 for the services of counsel and public utility experts in bringing about such action, and I feel that it was money well spent.

"The reduction will, to some extent, help alleviate the burden now being borne by the people of this city who are at the present time suffering from a serious business depression and unemployment. The small user of electricity cannot afford to bear the expense of seeking a reduction in electric light rates and must depend upon the public authorities to take up the cudgel of such a fight in their behalf.

"I was hopeful that the commission might also grant a reduction in rates for street lighting, as in my opinion these rates at the present time are excessive. I have instructed the corporation counsel to consider the advisability of taking further action in the near future with a view to securing a reduction in these rates.

MUST CONSIDER PUBLIC

"While I believe in encouraging industry, and in giving every opportunity to public utilities to earn a fair return on the money invested in them by stockholders, nevertheless these public utilities must give consideration to the great body of the public who make possible the success of these organizations.

"I believe that the Edison Co., despite the reduction ordered by the public utilities commission, is in a position to earn a fair return for its stockholders."

Edison Co. officials said that the average family's bill for electricity is $24 a year. This includes apartments and small residences. On this basis at 8½ cents per kilowatt hour, the average family has been using about 282 kilowatts of current a year. At 7½ cents the bill would be about $21.15, so that the "average family" served by the Edison Co. will save about $2.85 yearly under the new rates.

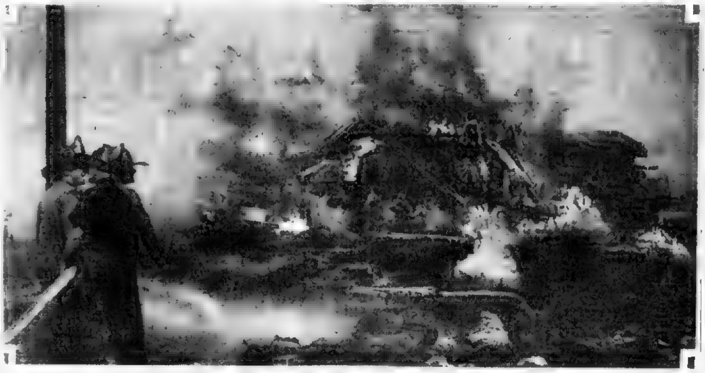
"Ironsides" Debris Fire Threatens Dry Dock Pier



OLD TIMBERS and other debris removed from the frigate Constitution when she was at South Boston army base to step her masts recently were set afire to get rid of them today in a field adjacent to the drydock pier. The flames spread to the underpinning of the pier. A fireboat, Engine 39, was called on a still alarm, put out the blaze beneath the pier and held the "dump" fire in check. (Staff photo.)

PLAN TO WIDEN CAPE COD CANAL

Widening of Cape Cod canal to take care of increased ship traffic was urged today by a group of about 60 shippers at a hearing before U. S. engineers at the Customs House.

Other recommendations made included:

Increasing the depth to 30 feet to handle larger vessels.

Changing the canal to a "two-way lane, so that more than one ship at a time may be handled.

Installing a dock at either end or in the middle, so that steamers may debark freight and passengers headed for the Cape Cod summer resorts.

The hearing was before Col. L. S. A. Cheney, district U. S. engineer. The purpose was to learn the recommendations of shippers who use the canal so that Congress may consider legislation.

The Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce sent a large delegation which was especially interested in having a change in the bridge system. The present bridges are often held up for traffic when ships are in the canal causing long lines of automobiles to wait, they said.

English Guest for Waltham Carnival

Mayor Patrick J. Duane of Waltham today received word that John Franklin, chairman of the urban council of Waltham Cross, England, has accepted an invitation to attend the river carnival at Waltham, Aug. 12.

Mr. Franklin is expected to arrive in Boston on the S. S. Carmania on Aug. 9.

Kicks Because Geo. Washington Is Actor

The ways of the Tercentenary float parade directors are long and winding and beset by many thorns.

A. L. Vollman, pageant committee director, who was forced by public protest to relinquish his ruling barring all save brunettes from competing in the "Miss Massachusetts" contest, was assailed today for having chosen a "professional" George Washington.

Last Wednesday the Tercentenary committee in charge of the float parade on Sept. 15 and 17, selected James Horne of Hammond st., Allston to portray Washington on a float depicting the Continental army, Cambridge elm episode in American history.

Horne has been an actor for 35 years and 20 years ago took the part of Washington in a New York pageant.

Today Vollman received a letter signed by L. F. Deane of 109 Otis st., Medford, which read in part:

"Now Mr. Vollman, don't you think it would show a much better spirit if you selected a man to portray George Washington who has a more local background? And someone who is an amateur rather than a professional as is Mr. Horne? Mr. Horne has been on the stage a number of years and I think it would be a fine gesture if you and your committee should select some other local man and keep professionalism out of this historical revue."

Vollman doesn't know what to do about it.

PLAN DRY RAID SCHOOL IN HUB

Back from Washington and a session, together with other division directors, with the new chief, Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director, Rev. Jonathan Lewis, dry director for New England, prepared today to open a school for his agents.

The school, one of the many to be opened throughout the country under orders of Director Woodcock, will open in Boston, October 6, and will consist mainly of lectures on criminal investigation, the Constitution and the law.

The Boston school and the others will be in charge of specially trained instructors.

The whole war plan of the new dry army is shaped about the attempt to smash the large scale commercial liquor traffic.

TROLLEY RUNS OVER WOMAN

Falling under a Boston Elevated trolley car at the Arlington station of the Boylston st. subway, Elizabeth Barry, about 50 years old, of Beacon st., Back Bay, was critically injured today.

Cornelius Callahan, motorman of the car, which was en route to Brookline, reported seeing her falling toward the car as he was passing through the station. He made a quick stop.

The car was jacked up by Patrolman Louis Niederberger, Callahan and other Elevated employes and the bruised form of the woman, who was unconscious, removed from under the rear truck.

Somerville Police Have Big Shake-up

Boys Seized After Theft Held in $500

His suspicions aroused by an automobile parked in the estate of Samuel Bennett on South st., yesterday, Special Officer [illegible] of Refuse entered the grounds and captured two youths alleged to have been making off with loot after breaking into the house.

In Waltham District Court the pair were held in $500 each for hearing August 5. One of the youths, who owned the automobile, 19, of River st., West Newton. The other was a juvenile, 15 years of age.

Playmates Act as Boy's Pall Bearers

Classmates and playmates today acted as honorary escort and pall bearers at the funeral of Charles J. McAvoy, [illegible] son of Patrolman and Mrs. Charles H. McAvoy of 36 Aberdeen rd., West Somerville. The boy, who was a favorite in his neighborhood, died Wednesday following an operation for appendicitis.

St. Catherine's Church, Spring Hill was thronged for the services.

ALLEN'S CAR IS FIRST TESTED

The New England wide Save-a-Life campaign officially got under way today, opening in Massachusetts with the compulsory inspection of safety equipment on automobiles.

Some 1200 authorized automobile inspection stations throughout the State including about 250 in Greater Boston are prepared for the rush of thousands of motorists.

ADD TO STATIONS

Governor Allen's limousine, which bears the registration plate, "S 1," was one of the first cars to be inspected by officials of the registry at the opening of the inspection in the "Save a Life" campaign. The car was approved by Inspectors J. J. Shea and F. B. Culbertson under the arch at the State House.

At Commonwealth Pier the registry of motor vehicles still is adding to the lists of authorized stations where the car owners or truck owners may have their machines checked and approved.

The postoffice has agreed to clear all mail matter from the registry to inspection stations promptly and there will be no delay in authorizing new stations in every part of the State, it was asserted last night.

POLICE CO-OPERATING

The lists to date showing where cars may be taken for the compulsory tests were announced for many places at that time with the information that there will be additional stations added daily.

State police and the authorities of individual communities throughout the State will co-operate with Registry of Motor Vehicles inspectors during the campaign.

Woman Minister Run Over by Auto

Mrs. Ida Vossema, wife of the Rev. Hendrik Vossema, pastor of the Forest St. Universalist Church, Medford, and herself an ordained minister, fell and was run over by an automobile a short distance from the parsonage today.

Mrs. Vossema was crossing Forest st. at Medford sq. when she stumbled and fell, the wheels of a light roadster passing over both legs. She was taken home where it was said her injuries were not serious.

BOSTON, ENG., MAYOR NOT IN NEED OF CASH

Writes Curley That the Mayoress' Health, Not Lack of Funds, Prevents Hub Visit

Rueben Salter, mayor of Boston, England, in a letter to Mayor Curley today, denied he is in financial difficulty and unable to defray the expenses of the visit of the Mayoress to this city for the Tercentenary celebration in September.

"The Mayoress has decided not to go over the water on account of her health and that alone," he wrote. "She is afraid she would be ill all the journey. If she would go with me, I would gladly pay her expenses and certainly would not accept such from anybody else. My good lady is very much annoyed at the suggestion that we want assistance to come and see you, but really it has tickled me immensely to read of the efforts made to meet the situation."

Mrs. Robert F. Herrick of 25 Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, who was among the numerous persons told that Mrs. Salter would be unable to visit Boston because of the expense incidental to her visit, forwarded a check for $500 to assist the Englishwoman. Both the mayor and Mrs. Herrick were surprised to learn that assistance was not needed and that reports that the Salters had encountered financial difficulties were untrue.

SHOCK FATAL TO J. F. COLEMAN

John F. Coleman, construction engineer, who has handled many major projects in Boston, died early today at his Sharon home at the age of 59.

Coleman suffered a shock yesterday at the Southampton st. yards of the Coleman Disposal Co., of which he was head.

He was rushed to his home and was treated by Dr. Thomas O'Brien of the Back Bay, but died at 1 a. m.

Coleman Bros., Inc., which he also headed, has handled vast projects in its career, many of them of a national scope.

Recently the engineer had been supervising the construction of the Congress st. bridge and the new office building of the Metropolitan district commission.

He had the distinction of taking some part in the construction of all Boston tunnels and subways.

He was a member of the City Club, Engineers' Club, the Boston Athletic Association and James F. Hayes Council, Knights of Columbus. His estate on Norwood st., Sharon, is considered one of the show places of that section.

Chain Store Robber Takes Only Bills

A fussy bandit, who couldn't be bothered with "chicken feed," curtly refused to take the silver from the cash register of a chain store at 371 Warren st., Roxbury, which he held up yesterday afternoon. He consented to pocket the $60 which Manager Patrick O'Hare handed over to him when he stuck a revolver in O'Hare's face and demanded the contents of the register.

The manager was alone in the store at the time. The bandit bought a package of cigarettes before he whipped out his gun, and after securing the bills, forced the manager into a rear room of the store. He then walked out of the store and escaped.

Prefer Jail to Fines

Boston communists demonstration on international anti-war day was marked by the arrest early today of Mary Page and Grace Oakes for distributing handbills without permit at the Charlestown bridge. In court they were fined $20 each, said they would not pay and were taken to Charles st. jail by Court Officer Edward L. Kirby. (Staff photo.)

STAR RIDER, 6, COMPETES

Outmaneuvering a field of nine brilliant riders, little golden haired Betty Smith of Roslindale scored an outstanding triumph and won the applause of the thousands of racing fans at the Charles River Speedway during the three-day Tercentenary meet held there.

The pretty six-year-old miss was victorious in the junior pony show. In the musical chairs event, Betty handled her mount in peerless fashion and received the applause of the fans modestly as she rode to the center of the ring to receive her trophy from Alan J. Wilson, president of the Metropolitan Driving Club.

Annual Reunion of Sheehan Family

The 11th annual reunion of the Sheehan family will be held at Vose's pond, Maynard, Sunday, August 3.

The day's program will begin with attendance at the 10:45 o'clock mass in St. Bridget's Church, Maynard. Following the mass a business session will be held. A feature of the program will be a baseball game between the Sheehans of the city and the Sheehans residing in rural districts.

Blind, but He Flies to Hub to Start His Vacation

Blind, but no novice at air travel, Isaac Futterman, 35, of Cambridge, flew from Boston airport to Springfield today on the new England & Western air express to start a three weeks' vacation.

Futterman has been flying at every opportunity for a year, finding keen pleasure in the sense of speed conveyed entirely by his hearing and balance. He said he hopes some day to fly across the country.

SHIPPING BOARD TO AID CITY'S PROBE OF ARMY BASE TERMINAL

MUCH WANTED INFORMATION AVAILABLE

The U. S. Shipping Board will co-operate in the official investigation of the army base terminal recently ordered by Mayor Curley, the Boston Port Authority today announced.

A letter to this effect was received at the authority office, saying the trustees of the Merchant Fleet Corp. of the Shipping Board, had instructed the corporation officers to assist in the mayor's probe.

James R. Gordon, president of the corporation, said that the Shipping Board would answer any special inquiries that the Port Authority might wish to ask. This statement I sregarded as significant, as the Boston authorities have been unable to obtain certain information sought during the past few months.

The Port Authority is expected to ask the Shipping Board for a copy of the report of an inspection of the Army Base Terminal made last February by the board

Another question is regarding the restaurant situation. Jerry Spinale, who has been given an order of eviction from his $16,000 building erected at the Base, has sent a letter to the Port Authority making charges against an official of the Shipping Board.

Spinale alleges that J. W. McCarthy, head of the terminal division of the board, has ordered the Bay State Shipping Company to make such eviction. The board will be asked if this is true.

Dorchester Man Trapped as Thief

A trap laid by Albert S. Smith, superintendent of buildings at Technology, to catch a thief who has been raiding the summer school buildings, resulted in the arrest yesterday afternoon of Thomas McKenna, 32, of Melvinside ter., Dorchester

Thefts have been reported almost daily at the summer school, according to the police. Yesterday Smith planted a coat over a chair in a vacant room and he and a janitor stood out of sight and watched. It is charged that McKenna came into the room and took the wallet

No Bus License Until Fares Drop

Selectmen of Reading, Wakefield, Andover, Wilmington and Tewksbury, at a meeting in Reading last night, voted that the Eastern Massachusetts Railway must lower rates, remove rails, and take down the poles before obtaining a permit to operate a bus line from Lawrence to Malden through the towns.

Another conference will be held on August 14, at which a representative of the railway company and a public utility representative will be present.

Newton Tax Rate Remains at $27.20

Mayor Sinclair Weeks announced yesterday that Newton's tax rate of $27.20 per $1000 of taxable property will be continued for 1930, although the city this year launched its most pretensive program of public building and street construction in a decade.

Newton's total real estate and personal property valuation was announced as $159,980,700, which, with a population of 65,000 residents, gives a per capita wealth of $2462, and again makes it the richest city in the state

Traveler Shoe Men See New Styles

When the managers of the Traveler Shoe Stores gathered in Worcester recently for their convention they saw the prevailing footwear fashions presented by living models who paraded along the meeting table, across which business plans were discussed. Store managers make their fall selections quickly and acurately without leaving their seats.

New Parking Street in Quincy Urged

An appropriation of $100,000 for building a parking street in the business district of Quincy will be urged by the merchants' parking committee of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, it was announced yesterday by Councilor John P. Flavin.

Plans will be presented at a special meeting of the council Monday night.

Thief Loots Car of Prosecutor's Aide

A thief forced his way into the [illegible] of Richard G. McCabe, assistant district-attorney of Middlesex County, in the rear of 33 Hancock st. Lexington, last night.

McCabe reported to the police that his wife's pockethook containing $15 had been taken from his auto, also his golf clubs, valued at $45.

Hamburg Steak for Lunch

PIECES of MEAT FED TO FLOWER by USE of TOOTHPICK

MEAT EATING PLANT HERE

A meat eating plant the natural diet of which is flies, spiders, mosquitoes and other insects, is owned by Joseph Cohen of Brookline

The plant, called the Chreesauphora Californica, or matre orchid is said to have been found in the wilds of Oregon but according to biologists its native habitat is tropical countries

If the plant fails to obtain enough insects to support the breath of life until the coming of the morn, it can be fed bits of hamburg steak on a toothpick, snapping at them daintily

It has even been known to lick at a child's finger, but this is believed to have been due to poor sense of smell rather than any predilection for human flesh

The plant attains a growth of two feet, and resembles a cobra, upraised, being a dull green color with a flat head and fangs or feelers. These feelers are crossed when the plant is hungry, and insects should taken warning, but apparently they fail to learn.

They are lured to their doom by a honey-sweet fluid with which the stalk is coated. Climbing up the stalk to get the honey, they fall into the yawning mouth and are devoured South American travelers have told of hearing the squeaks of expiring insects, sacrificed to keep the orchid alive

SUICIDE NOTE HAS POLICE BAFFLED

Quincy Salesman's Car and Letter Are Found in Beverly; Brief Cases Float in Ocean

An apparent suicide, but possibly a hoax or even a murder was revealed today with the discovery of a parked car and suicide note on Woodbury's beach, Beverly Cove.

An apparent suicide, but possibly a hoax or even a murder was revealed today with the discovery of a parked car and suicide note on Woodbury's beach, Beverly Cove

The automobile is the property of Fred V. Bell, 44, who left his home on Merrymount rd., Quincy, Monday, to drive to Manchester, N. H., on business, and did not return home

Within the car were Belyl's straw hat and a notebook paper slip upon which was written the unsigned message

"Tired and discouraged. Can't stand it. Forgive."

Missing fro mthe car is Bell's overnight bag. Other mysterious features were the discovery of his bathing suit, damp, on the rocks near Hospital Point and the finding of his two brief cases in the water 50 feet from shore

Added to those aspects was the statement by members of his family, which includes wife, two sons and mother-in-law, that he was in good health, cheerful and had nothing over which to be despondent

Costs Government $800 to Get Man

Deputy United States Marshal James F. Mahan left last night on a trip with a prisoner which will cost the government about $800, for he will deliver George L. Thumith of Medford to the federal authorities at Tacoma, Wash., where he is under indictment for alleged transportation of a stolen automobile from Oregon across the line into Washington

Mahan took a guard with him and will be gone about 10 days or two weeks. This is the longest trip taken by a member of Marshal Keville's force for some years. Mahan was boxing instructor at Camp Devens during the war

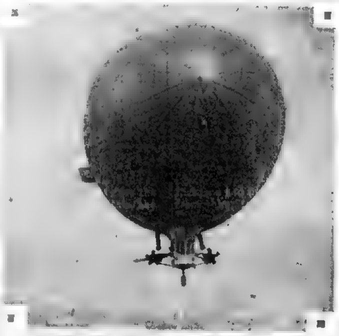
Bonds, Cash Stolen in Chelsea Home

Mrs. Pauline Zabarowski, Orange st., Chelsea, today reported to police that bonds, valued at $1569 $102 in cash, a bank book and several insurance papers were stolen from her home yesterday. She said a rag dealer was there and she left him alone for a few moments. However, she did not discover the theft until late last night.

Giantess and Baby of the Air Visit Hub

HER THIRD BOSTON VISIT within a fortnight was paid today by the Los Angeles, huge navy dirigible. She sailed from Newport, where she was moored last night. Yesterday she skirted the city. (I. N. R. photos.)

STORY ON PAGE 17.



BIG IN HER OWN RIGHT, but small when compared to the Los Angeles, the Goodyear blimp Mayflower also is Boston's air guest today. She set a record yesterday when she was the first lighter-than-air craft to ever take passengers from a ship at sea. The Mayflower landed on the deck of the Bremen and picked up three passengers, then sailed to New York.

Dorchester Pair Married Sunday

Although Mr. and Mrs John O'Connor are on their honeymoon friends of the couple only today made public today the wedding, which took place last Sunday at St. Margaret's Church, Dorchester. They were married by the Rev. Fr. Bradley. The bride was Miss Grace Brennick. Both reside at 6 Bellflower st.

Excursion to N. Y.

The New Haven railroad will run a special excursion coach train, leaving South Station for New York at 12 p. m. D. S. T. tomorrow. The train will arrive at the Grand Central terminal early Sunday. On the return trip the train leaves the Grand Central terminal at 11 25 p. m., D. S. T. Stops will be made at Providence both going and returning.

David Cohen

LET THE WATER FLOW. Interested citizens of Malden are sure that Malden children should have lots of water on hot days. Water with a kick in it, as Henry Ford has suggested. So we show you the spray, from a fire hydrant contraption. David Cohen is one of the many satisfied youngsters. Patrolman James F. McCarthy keeps everybody safe. (Staff photos.)

PROVIDE SPRAYS FOR KIDDIES

Mogul to Lansky to McCarthy a snappy double play that as Malden tots can testify. Not so easy to say as that famous diamond phrase Tinker to Evers to Chance but meaning much more to the Suffolk sq. youngsters

Abraham Mogul started it. He runs a hardware store in Suffolk sq., and he got to studying one day There were the hot kiddies and here was a garden spray nobody seemed to want in these days of backyards, given over mostly to garages and cement driveways

So Mogul saw Lansky and said "If you'll get me permission to use some city water out of that hydrant in front of my place I'll furnish the spray for a great shower bath for the kids."

Lansky got the water all right That's Samuel Lansky the alderman, you see, and like all city fathers he has a way with him.

And McCarthy, who was christened James F., comes into the picture because he has to keep traffic detoured every time Mogul turns on the spray for which Lansky is providing the water. So the tots around Suffolk sq. won't swelter in the dog days

SLIM SUMMERVILLE AND HARRY LANGDON IN FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1—The depression in business throughout the country has made comedies especially desirable as film entertainment. Bessie Love realized that when she accepted the feminine lead in "See America Thirst" with Slim Summerville and Harry Langdon playing the male leads.

Louella Parsons

Probably a year ago when the country was singing Bessie's praises in "Broadway Melody" she might have hesitated to take what is obviously broad farce. But today with Marie Dressler so sought after as a comedienne Bessie had the good sense to see what a picture of this kind could do for her with her public. People are craving to laugh and if Bessie can be a younger edition of Marie Dressler, she will have a success such as she hasn't had since the male "Broadway Melody." Harry Langdon, too, in comedy of this kind is sure to stage a come-back. As for Slim Summerville ever since he played in "All Quiet on the Western Front" he has had more jobs than one human being could fulfill, proving my contention that anyone who can make people laugh is valuable at this time.

Mitchell Lewis and Mathew Betz, who are well known as heavies, are also in this comedy. Others in the cast are Lloyd Whitlock, Sidney Fields and Richard Alexander. William J. Craft directs.

THE ROMANCE BETWEEN Clara Bow and Rex Bell is flourishing in spite of the heat and Harry Richman. Rex appeared on the Fox lot with his red hair dyed black and his eyebrows plucked a different boy from the cowboy the Fox company had signed. When questioned why this new makeup he said that Clara had suggested it.

Clara Bow

Rex Bell

"Tomorrow is Clara's birthday," he said, "so you won't see me all day. I'll be down at Malibu with her."

Clara, I am told, will have Laura Hope Crewes train her for her next picture. I hope it's true because she needs just the direction that Miss Crewes can give her. That means that Paramount will borrow Miss Crewes from Pathe for she is under contract to them and has been instrumental in helping Miss Swanson.

BOOKS, PLAYS and unpublished manuscripts have been [illegible] and [illegible] by [illegible] Eisenstein in an effort to get just the [illegible] for his first American picture. Eisenstein, out at his home in [illegible] shut himself up and [illegible] so [illegible] find a story that will best represent his ideas of a combination of [illegible] and [illegible] effect. So far [illegible] to Sutter's [illegible] known [illegible] found [illegible] a state and a nation. When I talked with Eisenstein he admitted the Western picture intrigued him. But why transplant a foreign director and put him to work making a typically American play?

* * *

IF YOU SAW Russell Hardie in the stage production of "The Criminal Code" you will remember him. He played the juvenile lead. The oft asked question of what is the best way to get into the movies for young ambitious players, is easily answered. A role well played on the local stage is sure to bring offers from film producers in search of talent. Russell Hardie has been signed for the part of the young [illegible] in the gambling resort in "The Dove." The story I am told has been changed somewhat in [illegible] of the [illegible] Caballero [illegible] Mexican playing the [illegible] he becomes the hero. And who better than Walter Huston could fill that part? Dolores [illegible] in the end gives her heart [illegible] Mexican Lothario and for [illegible] is the American boy in the new version of "The Dove" which United Artists is making.

* * *

HARRY COHN admits he simply cannot find a boy for the role of "Tol'able David." He has looked at hundreds of tests and he has had hundreds of letters from boys all over the country who want to play the part Richard Barthelmess created in the silent version. So far the picture is all ready to go with Joan Peers signed as leading lady but he is at a standstill until he can get the right boy. He had tests made of Tom Douglas, who made quite a hit in Hollywood playing opposite Elsie Ferguson in "Fata Morgana," but Mr. Douglas is not the type.

* * *

HAPPENINGS OF interest in Hollywood are the luncheons Frederick Lonsdale has with Irving Thalberg and the number of times he dines with Jesse Lasky. Both Paramount and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have been talking story to Lonsdale. He is apparently interested but what he wants is not a salary but a royalty. Few writers have ever been paid this way and it [illegible] precedent [illegible] Paramount [illegible] M-G-M [illegible] of Lonsdale's [illegible] Warner [illegible] for New York [illegible] brother Harry who [illegible] returned from Europe. There will be some new Warner Brothers plans hatched when they all get together.

I SEEM TO BE giving a lot of free and probably unnecessary advice these days but I do hope when Maurice Chevalier and his [illegible] go to Europe that Ernest Lubitsch will direct him again [illegible] Chevalier [illegible] will [illegible] visiting their relatives in Paris, renewing old acquaintances and attending to some business. Then they will be back here all set for the winter and ready to make pictures planned for the popular Maurice. And he is popular. In a vote today for male favorites he would come pretty near to winning the prize. Lubitsch's last picture, "Monte Carlo," was previewed a few nights ago and gave him new laurels. [illegible] these days, is living at the beach with Lothar Mendes and keeping bachelor quarters.

SNAPSHOTS OF Hollywood [illegible] and [illegible] June C[illegible] writing garden as [illegible] by [illegible] birthday party given by Mrs. Sigmund Romberg for her [illegible] Louise Fazenda in pink, [illegible] one of her few public appearances. Mrs. Romberg much admired in peach satin. Constance Bennett with two fever blis- ETAOINSHRDLU ters caused by a bad case of sunburn, and Colleen Moore arriving at the party with the Barney Glazers. Dolores Del Rio wearing black lace dancing with the attentive Cedric Gibbons. Sigmund Romberg cutting a huge birthday cake [illegible] by [illegible] Captain [illegible] [illegible] Owen [illegible] Viscount [illegible] friends Lilyan Tashman in a new red frock with coat to match. That's all today. So long until tomorrow!

JACK OAKIE OFFERS LAUGHS APLENTY IN MET FILM

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

JACK OAKIE CAN BE A WHOLE SHOW in himself. In witness whereof Paramount puts him on as "The Sap from Syracuse" and Mr. Oakie proceeds to tote the big burden of entertaining on his rather sturdy-looking shoulders. So the audience at the Metropolitan gets its laughs in liberal measure. Fortunately, it is midsummer when light fare goes fine. It is all farcical enough, with lots of wisecracking and with Mr. Oakie draining the last drop of humor out of his lines and "business."

* * *

Jack Oakie

AS OU KNOW, "The Sap From Syracuse" was a stage comedy. It deals with the funny mix-ups that come in [illegible] when the [illegible] home town who comes in for a small heritage. Practical jokesters find him ripe for the plucking; he sails for Europe, and they cause the word to get abroad that the tourist is a famous engineer traveling incognito. Miss Ginger Rogers is aboard ship, owner of mines in Macedonia. Without expert advice she is certain to be victimized; of all things she needs an engineer to lift her out of her slough of despond. So whom should she meet but Mr. Oakie? Right there on the saloon deck, kerplunk! they butt into each other. Complications ensue, in which the honest boob tries to explain he is not the great man they think he is.

The Cast

Littleton Looney	Jack Oakie
Ellen Saunders	Ginger Rogers
Hycross	Granville Bates
Senator Powell	George Barbier
Nick Pangolos	Sidney Riggs
[illegible] Goodrich	Betty Starbuck
Dolly Clark	Verree Teasdale
Captain Barker	J. Malcolm Dunn

* * *

THE FUN IS NEVER lessened by Mr. Oakie's worship of Napoleon and his habit of consulting the great Corsican's bust in moments of doubt. At last Mr. Oakie, in a bright moment, solves the pressing mine problem, and everything ends happily. The film begins and ends in laughter, with a good many laughs strewn along its path. It is all in fun anyway. Mr. Oakie satisfies, the audience hugely enjoys it apparently. Why worry? Mr. Oakie doesn't.

* * *

ALL-ITALIAN FILMS SOON

A [illegible] Italian feature [illegible] will be produced by the Fox Film Corp. it is announced [illegible] Winfield Sheehan, vice-president and general manager. Production will begin immediately at the corporation's studios in Hollywood.

A [illegible] of [illegible] pictures and short subjects are [illegible] being made by the company. The first two productions to be made entirely in French and Italian are "Common Clay" and "[illegible] of the Dunes."

In addition to the Spanish, French and Italian productions, the foreign production organization will continue to make silent and synchronized versions of its domestic program.

A number of well known Italian stage personalities recruited from Italy and New York will arrive in Hollywood within the next few weeks.

Specials Finished

"Outward Bound" with Leslie Howard and "Rivers End" with Charles Bickford and Evalyn Knapp have been completed at the Warner studios.

VON STROHEIM WILL VISIT OLD HOME

One of the most picturesque, fascinating figures ever evolved by Hollywood is in the East, en route for Europe. He is "the man you love to hate," that stormy petrel of the picture world, Erich Von Stroheim. He is sailing tomorrow for Vienna, the old home town. He hasn't been in Europe since he left it in the steerage 15 years ago.

Although he is the most discussed director in Hollywood, it is surprising to recall that in his entire career Von Stroheim has produced less than 10 pictures—an average year's work for some of the clan.

Right or wrong, "Von" has established a reputation as a terrific spender on his pictures. But despite much tearing of hair on the part of the money men in the industry, producers keep flirting with him. There's always work for Von Stroheim, no matter how many millions his last picture may have cost.

When he returns in October it will be to work on the Universal lot where he started. Mr. Laemmle has always prided himself on Von Stroheim and the first million dollar picture, although "Uncle Carl" sprouted many a grey hair as "Von's" demands for more lucre gave the whole organization nervous prostration.

* * *

The story about the film, "The Wedding March," is that Von Stroheim wished to show it two successive evenings. Which, of course, was vetoed by the powers. The theater has on occasions given plays occupying many more hours than usual. But picture audiences aren't geared to "Strange Interludes," "Parsifals" or "Passion Plays."

They say that after "The Wedding March" was finally cut, there was enough picture left over to assemble into a sequel which was to be called "The Honeymoon."

* * *

Von Stroheim yarns abound in Hollywood. Another is that Von promised to show up at the Pathe studios on a certain date with the completed script of "Queen Kelly." When the day arrived the monocled director strolled into the studio, followed by two enormous Ethiopians carrying a great chest swung on poles between their shoulders. It was marked 'First half of "Queen Kelly."' Everyone had his little laugh over Von's joke. But according to the yarn, the pay-off was that the trunk actually did contain thousands of pages of script covering part of the action in "Queen Kelly."

Besides his genius as a director and cutter, no less an authority than James Cruze, a firm friend of Von's, declares that he can steal any scene in any picture with "the back of his fat neck." In other words, Stroheim can play with his back to the cameras and steal the picture.

WARNERS ALL SET FOR BIG JUBILEE

Warner Brothers' silver jubilee is to be celebrated throughout August.

In planning for the jubilee the Warners have called into action all of their forces, including the 51 subsidiaries, part and parcel of the parent organization. Foremost in the planning has been First National Pictures, which has arranged to release six of its big productions. Inasmuch as Warner Brothers will also release six of its biggest productions, the fans can look forward to seeing 12 noteworthy offerings to be made on the screen this season during this month.

Among the Warner stars and featured players to be seen on the screen during the Jubilee Month are Grant Withers, Sue Carol, Edna Murphy, Tully Marshall, Lilyan Tashman, Florence Eldridge, James Gleason, Constance Bennett, Eric Von Stroheim, Ben Lyon, Lotti Loder, Harry Langdon, Claudia Dell, Ernest Torrence, Walter Pidgeon, Belle Bennett and John Halliday.

Provincetown Wharf Players in Comedy

Opening Monday, the Provincetown Wharf Players will present "Mrs. Dewing's Divorce." Fredrika Siemons, the author, will play the title role. Mrs. Dewing is a professor's wife, a dear sweet woman with a Peter Pan complex. She rushes off to Reno for what that town affords and returns to be chagrined at the drama going on in her own back yard.

GOSSIP ALONG NEW YORK RIALTO

New York, Aug. 1.

Herman Gantvoort will be on Broadway with four productions this fall, according to the word from his office. The first of these is "The Long Road," which played a short while in Boston and which will come to New York on Labor Day. Otto Kruger is its leading player.

For his second production, Gantvoort has "French Dressing," a musical comedy, with book, music and lyrics by Howard Miller, Walter Craig and Kenneth Burton.

Then there will be William Hurlburt's new play, with the lengthy title, "Dead Men Never Rise." The fourth piece is a play by Lyon Mearson, the 44th st. scrivener, and Lillian Day, whose collaboration is called "Our Wife."

* * *

Word comes from Joseph M. Koehler that he will be on the Broadway scene again in the approaching season with two plays. His last piece was the "Killers" two years ago at the 49th St. Theater. Just what the two are that he has in mind are matters that are not yet mentioned publicly.

* * *

After a long absence from Broadway, Jane Gray will return for William A. Brady's production of "Cafe." This is Marya Mannes' drama that now is being rehearsed to open out of town Aug. 11.

Hub Best Baseball City, Says Babe Ruth

MR. BOSTON

—by—
JACK CONWAY

"When Babe Ruth," declared Mr. Boston today, "posed with Nick Flatley eating watermelon he turned to the sporting editor of the Boston Evening American and remarked: 'This is good picture stuff, but you can tell the world I'm getting a real kick out of burying my teeth in this watermelon.'

"Babe is still the same golden hearted boy he was when he first broke into big league baseball as a member of the Red Sox.

"Some people have often asked why Ruth is such a tremendous national idol. His home run record is given as the answer.

"This is not entirely true. Hitting home runs, of course, has added to Babe's popularity, but there are other ball players who smash out circuit drives and who only get small attention.

"In addition to being able to smack out home runs, Ruth has a nature that is bubbling over with personality. One of the strongest traits in Babe's character is his intense love for children and for his friends.

"I have known Ruth to drive through a blinding snow storm from Boston to a small town in New Hampshire to keep an engagement at a boys' club. He will pass up a week-end at the mountain lodge of a millionaire to dash to Baltimore to make whoopee with the youngsters at St. Mary's Industrial School.

"Kids everywhere look to Ruth as their idol. His rise from the St. Mary's Industrial School to an $80,000-a-year salary in the big leagues has an appeal to every youngster in the country.

Rushes to Nantasket to Cheer Up Nick Flatley

"When Ruth hit Boston for the present series with the Red Sox, it was more than natural he should inquire for his old golfing partner, Nick Flatley. They told the Babe that Nick was kayoing an attack of illness at Green Hill, Nantasket. The great hitter expressed a desire to see Nick.

" 'I want to find out if he has been able to get the slice out of his drives,' chirped Ruth.

"And so off for Green Hill dashed Ruth. In order that the Babe could make the trip, and spend as much time as possible with Nick and get back to Fenway Park in time for the game, a special motorcycle police escort was secured.

"Arthur Frahey, connected with traffic at Division 20, escorted Babe from the Hotel Brunswick to Neponset bridge, where a Quincy detail, consisting of James H. (Two Gun) Baker, Ernest Hodge and Walter Kemp, took charge

"State Trooper John F. Horgan from the Norwell barracks was waiting at Fore River bridge. He was later joined by Henry Kelly of the Hull police at Nantasket Junction.

"When the party reached Nick Flatley's cottage, at Green Hill, Ruth jumped out of his car, driven by Joe Kendrick, and shouted, 'Stick 'em up!' I believe Ruth got as great a kick out of his police escort as Nick did in mitting the home run king.

"Ruth and Nick chatted for half an hour and you can bet all the tea in China that the Bam's visit had better results than a drug store's worth of medicines.

"A great fellow is this Babe Ruth."

SWIMMERS SET NEW MARKS

Worcester, Aug. 1—Two New England swimming records were broken and two established at the championship swimming meet, which was staged under the auspices of the Whitinsville Community Association, here at the White City Park pool.

The two marks broken were the men's senior 400-meter medley relay and the junior one-mile swim. In the one-mile swim Bernard Gurklis, competing under the colors of the Gardner high school, smashed Bill Nolan's old time for the distance when he clocked in 26 minutes and 35 seconds.

The former mark was 27 minutes and 46 3-5 seconds, made at the Nautical swimming pool, Revere, last year.

In the 400 meters medley, the relay team swimming for Whitinsville were clocked in 4 minutes 51 3-5 seconds. The old mark was held by the Worcester "Y" four and the time was 5 minutes and 11 seconds. At last night's meet the Whitinsville quartet swam against time.

Chapman to Face Stellar Field

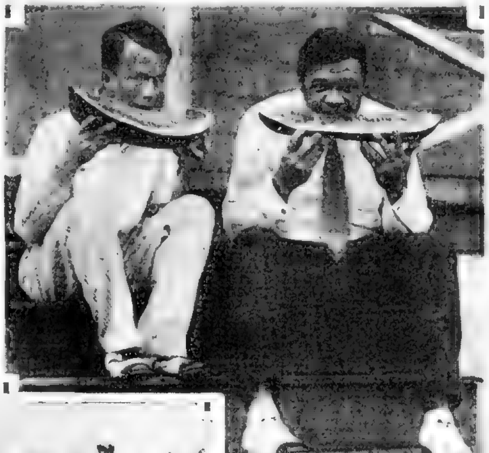
George Chapman will ride in the 40-mile event Nat Butler has booked for the Revere cycle on Saturday night.

Facing Chappie will be Franco Georgetti, American champion; Frankie Keenan, the Revere boy, who has been having a great year; Franz Duelberg, young German, and Victor Hopkins, farm boy from Iowa, who won the title a few years back.

A tandem race, best two one-mile heats in three, will be the semifinal event. Three teams are entered, composed of Genaro Procaccini, and Anthony Patalono; Leo Maggoli and Ralph Spiers and Archie Villa and Frank Frassini.

HOME RUN KING VISITS PRINCE OF SPORTS WRITERS

"COULD YOU HIT ONE THAT FAR?" Nick Flatley, sports editor of the Boston Evening American, asks Babe Ruth if he could hit one from Green Hill to Black Rock, a quarter of a mile away. Babe thinks he could.



"GIB ME DAT WATERMELON." Next to hitting home runs, Babe Ruth enjoys nothing better than a watermelon. Babe said, as he inhaled the succulent meat of the melon, that he hoped he would hit as many homers as there are seeds in a watermelon.

"KING OF THE KIDS." When Babe Ruth paid a visit to Nick Flatley, sports editor of the Boston Evening American, at Green Hill, Nantasket, he was surrounded by a crowd of youngsters, all eager to see the home-run king at close quarters. The Babe, who really loves kids, spent much time signing autographs and greeting the youngsters who have chalked up the visit as a red letter day in their lives.

Miss Carlstrom Beats Miss Tate on the Charles

Mid a colorful layout of decorated yachts and pleasure craft of every variety, the 58th annual regatta of the National Amateur Association of Oarsmen continued in the Charles River Basin today before 4000 enthusiasts lined on both banks for the function which is held in connection with Dame Boston's 30th birthday celebration.

Delna Carlstrom of the Worcester Rowing Club was the first to win a race in today's program. She defeated Miss P. Marshall Tate of the Shawmut Rowing Club of South Boston.

This event was held over a stretch of one-quarter mile and opened the regular two-day regatta program. Miss Carlstrom, a well-known swimmer, defeated her rival in the race for the Rudy Vallee cup by four and a half lengths, taking the lead at the start and piling up open water from there until she crossed the finish line to cop the trophy offered by the female idol of America. The time was 1 minute 55 3-5 seconds

The senior single sculls championship for 145-pounders, first of the regular N. A. A. O. program, was won by Tom Clark of the Undine Barge Club, Philadelphia, by two and one-half lengths over Leslie Guy Haines of the Union Boat Club

Harold T. Dinsmore of Bachelor's Barge Club, Philadelphia, was third, and Lawrence Russell of the Union boat Club finished fourth

Undine Barge Wins Four-Oared Race

Undine Barge Club of Philadelphia annexed another victory in the senior 145-pound four-oared shells with coxes. Their shell, consisting of William Dawson, bow; John McKay, 2; Jules Vogel, 3; Theodore Glick, 4, and Royal Lochten, coxswain, was victorious over fours from the South Side Boat Club, Quincy, Illinois, and the Penn Athletic Club.

It was one of the most thrilling races of the day. Undine took the lead at the start with the South Side boat close on their stern. At the mile mark the Chicagoans picked up speed, increased their stroke and passed the Undine entry.

But the lead was short-lived for the Undine shell was fired upon seeing their rivals go into the lead and spurted, passed and won the race by two lengths at a distance of a mile and a quarter.

Goodyear's baby blimp, the Mayflower, floated over the scene of the races and attracted much attention. The race was to be broadcast by the Mayflower, special devices having been attached for the purpose by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where the blimp is stationed. Many other aerial craft aided in the festivities before the races began.

Leaders Disqualified in Single Sculls

In one of the feature races of the day the association single sculls William G. Miller of the Bachelor's Barge Club won and Jerry Shea of St. Alphonsus was second. But both were disqualified, Miller for going to the wrong side of the finish boat and Shea for going under the wrong arch

Leo B. Menne of the Nassau Boat Club, New York, was awarded first place for he finished third. A. B Vogt of the Penn A. C. was second and A. O. Wirth of Viking Rowing Club, New York, was third. Jack Crooks didn't start, while Claude

ANDERSON IN LOCAL WORKOUT

Joe Anderson, Scotch-Irish middleweight from Covington, Ky., arrived here for his battle of next Monday night with Dave Shade at Braves Field, and made a favorable impression on the customers who assembled at Toland's gymnasium.

Rated as the roughest and toughest middleweight in the world, the clouter from Kentucky made a host of friends by his bubbling personality. He arrived early in the morning, and half an hour later was taking a five-mile run through the Fenway.

He will box today at Toland's gymnasium with Paul Zeramba, amateur light heavyweight, and any other boxer who cares to report there for work.

Pocasset Gains in Cape Cod League

Pocasset whipped out a strong bit of golf yesterday to defeat Bass River, 12½ to 2½, over its home course and advance from fifth to third position in the Cape Cod women's league. Mrs. J. Barnard of Bass River gathered two of her team's 2½ points

Hyannisport, in third place two weeks ago, broke even, 7½ to 7½, with Wianno yesterday and was unable to lift itself from the second step from the cellar

Woods Hole gained the second most impressive victory, taking 9½ points from Plymouth, and fell short one point of tying the league-leading Oyster Harbors contingent. Wianno gained a two-point advantage on Plymouth in the play yesterday, and is now tied with the Pilgrim golfers at 28½.

HOME RUN KING TALKS WIT NICK FLATLEY ON FUTURE OF NATIONAL GAME

By NICK FLATLEY

George Herman, being an $80,000-a-year man, has plenty o call on his services. His schedule is pretty well set for 24 hour a day. Yet he managed to get a morning off and pay a flying visi to your correspondent, just for old times sake.

It was in truth a flying visit, the boys making the journey each way in something like a half hour Babe might have spent his morning sleeping—that would help him—but he didn't. He's the kind of a bird who never forgets a friend, and is willing any old time to put himself out to be a good scout.

Nick Flatley

Naturally, we asked the Babe a lot of questions, when we could pry him away from the army of kids that appeared like mosquitoes And found out the following things

That the Babe still thinks he has a chance to beat his home-run record, and is sure that he would have but for a fingernail on the left hand ripped off a month ago.

That the Yankees, because of their power, still have a chance in the American League race

That Boston still is the greatest baseball town of them all.

That he has, goodness knows, how many more years of baseball in front of him, although he has been playing for 17 semesters.

That, all in all, it's a great game and a great world

Babe Says Injury May Halt Record Drive

"Sure!" he ejaculated right off the reel, "I would have broken my home run record this year, if I hadn't torn off a finger nail. That happened a month ago, and I've made only six home runs since. Holding the bat, and favoring that sore finger, gave me the worst bone bruise between the thumb and the forefinger that I've ever seen. It's just plain agony to hit that ball. It may heal up, but it hasn't shown any signs of doing that yet."

The Babe thinks the Athletics a mighty powerful ball club, but chirps that the Yanks haven't voted themselves out of it yet

"If we had steady pitching," he stated, "we certainly would stay up there. But we haven't. I can recall two or three games where we scored a dozen times and were beaten out. Pennants come though with that kind of baseball.

"This chatter about baseball interest dying is a lot of applesauce. They still rave and howl just as loudly as ever here in Boston. It keeps right on being the best city of them all. Can you imagine any other town turning out 22,000 for a mid-week double header for a last place ball club, as Boston did for the Red Sox the other day?

"A lot has been said about poor attendance on our last Western trip, but I'm ready to tell the world that there never was such steady and continued heat. It was right at 100 in every city we played, and the fans who came out broiled to death. The first time I remember when a whole string of ball games should have been postponed on account of heat."

Ruth, as you know, is a reformed and settled young man now. He swore off in a big way four years ago, and he has been playing like a rising star ever since. He no longer inhales Lucullan meals, in fact he restricts himself to a very rigid diet. The big boy has a light breakfast daily. Bars luncheon entirely. And has a normal meal at night. How different this from the Ruth of other days, who would casually nibble half a dozen frankfurts and as many bottles of pop between games at a double heade Not to mention other things

Babe Expects to Play Many More Years

"It certainly has done me a lot of good," murmured the slugger. "I don't have those sick spells any more. And while a ball game tires me out, naturally, it doesn't kill me as it used to. I don't know how many more years I'll be able to keep on going, but if pep and health mean anything, there will be quite a flock.

"I can't realize that I have been in this racket for 17 years. It seems to me as if I could go on as many more. It gives me a laugh when I think that Lou Gehrig, who is now tagged as my greatest rival, was only seven years old when I started to be a professional.

"A ball player stays up as long as his legs do. Mine threatened to break down three or four years ago, but they recovered wonderfully with a flock of steady exercise. And the skinny old props promise right now to keep on holding me up forever."

The Great Ruth, except for the pooshing of the years, and money hasn't changed much in the lon stretch since he came up to th Big Show. He's still affable, cut spoken, and willing to do anythin any time for a kid

He entertained a flock of them yesterday, handing out watermel lon posing for pictures and auto graphing cards and books. And he [illegible] with a [illegible] smile

Then after a long tough bal game he dashed out to St. Eliza beth's Hospital to make happy crippled kid who has been ther four years. This is not part of th act. Babe likes kids. He really does.

He spends his off day during th baseball season — not golfing though he's crazy about that gam —but corralling gangs of boys an taking them off into the country He had "personality plus" when h started to flame across the base ball sky years ago, and he still ha it. Lots of it

Babe May End Career as Club Manager

Ruth undoubtedly will linger i baseball many more years, eve thought the keen eye fails and th slim legs weaken. He knows base ball from A to Z, and one of thes days will be sailing into a man agerial job. He has the rare fac ulty, despite his enormous salary, of making pals of ball players, and keeping them.

He knows instinctively what should be done in tough spots. He is the one ball player who never made a mechanical mistake in his life.

Invariably he does the right thing at the right spot. This gift can be just as useful directing a team as it is out there on the playing field. And when, if ever, he does break down as a player, some magnate will be ready to hand him a fabulous salary to take a shot at running things.

And, if signs mean anything, the Babe will make a go of it. He has been successful at everything he has tackled in baseball.

CHANTILLY, FRANCE, LATER SCENE OF 39-ROUND DRAW BETWEEN OLD RIVALS

By JACK CONWAY

After his famous $180,000 knockout tour, Sullivan and Madden parted. Like many another deposed ring pilot, Madden vowed he would develop a man who would win the heavyweight championship of the world from Sullivan.

Jack Conway

Under similar conditions, the average manager [illegible] comes near having his wishes [illegible] In the case of Madden, he almost succeeded.

[illegible] went to England and promoted a series of heavyweight matches. Charlie Mitchell was the survivor of the bouts.

Madden liked Mitchell on account of his amazing speed and ability as a boxer. Mitchell was not as strong and powerful as John L., but [illegible] faster and was rated as a [illegible]

"A rough and tumble fighter will never dethrone Sullivan," Madden told his friends. "A fast, clever fellow like Mitchell has a chance to blind John L. I have the man who will lick my old champion."

Madden was a student of the old ballyhoo. He brought Mitchell to America and soon had the whole country talking about the possibilities of a bout between the English boxer and Sullivan.

The rival heavyweights were finally signed for a bout, which took place at Madison Square Garden, New York, on May 14, 1883.

KNOCKED JOHN L. DOWN

The [illegible] of blows [illegible] Sullivan went [illegible] cut in a punch [illegible] was up [illegible] Madden [illegible]

This gave Mitchell an [illegible] as he was a cool, calculating [illegible] and picked the spots for his punches.

In the second round, Mitchell created a sensation when he knocked the mighty John L. down. The crowd went into an uproar when Sullivan went down. For a time it could hardly believe that there was a man in the world who could tip the famous champion over.

Sullivan [illegible] he [illegible] declared he had his feet crossed and that he was off balance when he got into a mixup. But the boxing experts at the ringside credited Mitchell with a knockdown.

John L. fought with great fury after he regained his feet. He was anxious to break Mitchell into a million parts. He rained punches down on the Englishman.

In the third round, Sullivan had Mitchell backed against the ropes and was punching him with both hands when Police Inspector Thorpe and Captain Williams jumped into the ring. They halted the match on the ground it had developed into a brutal battle.

"Don't stop the fight," Mitchell protested to the police.

POLICE INTERFERENCE

In the early 80s the police always had to be considered when a boxing bout was staged. When they didn't chase the contest from state to state, they entrenched themselves at the ringside. If the police chief wasn't very hot for boxing, he would leap into the ring and stop the jam just when the big fellows were getting warmed up.

There was a demand for a return meeting between Sullivan and Mitchell, but it did not take place until 1888.

On October 27, 1887, Sullivan sailed for England. He was accompanied by Harry Phillips, his manager, and Harry Ashton.

Sullivan boxed an exhibition at St. James Hall, London, on November 9, 1887.

The Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, heard and read so much about Sullivan that he requested that John L. box another exhibition. It was held at the St. James Barracks, London, on December 9, 1887. That was the time when Sullivan wouldn't box until "my young friend, Brisbane," was given permission to attend the affair.

John L. and Mitchell were then matched to meet at Chantilly, France, on March 10, 1888.

The battle was fought under London prize ring rules.

I shall later present a copy of these rules which should be of tremendous interest to every lover of boxing.

It had been a furious engagement with Mitchell's amazing speed and skill offsetting the fury of John L.'s rushes.

It was later charged that Harry Phillips, John L.'s manager, bribed Mitchell's seconds to have Charlie shake hands with the champion before the start of the 40th round and request that the match be declared a draw. This charge was strenuously denied by Sullivan.

It had been such a hard fight that Mitchell and Sullivan were probably both willing to leave the ring on equal terms.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American Jack Conway will have an article on the London Prize Ring Rules, under which Sullivan and Mitchell fought in France. Watch for it.

My dear Sir:

Believing you desire to learn human stories, we, therefore, took the liberty of presenting the following facts to you:

Mr. Philip T. Connolly, a prominent provision dealer in the market district wishing to give a day's pleasure to his unfortunate father-in-law, Mr. Edward J. Cussen, who is paralyzed, called upon Mr. Bob Quinn of the Boston Red Sox Baseball Club to see if arrangements could be made to have Mr. Cussen attend the double-header between the Yankees and the Red Sox.

Mr. Quinn gladly arranged with Mr. Connolly that he might take Mr. Cussen in his car through the special Jersey street entrance, underneath the bleachers, to the point nearest to the boxes, where just a few steps would have to be taken.

Then Mr. Jack Quinn took a personal interest in having that famous baseball player, "Babe" Ruth meet Mr. Cussen in person and talk with him.

Mr. Cussen has been confined to his home for over 10 years, yet is a baseball fan. The meeting with "Babe" Ruth, the talking over with him of the days that have passed, and then the presenting to him of an autographed baseball all came as a great surprise to Mr. Cussen.

It is just such human acts as this that brings gladness to the hearts of those afflicted, and surely the readers of your paper will appreciate the human instinct that prompted all this on the part of Mr. Bob Quinn, his son, Jack, and "Babe" Ruth.

A FAN.

Ruth Visits a Boy Ill for 23 Months

Babe Ruth, the Sultan of Swat, brought a ray of happiness to little Bobby Anderson of [illegible] Cottage st., Quincy, who has been on a cot in St. Elizabeth's Hospital for the past 23 months.

Babe is the [illegible] and the sight of the Bambino, taking time off from various other urgent requests to visit him helped the boy more than any medicine the doctors could give him.

Braddock and Hunt to Meet Here

James J. Braddock of Jersey City, one of the leading contenders for the heavyweight championship of the world, and Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla., recent knockout victor over Paul Pantaleo, have been signed to meet in the 10-round feature bout at Braves Field one week from Monday night, August 11, according to the Boston Garden. This confirms the Boston Evening American's exclusive announcement of this match last Monday.

Lewis Pony Wins "Met" Show Prize

Moonlight Madness, brilliant hackney pony owned by Jack Lewis of Open Circle Farm, Newtonville, won the pony championship over an excellent field as the children's pony exhibition closed last evening at Charles River speedway on the grounds of the Metropolitan Driving Club.

Reserve to Moonlight Madness was Alexander Pratt's Berkley Princess. Both ponies were exhibited in faultless fashion by their owners, and both were feature winners in earlier classes.

Somerville Club Offers Fine Show

Followers of the amateur mitt-wielders will be treated to one of the best amateur tournaments ever offered around Greater Boston, on next Tuesday evening when the Somerville City Employees A. A. holds forth at Dilboy field, West Somerville.

Donnelly and Emerson Are Beaten

CHAMPION LOSES IN JUNIOR

Mass. Junior Golf Championship

Wilfred Ogg, Worcester, vs. James Gannon, Colonial.

By BILL GRIMES.

Bill Donnelly, Jr., Woodland and Leon Emerson, Wollaston, dfeending champion and runner up, respectively, at Brae Burn, were both eliminated in the quarter finals of the 16th Massachusetts junior golf championship this morning at the Belmont Spring Country Club.

Donnelly was put out of the running by Wilfred Ogg, a serious threat for the championship from Worcester, 4 and 2, while Emerson was defeated in a 20-hole match by Bobby Hunter, brother of the girl junior champion of the state.

Although Donnelly and Emerson were heavy favorites their defeats cannot be classified as upsets, for Ogg and Hunter are two exceptionally sound young golfers.

In the other two matches Wilfred Crossley of Norfolk, the medalist, was carried to the home green by Francis Doyle, while it took Jimmy Gannon 17 holes to win a decision over Eddie Bennett.

Crossley opened up his attack on Doyle with a birdie three, dropping a 12-foot putt for a win. Three putts cost Crossley the second hole, but he went out in front again at the third, where Doyle failed to catch the green from the tee, the Norfolk boy getting his par.

After they had halved the long fourth, Doyle hit a perfect tee shot to the foot of the hill going to the fifth, played a perfect niblick shot to within four feet of the cup and dropped the putt for a win.

Doyle Gets Another Birdie at Sixth

Doyle came through with another birdie at the sixth, where he was home with two wood shots, and they were all even again.

Still even going to the eighth, Doyle stymied himself which forced him to take four putts and he lost the hole to a five, one over par.

However, he came with a three at the ninth for a win, which made him one up at the ninth. He went to two up by winning the 10th with a 5.

Crossley started his drive to victory at the twelfth, where Doyle pushed his tee shot and lost the hole to a three. A ticklish downhill 10 footer gave Crossley a birdie and a win at the 13th and also squared the match. Doyle caught the trap at the 15th and came up with a six, dropping to one down which he was unable to make up during the next three holes and Crossley was returned a one up winner.

Crossley's Card:

Emerson Beaten on First Four Holes

Bunny Emerson can attribute his defeat to the first four holes, three of which he lost. Still three down going to the sixth, Emerson got a break when Hunter missed his drive off the tee and was unable to get better than a six. Going to the seventh Emerson was home nicely.

But Hunter was short, only halfway up the hill from where the Newton high school boy failed to get his chip close enough to get down with one putt and lost the hole to a four.

Emerson squared the match at the ninth, where he dropped an eight-footer for a birdie two.

After they had halved the 10th with fives, Hunter ran down a 15 footer for a birdie three at the 11th and another spectacular putt at the 12th, where he appeared to be half stymied, got Hunter a half.

Hunter went to two up at the 13th when Emersoon took three putts. He still had a two hole advantage going to the 15th, but he pushed his tee shot and was shut off from the green by a row of trees and his second landed in the trap, short. Emerson was on nicely with his second and won the hole with a four, Hunter missing a short putt after a fine shot from the trap.

They were both trapped at the 16th and Hunter needed two to get out, losing the hole to a four and again the match was all even. Still "flat" going to the hole, Hunter was short and to the left of the green with his second while Emerson pulled an iron shot into the same area but about 12 feet farther from the cup than his opponent.

Emerson made a wonderful chip from the rough to within four inches of the cup and then Hunter, after a short approach, dropped a putt of about seven feet around a half stymie to keep the match going.

Hunter got a half at the 19th after hitting his tee shot into the rough among the bushes between the first and 13th fairways. Going to the 20th hole they were both on the edge of the green in two. Emerson, in attempting to get his putt near to the cup, putted along the upper right hand edge of the green to catch the roll, but instead his ball caught the heavy grass bordering the green and stuck there. He chipped and missed his putt, losing the hole to Hunter's five.

Will Ogg Jumped Champion at Start

In the Donnelly-Ogg match, the Worcester boy jumped the champion at the start, piling up a two-hole lead going to the fifth, only to see his advantage fade when Donnelly won the fifth and sixth, the latter with a birdie four. Ogg came back, however, and, by playing par golf, was two up going to the ninth, which was halved with threes. They fought along on even terms for the first five inward holes, Ogg holding on to his two holes lead. At the 15th Donnelly pulled his second shot into the rough and then popped his third into a trap, and Ogg was dormie three.

With Ogg on the 16th green Donnelly went out of the championship when he shanked an iron into the pond, losing four and two.

Ogg:

Only Five Halves in Gannon Victory

There were only five halved holes in the battle between Jimmy Gannon and Eddie Bennett. From start to finish this match was one of the closest of the quarter finals.

Gannon won four of the out going holes against Bennett's three to be one up at the turn. After he had dropped a pretty putt to win the 10th and to be two up, Bennett got a hole back at the 13th where Gannon "Willie Ogged" two shots.

Bennett squared the match at the 15th, where Gannon was in the rough with his second and took a five. With Bennett in the trap going to the 16th, Gannon put an iron shot 12 feet from the cup, but as Bennett had missed his three after getting out of the hazard Gannon played it safe and won the hole with a par three. Bennett eased himself out of the championship when he three-putted on the 17th green.

Summary:

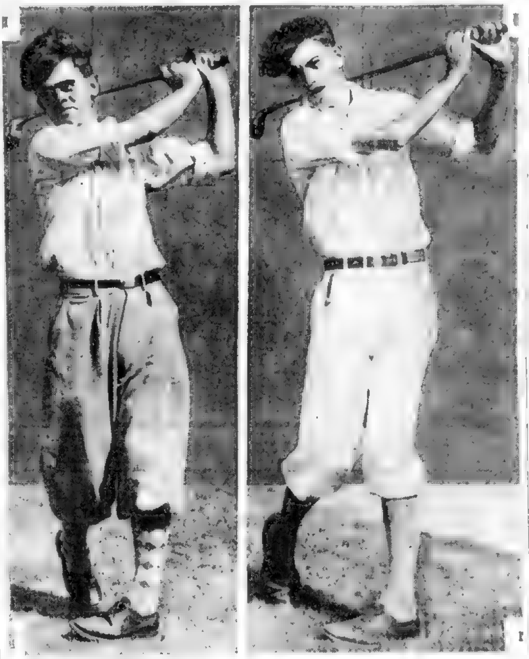
HOME-TOWN RIVALS FOR TITLE



Francis Doyle

Wilfred Ogg

TWO WORCESTER BOYS play in the quarter-final of the Massachusetts junior championship today. Francis Doyle meets Wilfred Crossley, Norfolk, while Wilfred Ogg fights it out with the present champion, W. H. Donnelly, Jr., of Albermarle.

CARNERA TO GET HEARING TODAY

Washington, Aug. 1 (I.N.S.)—Primo Carnera, human box car from Italy, slated for deportation because his six months' visiting period is up, will seek to convince the immigration bureau's board of review today that he should be allowed to stay another half year.

Arriving here yesterday the six foot seven inch heavyweight champion prepared to present a long list of grievances to the board of review. These include complaints that boxing commissions have "conspired" against him, that authorities have "persecuted him," and that all in all, life has been made miserable for him ever since he arrived last January. But he wants to stay longer.

He claims an American consul in Paris told him he could stay in the United States a year, and so made extensive engagements to fight here in the next two months.

The immigration law provides for visas to the United States of six months for entertainers and similar persons and for an extension of this period if reasonable grounds can be shown.

Johnny Farr Here for Callahan Go

Johnny Farr of Cleveland, who is to meet Andy Callahan, New England lightweight champion, at O'Sullivan's Park, Lawrence, on Monday night, arrived in Boston this morning and will work out at Toland's gym this afternoon. The Cleveland lightweight on his last trip to Boston defeated Honeyboy Finnegan of Dorchester and also has held Andy Martin, New England featherweight champion, to a draw.

In facing Callahan, Farr claims he will meet the type of boxer he loves to meet. The rough fellows like Andy have always been meat for Johnny. Harry Blitman, Eddie Shea, Jimmy McLarnin and Benny Bass are boys who slugged with Farr and Johnny has never taken a back step from any of them.

PORT OF BOSTON IN REVIEW

By CARL MORRISON

Our recent item about Jack Dixon, the young camera man who made a trip to Africa and back on $4.90, plus what he earned taking photos, seemed to arouse deep interest. A couple of letters were received, asking if the incident were true, and several comments were made in the harbor.

The interest manifested proved the journalistic axiom that the public wants "human interest" stories rather than news. In that same issue were some news items dealing with serious matters, but our casual "H. I." story about this photographer, who made a ship captain turn his liner around so as to get better sunlight for a picture, was the headliner for most readers.

There is another cameraman covering Boston Harbor equally famous in his own way. This photographer is G. Frank Radway, Boston Evening American veteran.

Frank, known in sub rosa press circles as the only photographer who parts his name in the middle, holds the record for visits on the quarantine ship. This vessel speeds to the outer harbor to meet all incoming foreign ships, to see that proper health conditions are maintained.

"Rad" has a press pass which has been renewed for 24 years in succession. His record is that he has "covered" more ships at quarantine than any other of his craft—cameraman or reporter. An estimate of 500 ships would be conservative.

Frank is on the early shift and often boards the quarantine boat at 5 or 6 a. m., which is why the American has so many fine marine pictures before its rival sheets.

He sometimes can be persuaded to talk about his collection of photos, which he calls his "rogues gallery." There is one with a personal autograph by Calvin Coolidge, reading "To my old friend." Radway says the most difficult public man he ever photographed was Roosevelt.

OLDEST CHANDLER

Yesterday we nominated Ed Parker for the harbor championship for long service as ship chandler. Today we were informed that there is another candidate Israel Decrow of James Bliss & Co., whose approximate 60 years is 10 more than Parker's. Although about 80 years old, Decrow reports for work every day.

F. C. C. MEETING

An important meeting of the port affairs committee of the Foreign Commerce Club has been called by President Elmer Ellwell for next Monday noon at 12 o'clock on the 16th floor of the Customs House. This committee, consisting of club officers and chairmen of 14 special committees, will consider some proposed harbor policies.

TODAY'S WHO'S WHO

The subject of today's "Who's Who in the Harbor" is Moses B. Mann, assistant surveyor of the port of Boston.

Moses B. Mann

Mr. Mann has been in the customs service for 43 years and is one of the oldest remaining employes in point of service. This native of Benton, N. H., was graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1884 and three years later began as a clerk in the old naval office which is now the comptroller's office.

Before starting to work for the government Mr. Mann [illegible] in town politics. He was [illegible] and selectman in Benton for a considerable period.

This customs man has one of the most interesting jobs of the service. His department supervises the work of 250 men on the docks, such as inspectors and guides. He and his men daily match wits with smugglers.

Mr. Mann is an ardent booster for the port. He believes that a revision of the rail differentials now affecting Boston unfavorably, will mean a revival of shipping here. This member of the Traffic Club has two hobbies—transcontinental travelling and fishing in Maine and New Hampshire.

TICKET WINNERS

A group of local mariners recently won their tickets for sea service. Matthew J. Fahey of 651 East Broadway, South Boston won a master's license for steamers. John Ellard of Everett was awarded his ticket as mate. Douglas Schwards of West Somerville has become a mate. George Norris of 126 London st., East Boston, received his tickets for master and pilot. That is comparatively unusual for a young man still in his 20s. All four are pupils of Capt. Dennis McCarthy of Boston.

BOSTONIANS AFLOAT

On the North German Lloyd liner Dresden, en route from New York to Cobh, Cherbourg and Bremen are Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kiefert and daughter Miss F. Kiefert and Miss Katherine F. Dolan, all of Boston.

Among the passengers on the Red Star liner Pennland leaving New York tonight for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Antwerp are Mr. and Mrs. Frederic S. Banks of Boston.

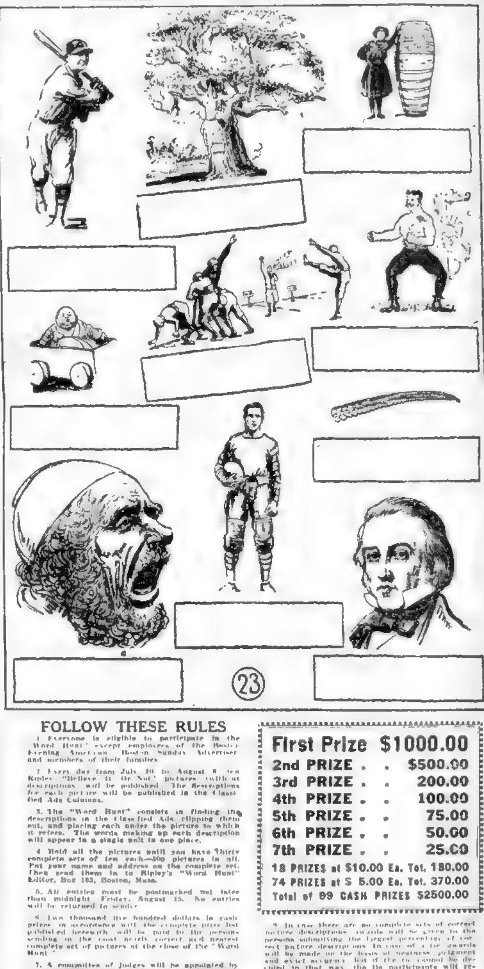
Ripley's NEW WORD HUNT

$2500.00 IN CASH!

The winners of the New Ripley Word Hunt will receive $2500 in cash prizes . . . FIRST PRIZE $1000 . . . SECOND PRIZE $500 . . . also, 97 other cash prizes. Look carefully at the pictures below and then hunt for the missing descriptions in the classified ads. Clip the answers and paste them under the correct pictures. Obtain missing back numbers by sending 2 cents (plus 2 cents postage) for each Boston American and 10 cents (plus 2 cents postage) for each Boston Sunday Advertiser. Place your order with your newsdealer today for the regular delivery of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser . . . then you will be sure to get your Ripley set every day.

"Believe It Or Not" By Ripley



FOLLOW THESE RULES

1. Everyone is eligible to participate in the "Word Hunt" except employees of the Boston Evening American, Boston Sunday Advertiser and members of their families.

2. Every day from July 10 to August 8 ten Ripley "Believe It Or Not" pictures (without descriptions) will be published. The descriptions for each picture will be published in the Classified Ads Columns.

3. The "Word Hunt" consists in finding the descriptions in the Classified Ads, clipping them out, and placing each under the picture to which it refers. The words making up each description will appear in a single unit in one place.

4. Hold all the pictures until you have thirty complete sets of ten each—300 pictures in all. Put your name and address on the complete set. Then send them in to Ripley's "Word Hunt" Editor, Box 185, Boston, Mass.

5. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight Friday, August 15. No entries will be returned to sender.

6. Two thousand five hundred dollars in cash prizes in accordance with the complete prize list published herewith will be paid to the persons sending in the most nearly correct and neatest complete set of pictures at the close of the "Word Hunt."

7. A committee of judges will be appointed by the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser to determine the successful contestants. All entrants agree to accept the decisions of these judges as final.

8. It is not necessary to purchase the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser to compete. This newspaper may be examined at its office or at the public libraries free of charge and if you wish you may copy or trace the pictures from the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser and then assemble the sets from the copies you have made.

74 PRIZES at $ 5.00 Ea. Tot.	370.00
Total of 99 CASH PRIZES	$2500.00

9. In case there are no complete sets of correct picture descriptions, awards will be given to the persons submitting the largest percentage of correct picture descriptions. In case of a tie, awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way, the tie participants will receive similar awards.

10. The Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to make any change in or addition to these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting this project, and the decision of the Judges on any question which may arise will be absolutely final and the entering of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations made now or to be made. DO NOT SEND SETS OF PICTURES UNTIL ALL HAVE APPEARED.

This Day in History

This is the anniversary of the famous Battle of the Nile, Aug. 1, in which Nelson defeated the French fleet and nullified Napoleon's campaign plans for the conquest of the East, causing him to hurry back to Paris.

Raquel, Nearly Drowned, Is Rescued While in Swimming Alone

CHAPTER 56

Greta was back in a few minutes. Bubbling with anticipation for the evening.

"I was right," she said "One of my little playmates from the Long Island set. Not much money, but plenty of fun. He wants to drag us over to the Casino to night. Did I say no?"

"I hope you didn't," laughed Raquel. "But you must say No for me. I'm going to get my beauty sleep."

"Laddy, miss, don't tell me you've discovered a crow's foot on your pearly cheek?"

"I haven't yet But I may, at any moment, if I try to keep your pace."

Maid Arrives

And Trunks Unloaded

"I know." Greta's wise eyes slanted their accusation. "You're putting on the old high hat. You don't think it's proper, rushing off so sudden like. But I tell you I know that bimbo. We've been on many a riot together. And he's what you call the right people."

"Some other time, Greta," said Raquel, with finality.

When Raquel went to the window in the morning to breathe deep of air with a tang of salt in it, the sunshine was still thin, pale gold. It was early, she knew She had not heard Greta come in from The Casino. The door of Greta's room was ajar. Her evening bag was tossed on the living room table along with a ruin of tattered orchids.

"I have ride all night with the trunks," she said, fluttering about the room in an attempt to restore order.

"Monsieur send us both by motor transport. I have keep my eye on your trunks. Miss Greta's also."

A hotel porter brought in the trunks, and was not overly quiet in handling them.

"My mother's apron strings!" groaned Greta from behind the partly open door. "Why didn't they tell us they were tearing down the building?"

Raquel Frolics

She Loves the Water

"I'm sorry, dear," Raquel called "It's the trunks. I should have closed your door."

"Trunks! Then the air mail must be in."

"Don't you want to get up and come for a dip?"

"Ouch! My head's splitting. Those croupiers took me for a [illegible]."

"Then you lost," sympathetically from Raquel.

"No, my boy friend did. All I had to do with it was pick the wrong numbers."

From a selection of bathing [illegible] of which would have [illegible] the [illegible] of a [illegible] much less an [illegible] Raquel and Greta chose two practical outfits.

[illegible] the tide was far out. Raquel sped across the sand to meet it, Greta limping and [illegible].

"Gosh," she said when she dipped a toe gingerly in a thin sheet of pale green water that riffled toward her. "Wouldn't you know I'd forget my wheelchair on a morning like this!"

Raquel was already far out splashing and floundering in the water like a frolicsome puppy.

[illegible] the beach had begun to take on a touch of life. Nurses with their charges were preparing to build forts and towers of sand that later would be destroyed by the incoming tide.

"The crowd won't be down for hours," said Greta. "It's a social error to be seen on the beach before eleven."

Out there somewhere, at the other edge of this dazzling ocean, was another ocean. A desert ocean.

Raquel Saved

Came Near Drowning

Was she, Raquel Rojos, really here, on the shores of France? With beauty, money, luxury, at her command? Had she fled the desert ocean more than two years ago, riding through its starlit stillness toward—this? Or was it yesterday?

Was the 'dobe hut in the desert ocean a mirage? Or would she wake up suddenly with Pancho roaring for his black coffee? Find that this dazzling blue ocean, Greta, the children over there with their nurses, the villas nestling under the hill, were creatures of phantasy?

She had a sudden notion she must feel of the blue ocean, test its reality. She rose without waking Greta. Ran forward eagerly to meet the gently curling surf.

Yes, this was a real ocean. A frenzy of want to know its substance overtook her. She wanted it to be rough with her, to toss her about, to frolic with her. She fought it back, throwing out her arms, struggling with it.

Until, in an instant, frenzy became panic. Something had gripped her in the back, just between the shoulders. Was tearing at her bathing suit as if to wrench it from her. The salt water was in her eyes, blinding her. In her throat, choking her.

Her struggle now was in earnest. She strove desperately to throw off the grip at her back. It but held the tighter.

She tried to cry out. A rush of sea-water swept into her nose—into her very lungs, it seemed.

She was being towed, swiftly now, by that grip at her back. Out to sea? She could not tell.

Alphonse. A black velvet hat with white paradise feathers in a window. Hundreds of toy tin horns outside a great station, tooting, screaming. Lucy—mother—oh, Lucy—

It might have been eons afterward that the waxen lids of Raquel Rojos fluttered ever so slightly, then opened slowly. Her mind had not yet thrown off the terror of her struggle with the sea. She only knew that she was looking straight into the troubled gray eyes of a man who leaned over her. There was a glint in his hair where the sun struck it.

"She has regained consciousness," the man said. "She will be all right in a few minutes."

The man leaned closer. She felt a pressure on her chest. A steady bearing down that was painful. She wanted to cry out. Only a faint moan of protest escaped her. A little stream of salt water trickled out over her lips.

"Lie still, please," the man ordered crisply, anticipating her effort to sit up and look about her in the strange world to which she had come. "I'll raise you when it is time."

She closed her eyes. She had discovered that, after all, the effort to rise was not worth making. An ecstasy came over her. The man with the gray eyes—his voice was like a bow drawn across the strings of her soul. He would push away the sea.

Rhyming Optimist

—By ALINE MICHAELIS—

Sea Bondage

In vain I go across wide, upland fields,
And through the forest's heaven-obscuring maze:
Of all their voices none an answer yields
To the deep longing which besets my days.
In vain I seek through cities fair and proud
For that one majesty to them denied,
And like a knight to some dear quest long vowed
From all their blandishments I turn aside,
I wander till I hear, some happy dawn,
A murmur that is neither song nor sigh;
Until I see, through opal veils withdrawn
Ocean's vast purple fields before me lie.
As tides moon-bound must flow, there is for me
An equal bondage ever to the sea.

What's in Fashion?

"Conversational" Furniture

—Directed by AMOS PARRISH—

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—Why is it, do you suppose, that the average American living room is so much pleasanter than the average any-other-kind of living room?

Certainly they're cozier than any of the elaborately over-furnished French rooms we've ever seen . . . or the austere English. And much more comfortable than the Japanese—if they sit on mats on the floor!

One reason—and we've mentioned this before, as you may remember—is the fashion for assembling pieces of comfortable furniture in grouped effects. It's a fashion that's typically American.

In fashion knowing homes these days you see reading groups And writing groups And particularly conversational groups.

Americans are a friendly people—taken all in all. They don't like to shout across great open spaces at their guests. Nor feel like an outcast themselves off in a corner alone.

So—folks are taking their sofas and chairs and building them into groups . . . where two or three or four or more can gather for easy comfortable conversation.

A Popular Group

Almost any sofa, comfortable chair and small table can be ensembled this way. We've shown these particular three pieces because our furniture fashion check-ups show they are three of the most popular.

The sofa is a semi-over-stuffed type that's one of the most-in-fashion of all. It has the serpentine back, the flared arms and the cabriole legs that date in early 18th century English.

It fits into any size room smartly Not too large for the small apartment living room, not so small it looks [illegible] in a larger one.

The chair is the very much in fashion [illegible] type. Its low back and comfortable deep seat make it a good chair to sit in for long hours at a time.

Since it has no particular period style features it can be smartly ensembled with any furniture.

Coffee Table

While essentially a coffee table (for serving after-dinner coffee in the living room is in fashion)—the little table in the group can conveniently hold other things besides a coffee service.

Ash trays, for instance when the conversation and the smoke rise high and fast. Or the glasses of ginger ale and the dish of pretzels.

The top is marble easily cleaned with a damp cloth though it could just as smartly be of wood. The cabriole legs with the carving at the knee show the Queen Anne period influence.

You've seen lots of these tables in fashion-knowing homes. And you're going to see lots more. Because our fashion counts show us it's the most popular type of coffee table there is!

Pointers on Etiquette

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Gifts for Fellow-Workers

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—I am about to be married and I would appreciate it very much if you would advise me about the following: My husband-to-be works in an office where there are a number of girls. If he takes cigars to the men, should candy be taken to the girls? If so, to whom should it be given?

2—When cake and coffee or ice cream are served, should the cake be eaten with a fork?

A READER.

1—This gesture would not be necessary and would seem a bit far fetched.

How to Eat Bacon

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

Please settle these questions

1—How is crisp bacon eaten?

SAT.

2—Left-hand cutting is proper if it comes easier to the person using the knife.

A Card for the Group Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

We are giving a wedding present to one of the girls from our office and enclosing a card. Should each girl sign her name individually, or one girl write the names of all the girls on the card?

J.

Each girl should sign her own name to the card.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Hints to the Bathing Girl

—By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON—

NOW THAT the bathing season is in mid-career there are a few additional suggestions I'd like to make about how and when to swim, not only because your beauty is concerned, but because your beauty will profit by the basic principles of swimming.

Josephine Huddleston

Never go in for a swim or even to dabble around in the water, until at least two hours after eating. Which sounds like a health suggestion, and is. BUT if you don't adhere to such a plan the resultant reaction from your indiscretion will do a great deal of temporary harm to your beauty, as well as to your health.

In the first place the stomach needs your reserve strength to properly digest the food taken into it. Cramps and violent, although usually not permanent, stomach disorder follows too hasty bathing after eating. A doctor will help you through the attendant misery and upset stomach condition, but it will be several days before the red blotches, pimples and drawn lines which result from such trouble are gone, leaving the skin clear and the face lovely again.

Never eat immediately after coming out of the water. Wait at least half an hour. This is to allow ample time for your system to normalize itself after the change of activity and temperature. Food taken as soon as one leaves the water frequently causes indigestion and complexion blotches. This because the system is not ready to receive food at that time.

Never go for a swim when you are very tired or have been perspiring freely. Sit on the shore for half an hour or so and rest and cool yourself before taking your plunge. You not only will enjoy the swim much more when your system has been allowed sufficient time to recuperate from its tiredness and to cool off, but there won't be such a shock to the nervous system by the sudden change in temperature when the body meets the water as would otherwise occur under such circumstances.

Doctors tell us that fifteen minutes is long enough to remain in the water at one time. If you want to swim longer than that come out of the water and rest for a little while and then go in again in about half an hour. You will find that such a plan does not half tire you so much and that many of the after-swimming discomfitures are avoided when you do not remain in the water too long.

It is advisable to take a shower, without soap, as soon as you come out of the water. No matter how clear the water seems to be, it is not as pure as that which runs from the tap in the shower. And for clean, healthy, soft skin all impurities must be removed. Then, too, the shower sets up a stimulating circulatory movement of the blood which is invigorating and so becomes a gentle toning up for the system as a finish off beauty and health treatment after swimming.

If your circulation is poor you should swim only under the orders of a doctor. This is imperative to health, and you all realize that when too great a strain is put upon the system beauty flies from the face and figure.

When you first go into the water, submerge the entire body, so that it all gets wet at once. This will avoid blue lips and the grayish pallor, which belies the gaiety of the most charming and brightly colored beach clothing.

When bathing is in salt water, be sure that your hair is fully protected, so that as little water as possible reaches it. As soon as you come out shampoo your hair (if it has become wet) as salt water is not good for its health or beauty. Salt water allowed to dry in the hair dims its color and coarsens its texture, so don't forget.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Man's "Going Foot"

NEARLY EVERY MAN is born with a few drops of the wanderlust in his blood.

No matter how much he may love his home there are moments when he feels an itching of the "going foot" and secretly longs to get away from it all and lead a rover's life.

He seldom has any valid reason but he can always think up one if you'll give him time.

It may be because his wife doesn't understand him and he craves for companionship. Or it may be because she understands him too well and he yearns for novelty and variety.

It may be because she doesn't give him the mothering and coddling he craves or because she mothers him to death with her eternal mothering and coddling. (YOU know how it is!)

It may be because she is not much of a cook and housekeeper and he longs for a palatable meal and a few home comforts. Or because she is nothing BUT a cook and a housekeeper, and never has time to pal around with him.

It may be because she wastes his money and insists on serving him rich dinners that disagree with him. Or it may be because she tries to save his money and feeds him on left-overs, half-portions and Irish stews.

Sometimes it is because she is too cold and unresponsive and he sighs for affection—and sometimes it is because she is too clinging and affectionate, and he just wants to be LET ALONE.

Sometimes it is because she is too frivolous and drags him out to parties every evening—and sometimes it is because she is too dull and quiet and can't be dragged out of the house, evenings.

The only thing that he never considers is that his WIFE may have a "going foot," too; and that she may be as bored or fed up or as restless as HE is. And that what they both need is just a nice little Matrimonial Vacation—far, far away from the monotony of domesticity!

The only trouble with marriage is that it lasts 365 days of the year—with no time off for good behavior. But. men have no corner on the wanderlust, these days!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"Flat Foot" Causes Aches

ANTHING THAT interferes with the natural and free use of the feet in walking is bound to cause all manner of disagreeable symptoms. If your foot is thrown out of its natural position, strain is bound to be the result. Such strain is capable of causing pain extending anywhere from the foot itself, through the leg and into the back.

Many a person has believed himself to be suffering from rheumatism, or even some sort of kidney or spinal trouble, when these organs and parts are really perfectly normal. He is merely paying the penalty of walking on a foot which has become too weakened in certain parts of its delicate structure to perform its function properly.

"Flat-foot" is the common name given this trouble. It is a displacement of the bones of the foot which receive the weight of the body when standing or walking. As a result the arch of the foot is depressed or flattened.

There are many causes for this condition. Chief of these are improperly fitted shoes. They may be shoes with excessively high heels, or narrow or short shoes, or shoes which do not give necessary support to highly arched insteps.

Another cause for flat-foot is the turning of the feet outward in walking. Weakened muscles and ligaments due to exhausting illness, poor health, old age, rapid growth in a child, overweight, prolonged standing on hard floors, corns and bunions and specific diseases—all these are factors in producing flat-foot.

The first measure to take in the treatment of flat-foot is to get properly adjusted shoes. As a matter of fact, foot discomfort from any cause is likely to disappear if the shoes are correctly fitted.

Everybody should cultivate correct attitude in standing and walking. It is a good thing to develop the feet by throwing the weight of the body frequently upon the outer side of the feet while standing. One should walk with the feet held parallel and pointed forward, with the weight on the outer side.

How much care do you take in selecting your shoes? You should take pains because your comfort and health depend upon properly fitted shoes.

Advice on Problems of Heart and Home

—By BEATRICE FAIRFAX—

She Repulsed Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

About a week ago I met a fellow who works next door to me in an advertising office. Well, I was [illegible] down [illegible] Saturday afternoon and he [illegible] at me. I stopped and he came over to me and asked me to go to a [illegible] with him. I couldn't as I had a previous engagement. He didn't like that a bit. So he asked me if he could see me Monday night, and I said O. K. Well, about 7:30 he called me up and told me that he would be up around 8:45. He came over about that time with another fellow and girl. We went riding and later parked. He started to maul me over and I told him what I thought of him in a ladylike manner. He apologized. I saw him a few days later for a few minutes and he was very cool. Can you solve my problem?

Beatrice Fairfax

WORRIED ONE.

Dear "Worried One": You must be "crazy" to see anything in this fellow. His intentions are certainly not honorable, and his whole idea seems to be to rush you off your feet with a first offensive. You see, he hasn't the determination to make a lasting friend of you, and when you repulse him he becomes cold and shows his true colors. Leave him alone if you value your happiness, more especially as he is attractive to you. It would be so much harder to forget him as you would have to do later.

Wants Love Back

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a regular reader of your columns and thought I would ask for your advice. I am a girl of 13 and much in love with a boy the same age. I introduced my girl friend to him and he told me he loves her better than me. I told her about it and from then she has given him a sweet look. She told me that I couldn't get him back. How can I show him my love?

ALBERTINE.

Dear Albertine: You're a very silly little girl to be wasting your precious girlhood worrying over matters you are too young to know the significance of. It will be years and years before "love" enters your life. Snap out of it, and be a modern maid, and stop this mooning over a boy. And tell your girl friend the same thing.

To Win Him Back

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a girl of 15, in love with a boy of 16. He has been going out with me, but lately he has not been acting the same. Miss Fairfax, could you please tell me how I could be attractive enough to regain his interest.

WONDERING.

Dear Wondering: You are much too young to be bothered with matters of "love" for a couple of years at the most, and I should advise you to pay more attention to your books and how to help your mother for now.

Foolish to Refuse

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

A few days ago I met a nice young man who seemed to like me quite a bit. He promised to call and did that very night. He asked if he could come down to see me and I refused, saying that if he could not come down with three other fellows to take my friends out, I would not see him at all. I thought he had forgotten me, but a week later he called again, but I was not at home. Should I have accepted his company the first time he called? Should I accept his company if he calls again? Do you think I ought to go out with him alone?

"AASI."

Dear "Aasi"—What was your reason for trying to make him bring "dates" for your friends? Are you afraid to go out with him alone, or do you feel obliged to look after your friends' interests? If he is a "nice" young man, why not go out with him alone? It's done, you know, these days, and your girl friends should be able to look out for themselves. If he does call again, which I doubt, be sensible and accept his invitation. No man wants a bodyguard along when he takes his girl out riding.

She Has the Blues

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a girl of 23 and met a young man two years my senior at a dance. After meeting there several times we went together for five months. I liked him very much and he must have liked me, too, as he [illegible] me with dates, but after a while I noticed he wasn't calling as often and saw he was [illegible] little by little. I wrote a letter asking what was the matter, but didn't get an answer until [illegible]. I received a card from [illegible] saying he had not forgotten me. What shall I do? I love him and cannot keep him out of my mind. I've had the blues ever since. I'm going with some one else now but I don't care for him.

G.

Dear G: There is little you can do to hold a man if he doesn't want to be held. He evidently was not looking for a "steady" girl, but writes to let you know he still thinks of you in a friendly way. Have a good time with your present friend. We can't have everything we want in this life you know, and making the best of what we can get is good philosophy.

Don't Worry About Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a constant reader of your column and it has helped me in a great many ways. Can you solve this question? I am a girl 16. For a year I have been going with a boy 17. Early this summer he was struck by a car. I wrote a letter of sympathy and broke a date with him. He came one night when I wasn't home. He didn't come again.

DISAPPOINTED.

Dear Disappointed: There isn't much of anything you can do. If you ever meet him, be pleasant and suggest his calling, but if you don't love him I should not worry about it too much. Life's too short and there are too many interesting people in the world.

When Heart Is Full

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

If a boy and girl are in love (when instead of if) and the boy goes away for five months, how often should correspondence take place? Another question: Does a boy of social standing marry a girl of ordinary circumstances?

CURIOUS ANN.

Dear Curious Ann: For people extremely interested in each other, several times a week seems to be the rule for exchange of letters. When the heart is full to overflowing it naturally seeks expression. However, temperaments vary, and I shouldn't judge a man's feelings by the number of letters he writes. In answer to your second question Yes, they frequently do, and often quite satisfactorily.

Afraid to Admit Love

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am deeply in love with a girl my own age (16). I love her and she loves me, only she's afraid to admit it. What can I do to make her admit it?

ANXIOUS.

Dear Anxious"—Why is it so necessary for her to "admit" her love. You can tell by her actions whether or not she is fond of you. It isn't always necessary to say things in plain English in order to convey the idea.

Miss Fairfax will be pleased to answer readers' questions regarding love problems which may be troubling them. Write on one side of the paper only.

The Beauty Box

WHEN LIQUID nail polish begins to wear off in patches, as sometimes happens, use the same preparation as a cleanser and remover, then give a new varnish, being careful not to paint over the half moon at the nail base, or to color the white eaves of the nail.

When using tincture of benzoin as an astringent to close enlarged pores, be sure to ask for the simple tincture, not the compound. After bathing the face with soap and water, fill the washbowl with cold water and add half a teaspoon of benzoin. Use as a rinse.

Tacoma Demand For Industrial Power Grows

Increase of 25 Per Cent Takes Place Within Last Year

By B. C. Forbes

IN THE WEST, Aug. 1—Is business stagnant everywhere? Read this Industrial power demands in Tacoma have increased 25 per cent within the last year.

* * *

B. C. Forbes

"The lumber capital of the world," as Tacoma is called, has become an important furniture manufacturing center, a very natural development. Recently a local plant completely equipped a New York hotel with home made furniture. Manager Stevenson of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce told me:

"Fifteen hundred retail furniture dealers have just been in Tacoma attending the Pacific Northwest Furniture Exposition in order to make purchases in anticipation of healthy fall business. Fifty-two furniture manufacturers are displaying in the huge exposition everything from lampshades to gorgeous overstuffed furniture, all coast manufactured.

"Some of America's finest furniture is manufactured on Puget Sound. One Tacoma plant imports hardwood from Australia, fauxsatine zebray wood from the Trader Horn district of Africa, Ceylano wood from South Sea Islands, redwood burl from California, decorative wood from Germany and Switzerland, and at the same time is using alder and maple grown locally. Tacoma furniture is a world-wide business. Nineteen plants give us prestige as the furniture capital of the Northwest.

"Eastern industries have invested over $6,000,000 in Tacoma within two years. The St. Regis Paper Co. of New York has a $2,500,000 plant; the Hooker Electro Chemical Co. of New York has just completed a $2,000,000 plant; the Pennsylvania Salt Co. of Philadelphia recently finished a $1,000,000 plant."

* * *

It isn't often one sees or hears of a novel species of enterprise. Three have just been brought to my notice. One is a rabbit-raising farm, maintained not to produce food for the table, but fur for milady's adornment. With a little imagination, what "literature" an enterprising press agent could turn out picturing the growth of this venture.

Next "Vegetable Skinning Processes Co., Inc., is a corporation that owns and controls a patented process and chemical formula that removes the outside skin of fruits and vegetables quickly, and at very small cost. This process preserves the original flavor and the mineral values just under the outside skin."

A sample shows they skin then, all right.

Leading capitalists along the Pacific have furnished several millions to build and equip the first big mill near Portland, and the intention is to expand indefinitely. The directors include Herbert Fleishhacker, leading San Francisco banker and entrepreneur; E. B. King, San Fracisco; Lee A. Phillips, Los Angeles; Charles E. Dant, Kenneth Dawson, Franklin T. Griffith, Charles A. Shea, A. E. Millington, F. A. Nitchy, A. J. Lewthwaite, of Portland; H. F. McCormick, C. A. Millington, St. Helens John S Baker, Tacoma; Stanley S. Anderson, Beverly Hills, and William B. Dean, Chicago.

What is the product? What is the process?

Briefly, waste from lumber mills, chopped up, goes in at one end of the factory, is reduced to a pulp, goes through gigantic machines similar to paper-making machines, is processed into thick sheets, rolled in such a way that it acquires the strength of lumber, cut into any size desired—and forms a building material possessing amazing insulation qualities. The claims made for its multifarious merits sound incredible, but they are sponsored by men of the highest reputation.

The supply of lumber mill waste, heretofore worse than useless, inasmuch as it cost money to destroy it, is practically unlimited in Oregon, Washington, British Columbia; it can be transported cheaply, the manufacturing process (apart from the machinery) is extremely inexpensive, the product is extraordinarily light, its potential uses are described as virtually countless, and a price is being fixed to make it easy to sell on a large scale.

* * *

After one visits the first 100,000 plants North, South, East and West the second 100,000 yield little thrill, but here was a unique creation of real interest, a new-born industrial baby that promises to develop into a national giant international in its reach.

CAUTION STILL FAVORED BY BROKERS

By FRANK H. MELOON

Nine out of ten brokers questioned in State st., still favor a lot of caution in making commitments. There is a general feeling that recent market action has added to the difficulty of immediately obtaining any large constructive following. Nearly all the leaders look for a stronger market later in the year. Steel operations are being closely watched as it is felt they will show when general business begins definitely to swing upward.

* * *

Jesse L. Livermore, known years ago as the "Boston boy broker," is credited with leading the bears in Wall st., whenever an issue shows a pronounced downward tendencies, they are immediately credited to Livermore selling. We heard Mr. Livermore once quoted as saying he had never traded in one-tenth of the stocks with which his name was associated by gossip.

We are now at the time of year when the decisive turn came in the depressions of 1921 and 1924, Boston investment bankers point out in an informative bulletin in which they outline the factors to be considered in determining when to select a bond.

* * *

"The current recession so far most resembles 1921", the bankers say. "While bond prices advanced 21 per cent from July 20, 1920, to September, 1922, over 91 per cent of this gain was accomplished in the 15 months from June, 1921, to September, 1922. On this theory we are now entering another period of advancing bond prices with the most substantial increases occurring within the next year.

* * *

"Statistics reveal that in every period following a depression, when business actually touched bottom and commodity prices became stable, bond prices steadily advanced for about a year. With commodity prices at the lowest level since 1914 and an abundance of funds available for investment, it would appear that the present time presents the most advantageous period since 1921 to purchase bonds.

* * *

"Not only are bonds selling on an attractive income basis, but offer an unusual opportunity for steady enhancement in price at more than a normal rate, within a comparatively short time."

* * *

Director J. Douglas Black of the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel, who visits Boston annually, tells us the province is having a sensible "Safety Drive" along with that now under way in New England. Advertising is widely employed.

* * *

Western Union Telegraph Co. has completed installation of the new high-speed tickers in brokerage houses in New York city and expects to have all old-style machines replaced in other American cities and in Canada by end of August. The new tickers will be ready for high speed activity September 2, it was said, so that in the event of increased activity in the market after Labor Day the ticker service would be able to keep pace with trading.

"There is nothing new of any importance in the mine at Jerome.

"A flotation plant of 200 tons daily capacity has been installed at the smelting works, and is in operation to reduce silica in some of the upper level sulphide ores, which will result in a less silicious furnace charge."

Today's News in Wall Street

The most persistent investment buying in history is reported in Wall and State Streets. It has been under way since the big crash last fall Obviously it has not been of sufficient volume, however, to absorb all offerings; if it had been, the bears would not have been able to operate successfully.

In addition to the flotsam and jetsam and shattered hulks of the big break, there have been many new financial craft to harbor The tremendous increases shown in the number of recorded stockholders in sound issues is proof of the investment buying that has been, and is, going on.

WEALTHY GROUP IS BUYING DEC. WHEAT.

It is understood that a group of wealthy individuals have been buying December wheat and will continue to accumulate an important position in this option, believing that a substantial rally is due to the commodity.

GILLETTE RUMOR IS IMPORTANT IF TRUE

Market rumor that the Gillette Safety Razor Co. has bought 300,000 shares of its own stock in the open market in order to effect an exchange of shares with the Auto Strop Safety Razor Co. is one of those "important if true" stories. Assuming an average of 75 such a purchase would involve $22,500,000 and of course, make it necessary for the company to borrow money, something which it has not done for years. But it is not altogether clear why Gillette should buy its own stock in the open market when it has 795,000 authorized but unissued shares, there being only 2,205,000 shares outstanding of the 3,000,000 authorized.

NEW FIELD OPEN TO AMERICAN FILMS

Returning aboard the Ile de France from recent conference between German and American electrical and film interests, Will Hays, chairman of the conference, expressed the opinion that a new field had been opened to American film producers in foreign countries. The patent litigations have ended in an agreement permitting interchange of patents and ideas.

TIRE PRICES SEEN AS AT "ROCK BOTTOM"

P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., returning from Europe, said he believed time prices had reached "rock bottom," and that although economic conditions are unfavorable in England, Germany and the Scadinavian countries, Goodyear plants in those countries are "doing remarkably well."

UNITED FRUIT ORDER FOR GENERAL ELECTRIC

General Electric Co has received an order for furnishing turbine-electric propulsion for six new ships being built for the United Mail Steamship Co., a subsidiary of the United Fruit Co. Three of the ships are being built by the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. and three by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp.

NEW PRIVATE WORK IN BUILDING LARGER

Proposed new private work, other than buildings, announced throughout the country during the past week reached an aggregate of $54,574,000, compared with $45,042,000 in the previous week, Construction Daily reports.

INT. SALT AID SEEN IN ITS ADVERTISING

International Salt has been suffering from profit-taking, as have other stocks, during the recent reactionary tendencies in the general market. Important interests who accumlated the stock on the theory that the campaign of advertising and selling should have beneficial effect on earnings of the company in the future have been credited with maintaining their long position. No attempt has been made to hold up the stock in the face of the moderate supply. Such development often is an indication that previous advances in an issue have been the result of good buying rather than pool manipulation.

SAVAGE ARMS PROFIT BIGGEST IN FALL

Savage Arms business is such that the fall is by far the largest revenue-producing season. This factor affected the statement for the first six months, when a deficit was reported. Another important point is that Savage has discontinued the discount formerly allowed to dealers who would place orders far ahead. With the sporting goods trade in general doing quite well this year, a fairly good fall season for Savage is likely. Rumors have been heard that June earnings showed material improvement over the preceding months, but they have not been confirmed. The company ceased issuing quarterly reports this year.

RAILWAY SIGNAL MOVING AHEAD

General Railway Signal has been moving ahead slowly, but with the report for the six months showing better earnings than in the first half last year the stock is likely to attract additional accumulation when the general market shows improvement.

Although the June quarter was off from the 1929 period, that means little, according to interests in the company that insist that the quarterly statements are not a good index of the business. Many predict the second-half earnings will continue the ratio to the first six months, which has prevailed in the last two years. That would mean net of $9 or $10 a share this year

SENTIMENT HAS NOT CHANGED

Concervatives still favor remaining on the sidelines until the market demonstrates its ability to move out of the trading range recently established. Quite a few advise taking profits on the rallies and replacing holdings only on a scale when good-sized reactions occur.

Professionals and floor traders accounted for most of the day's transactions After testing the market during the forenoon, this element started covering shorts on an active scale and purchased on balance.

Commission houses reported a moderate amount of small-lot investment, but the upturns brought increased profit-taking from outsiders and leading firms reported the public a seller on balance.

INLAND STEEL'S GOOD SHOWING

Located in the Chicago district, which has been the outstanding territory in the steel industry. Inland Steel was able to make an exceptionally good showing for the first half of this year. The earnings amounted to $4 45 a share, against $5 11 in like period of 1929, and the latter was a most active period in the steel industry generally.

Inland is in a position to share in a great amount of business in its district. It obtains a proportion of the rail business at all times. It is one of the leading Middle Western independents and is likely to be taken into one of the larger organizations in the industry.

LOAN FIGURES SIGN OF SHORT COVERING

The $2,000 000 increase in brokers' loans, bringing the total to $3,228,000,000, is taken to mean recent big scale buying has been largely due to covering by short interests.

HOW'S BUSINESS?

ACTUAL FACTS ON CONDITIONS TODAY

By FRELING FOSTER

Inventory Conditions Greatly Improved

Chart shows the value of the stocks of raw materials and manufactured products held by their producers during quarterly periods from January 1st 1928 through May 1930, the latest available monthly figure. Index is used, based on 1923-1925 equaling 100. Source: Bureau of the Census.

The business recession was caused primarily by over-production, which curtailed manufacturing and started the decline in the stock market. This unwarranted production in the second and third quarters of 1929 is confirmed by the huge stocks on hand in the fourth quarter. As these stocks are depleted, manufacturing will increase, and business will improve. Note that the depletion is showing good progress.

McCall Corp. Has Larger Earnings

McCall Corp. reports for six months ended June 30, 1930, net income of $1,301,222 after charges and federal taxes, equivalent to $2 26 a share on 576 958 no-par shares of stock. This compares with $1,288,248 or $2.23 a share based on same number of shares in first half of 1929.

Net income for quarter ended June 30, 1930, amounted to $643,467 after above charges, equal to $1.12 a share on 576,958 shares of stock comparing with $657,755 or $1.14 a share in preceding quarter and $684 550 or $1 19 a share in June quarter of previous year.

Utility and Rail Bonds are Bought

New York, Aug. 1—Price Utility and Rail Bonds continued to profit from investment demand today. The stability shown by these gilt-edged issues, many of which are legal for savings banks, has remained unshaken throughout the dull Summer trading which set in a few weeks ago. Several new highs were established in the day's quiet trading, but the rest of the market was lethargic.

N. J. Standard to Pay Usual 'Extra'

New York, Aug 1—Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey declared usual extra dividend of 25 cents and regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable Sept. 15 to stock of record Aug. 16.

INSURANCE

Insurance Companies Show Good Increases
U. S. Has 74% of All World's Business
Two Billions Paid Beneficiaries in Year
Insurance Policies Should Be Retained

By Frank F. Loomis

Over 67,000,000 American citizens are now carrying life insurance policies No country in the world can show such foresight and such protection.

The life insurance companies for the first six months of this year show a substantial gain in life insurance purchased over the same period in 1929.

There is now over $104,000,000,000 of life insurance in force in the United States, 70 per cent of the world's total, which is greater than the total national income of the United States.

During the past year over $2,000,000,000 has been paid by the life insurance companies to beneficiaries, of which amount $850,000,000 was paid to living policyholders.

* * *

Insurance has been constantly improved so that today it is both the biggest thrift reservoir and the most active business factor in the country. It reaches more people than any other business.

The millions saved each year by the insured go into gilt-edged investment fields, thereby helping legitimate and safe business, and into real estate, assisting farmers and other owners of land and buildings to improve the country in general.

Individual benefits have been as great. Insurance funds are now being built up to take care of people in their old age or for their dependents if they die

* * *

Business concerns constantly urge people to trade the old automobile, radio, house or whatever other commodity it may be in exchange for the latest and newest model. Investors likewise make it a practice to change their security holdings from time to time when an opportunity for profit presents itself, investment brokers make it their duty to solicit changes profitable to their clients.

Generally speaking, it is considered good business to discard the old for the new if such can be afforded or a profit results thereby However, the idea of change is not "good business" in the case of a life insurance policy, for life insurance is not a commodity.

* * *

The twister or abstractor, who seeks to secure a change from the original policy to one of some other company, as a rule, does so for the sole purpose of making a commission for himself. Sometimes an expert with figures can make a change look very attractive but there is a mathematical equivalent for every argument that can be advanced

* * *

It is seldom necessary to lapse your life insurance, as a life policy increases in value every year The cash, loan and extended insurance values protect you against financial emergency. Annual payments can be changed to a semi-annual, quarterly or monthly basis.

See the agent of your own company before you lapse your policy! He will undoubtedly be able to show you how this can be avoided to save your insurance. Under the extended insurance clause, practically every policy will carry itself after the third year for double the time you have carried it.

PRODUCTION IS BEHIND NEEDS OF TRADE

That an increased rate of production will be soon required to meet the requirements of retail trade is the statement made by the National City Bank in its monthly review of conditions.

Although emphasizing that current conditions show no change in the trend, the bank points out that the quietness now prevailing in business, particularly the productive end, is having the effect of reducing surplus stocks. Continuing, the bank states:

"Once accumulated stocks are out of the way, production becomes more closely related to consumption and the first stage of stabilization has been reached. There is reason to believe that production in many manufacturing industries in recent months has been below current consumption, which would mean that dealers' stocks are being cleared out and that the increased retail trade of the Fall months probably will call for higher industrial activity.

"It is known that automobile production has been restricted with a view to reducing dealers' stocks of both new and second hand cars, and that good progress to that end has been made. Information concerning stocks in other lines is not so definite, but generally in trade circles the belief prevails that an increased rate of production will be soon required to meet the requirements of retail trade."

NEWS OF MAJOR MARKETS

Trends of the Day

New York List

Bulls Rout the Bears in Dull Afternoon Trading

New York, Aug. 1—Wall St. bulls succeeded in putting the bearish forces to rout in dull afternoon trading today.

During the forenoon the leaders sank rapidly under a mere featherweight of selling pressure until bulls apparently decided that timidity in the face of such liquidation was ridiculous.

By early afternoon they began bidding up a group of specialties, which turned the entire list upward.

UTILITIES UNDER FIRE

Utilities developed pronounced weakness, as bears turned their attention to this group, on reports of an impending reduction of around 25 per cent in New York city electrical rates. Leading industrials sagged a point or two, but soon attracted support.

Trading was about as dull as any experienced during the past two years, sales during the first two hours falling close to 500,000 shares. Ironically enough, it was announced tha the high-speed tickers, permitting rapid reporting of 6,000,000 to 8,000,000-share days, will all be installed by Labor Day.

The feeble character of yesterday's rally was disappointing to the bull faction, but with many indications that the recession in business has reached bottom bears lacked courage.

Traders generally, however, appear to be awaiting some indications as to the probable scope and duration of the impending seasonal expansion of business before committing themselves very extensively to higher prices.

The day's business news continued of an inconclusive, but mildly cheerful, character. The National City Bank, in its monthly survey, found consumption overtaking production. It pointed to the agricultural situation as the outstanding sore spot, but explained that excessive farm production probably would be nil if the buying power of millions now in want in the world could be improved by better trade.

CREDIT REDUCED

The earnings statement of Crosley Radio, showing net loss of approximately $1,000,000 in the first half, gave an indication of the difficulties which the radio industry has weathered.

It is probable that any recovery in trade activity will be accompanied by an even greater gain in earning power, for the outstanding industrial feature of the past 60 days has been the wholesale economizing and retrenchment of the big corporations. Business generally has now trimmed sail for about any emergency.

Despite settlements at the turn of the month aggregating about $300,000,000, the weekly federal reserve statement showing a reduc- Union Gas, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Power & Light and American Water Works lost about 3 to 6 points, touching new lows for the latest decline.

There seemed to be some fear that the proposed rate reduction in New York might be a signal for similar developments elsewhere.

U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse and Vanadium lost 2 points or so, but rallied by afternoon.

The American Tobacco issues were strong, the old stocks gaining 4 points or so. Case made a like gain.

Diamond Match, a volatile issue, shot up more than 10, and International Business Machines, a recent firm spot, reflecting reports of increasing sales, made fair headway. Radio turned firm after midday.

Peoples Gas quickly climbed 9 and J I. Case 7.

Celotex and Auburn Auto encountered selling.

Amerada's Profit Given as $477,645

Amerada Corp. reports for quarter ended June 30, 1930, net income of $477,645 after depreciation, depletion, taxes, etc., equivalent to 52 cents a share on 922,075 no-par shares of stock. This compares with net loss of $76,585 in preceding quarter and net income of $303,252, equal to 33 cents a share in second quarter of 1929.

Net income for first six months of 1930 totaled $401,606 after above charges, equal to 43 cents a share on 922,075 shares. This compares with $354,114, equal to 39 cents a share, in first half of previous year.

Rights in Segal Lock Are Offered

Segal Lock & Hardware Co., Inc., is offering stockholders rights to subscribe for additional stock at $5 a share on basis of one-half of a new share for each share of stock held. Rights must be exercised Aug. 22 and apply to holders of record Aug. 1. The stock not taken up by stockholders has been underwritten.

Proceeds from sale will be used to liquidate indebtedness incurred in connection with acquisition of Norwalk Lock Co., a new subsidiary 99.85 per cent owned by Segal Lock & Hardware Co.

BROOKLYN-MANHATTAN

F. F. G., Boston—How does Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit System compare with others in its general group? I hold 100 shares.

Ans.—As compared with the experience of other rapid transit and traction companies in leading cities throughout the country, the annual report of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit System, as preliminarily computed, for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, is excellent. The report serves further to illustrate, in a rather impressive manner the favorable earnings situation of the system with respect to its rapid transit lines, and the improved status of the reorganized surface railway system.

For the year ended June 30 last, the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit System, including the Brooklyn and Queens Transit System, reports a net income of $7,419,644 after all charges and minority interest, equal after preferred dividends to $7.69 per share on the 769,911 shares of no par common stock. When consideration is given to the fact that stability rather than spectacular growth has been characteristic of the system's earning power in the intervening years since the reorganization in 1923, the general excellency of the latest report can be more amply appreciated. Thus in the four years to June 30, 1929, common share earnings have hovered between the two extremes of $5.51 in 1926 and $6.62 in 1928, and aggregated $32.86 for the six years ended June 30, 1929, an annual average of approximately $5.48 per common share.

In the year ended June 30 last, expenditures of the system for maintenance of way and structure and of equipment, including depreciation reserves, continued to consume approximately 23% of total operating revenues, further attesting the rigidity and quality of the maintenance policy of the B. M. T. It will be noted from the above table that earnings have tended steadily higher in recent years with the exception of a temporary interruption in 1929, due to certain increases in income deductions. Among these was the gain in interest charges which, however, was largely due to capital expenditures in 1929 for new equipment which increased the system capacity for increased business. Concurrently there was a gain in maintenance of way and structures and of equipment. These chiefly account for the slight decrease in net in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929.

The report of the Brooklyn and Queens Transit System, (approximately 50% of whose preferred and 64% of whose common stock is owned by the B. M. T. System) shows a net income for the year ended June 30 last of $2,563,456 after taxes and charges. This showing is equal to $9.05 per share on the 283,250 shares of no par preferred stock, and after deducting dividends at the rate of $4 on the senior issue, such earnings are equal to $1.79 per share on the 800,000 no par shares of common stock. This compares with $6.21 on the preferred and 62 cents per common share, on a corresponding share basis, in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929.

HOW MUCH?

A. B., Lynn—I am a reader of your paper and need advice. What is your opinion of a purchase of American Smelting & Refining.

Ans.—American Smelting & Refining common is somewhat speculative, because of lower metal prices and general business. However, the president has said earnings for the first four months of current year would approximate $3 a share. Net in 1929 was $10.02 a share, compared with $8.24 in 1928 and $6.25 in 1927. Dividends at various rates were paid on the old $100 par stock from 1904, with exception of 1922, following a period of depression. Annual rate on the present no par stock is $4. How much have you available? Must you be conservative?

THREE STOCKS

Miss S. J., Waltham—What is your opinion of a purchase of Radio, Radio-Keith-Orpheum "A" and United Corporation?

Ans.—Radio common and Radio-Keith-Orpheum "A" are speculations. Initial dividend payments have yet to be announced. Though United Corporation will pay an initial dividend of 50 cents a share October 1, the stock is speculative. If you want to speculate you may as well choose your own medium. Should you be interested in buying securities on an investment basis, let us know the amount at your disposal.

GIVE FACTS

V. E., Wollaston—I have noticed your comments on securities. Please give information on Continental Baking preferred.

Ans.—Continental Baking Corporation is the largest baking company in the United States. Net for 1929 was $12.84 a share on the preferred stock, compared with $10.15 in 1928. For twenty-five weeks ended June 21, 1930, earnings were $4.81 a share, contrasted with $6.59 for similar period of 1929. Regular $8 dividends have been maintained since 1925. What is back of your inquiry?

BOUGHT HIGHER

H. J., Dedham—I own thirty-five shares Briggs at 48. What is your opinion of the stock?

Ans.—No dividend has been paid on Briggs Manufacturing since July, 1927. Net income for 1929 was $1.21 a share, compared with $2.15 for 1928. In the first six months of current year earnings were $1.76 a share, against $1.21 for similar period of 1929. The company is a large manufacturer of closed automobile bodies, and earnings for the rest of the year will depend very largely on the trend of motor car production. At recent levels you have a severe paper loss. However, no one can predict future prices.

American Financial News

CURB MARKET MOVEMENTS ARE MIXED

New York, Aug. 1 — The Curb market began the new month in a state of apathy today. Prices sagged after a firm opening had been extended into small gains, but trading became very quiet and movements of the favorites were narrow and irregular.

The day's news offered nothing to stimulate activity one way or the other and many traders left early for an extended weekend.

Utilities were inclined to take their cue from the early decline of the group on the big board, and a few of the less active issues slipped off a point. American Gas & Electric met profit-taking. Electric Bond & Share turned over in some volume, but was dull.

Oils were neglected. Cosden, which was reported to have been under pool accumulation, moved up again at the opening but lost part of its buoyancy when the gain had been extended to a point. Cities Service eased.

Trading in the industrials and specialties found the demand small. The Ford stocks were firm, while Hires and Swift International rallied moderately. U. S. Gypsum and Deere were heavy.

WALWORTH'S REPORT OUT

Walworth Co.'s report is out today. The big Boston company announces for quarter ended June 30 1930, net profits after all charges, including depreciation, interest and federal and foreign income taxes, of $149,537, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to 40 cents a share on 333,260 common shares. This compares with net in the preceding quarter of $340,757, or $.102 a share on 319,925 common shares and with net of $549,986, or $1.75 a share on 302,555 common shares, in the June quarter of 1929.

For six months ended June 30, 1930, net profit after all charges was $490,294, equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.40 a share on 333,260 common shares outstanding June 30 and $1.42 a share on the 326,592 average number of common shares outstanding during the period. This compares with net in the first half of 1929 of $951,933, or $3 a share on 302,555 common shares.

Common dividends paid in the 1930 six months totaled $326,512, leaving surplus to profit and loss, of $139,915.

Corn at Highest on Current Move

Chicago, Aug. 1—Corn rose today to the highest level yet on the present market movement. August unofficial monthly crop estimates indicated an average of 329,000,000 bu. curtailment of yield in the last month, as compared with the government July 1 forecast. Opening ¾-1½c up, corn later scored decided further gains. Wheat sympathized, starting at ¼c decline to ⅛c advance, and subsequently rising all around.

Average Price of Steel Unchanged

Present figure compares with low for 1929 of $49.88 and high of $51.25. The average for 1929 was $50.61. In 1928 the average was $49.47.

Cotton Higher in New York Market

New York, Aug. 1—Cotton opened today at an advance of 1 to 13 points and after some little irregularity sold about 15 to 22 points net higher on covering. Offerings were comparatively light and the new December contract sold up to 12.74, while March advanced to 12.98.

NEW PIRATE DRAMA HEARD ON WBZA

"Under the Jolly Roger" Begins Tonight at 10:30

"Under the Jolly Roger," a serial pirate drama, partly historical and partly romantic, will be inaugurated tonight at 10:30 over WBZ and WBZA. The first broadcast tonight concerns the adventurous career of Capt. Kidd as told by Dick Barcorn, the famous pirate cabin boy.

The story, which is written by George Ludlam, an employe of a New York bank, begins with Kidd being engaged by a merchant to prey upon French ships. Several uneventful months follow until a French ship is sighted. The pirates attack it, grab the treasure and depart for the West Indies, where they bury the plunder.

Human Fish

Doubling for Love

His gaze was on the horizon, where a shadow like a dim blot of ink on silver paper was a ship in the endlessness of sea and sky.

And Judy tried to pull her thoughts together. She was not sure now that she liked him. Think of wanting a cottage and garden when world trails were his—the seven seas—Northern lights and the Southern Cross! Something curious about him. She hoped with a little sense of panic that he would not set all her lovely dreams crashing.

Kit Camp took his elbows from the rail, stretched his arms lazily, said he must go below. "We're working in six hour shifts, other operator and myself. I went on at midnight. It's a dull trick."

"But I don't see—why, with all the things you can listen to—going through the air! I've thought of this," Judy cried. "Talk floating in the air—over land and sea. People saying things to each other. Telling their secrets—tragedy and triumph—everything. It would be like getting inside their minds, listening to them think!"

He inquired in a practical way. "What would you want to listen for?" And he looked so puzzled that she could only shake her head.

"You're disappointing," she thought. "Romany Rye without a song." But aloud she said, "Hope we'll meet again. I'd love to hear some of these experiences."

"But I say, we couldn't help meeting aboard." A flash of the grin, a wave of his cap and he sauntered off, shoulders back against the wind. [illegible] practical sort of person.

Wants a cottage and a garden and I thought him so glamorous! You just can't tell what folks are like!"

Yet she couldn't get him out of her mind—his boyishness, the upcurve of his lips when he smiled; his poised sureness. One thing certain; she never had met anyone like him in the least.

Peggy was getting up, moaning that she was not as young as she had been, that she feared the salt air would roughen her face and then what would she look like?

"Like a small, untidy angel, dear. And now if you'll rush a little. I'm starved!"

"And where have you been? I declare you're as pretty as can be—oh, beautiful—with your hair all mussed and that orange scarf. . . . You must keep the scarf, Judy; it's your type. I'll be ready time you're dressed."

But Judy said she would breakfast as she was. "All so silly, parading clothes. Who cares what you have on?"

"It's Sunday. People want to look nice."

"Oh—don't bother—"

She felt uncomfortable when she saw smart sports frocks, clever little silk coats and sweater suits all about the dining room. And there was a general air of good fellowship. While she slept last night others had been gay. Now everybody was friends with everybody but her.

Judy told herself that she didn't know how to mix. She didn't want to, anyway. People were so empty headed, they had no ambitions.

She remembered little Roy Varman. He was serious. And ambitious. Perhaps it would have been nice if she had told him about this cruise and asked him to come. He was more her sort than these others.

. . . And then she thought of Kit Camp . . .

After breakfast Betsy Rowe locked her arm through Judy's. She said they must have a talk.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

We have rather a peculiar task to perform today; perhaps it isn't absolutely necessary that we enter into it, and it is quite probable that the readers of this valued journal would manage to struggle along after a fashion were we to remain dumb on the subject at hand.

The plot of the piece is, we timidly say, concerned with Bill Whipple of Sweet Meadows, which makes it extremely difficult for us to proceed. Nevertheless we ask your indulgence for a brief moment while we make an announcement regarding this person from the hay and grain district.

Back in 1925, when broadcasting programs were mostly contributed by men and women who had a little talent in a singing or instrumental capacity, the then director of the Westinghouse Station WBZ at that time atop the Hotel Brunswick, asked us if we couldn't think up something that would occupy 15 minutes time that had nothing to do with music. Pleas were coming in from the fast-growing radio audience that they could get a little rest from so much music.

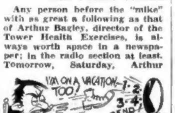
After mature thought it seemed to us that the New England listeners might be interested in hearing some small-town talk from a character, introduced through the "mike" as a ruralite, who would give to the folks on the air gossip and anecdotes as he knew they really were in our beloved small villages. And so Uncle Bill of Sweet Medders came into being.

At that time there was no inconsiderable amount of controversy among program directors as to whether or not broadcasts of a rural, or "hick" nature would be offensive to dwellers in the country, and entertainment of this kind was discouraged by studio officials. Insofar as we know we were the first in New England to put on a broadcast of this nature, and from the favorable criticism received in the thousands of letters regarding our attempts to entertain, it was pretty well proven that rural dwellers could laugh at their own characteristics.

However, tonight at 7:45 we face the mike again in our old character, after three years in retreat. Perhaps the radio audience today is more critical than it was when he journeyed down from Sweet Meadows each Thursday, and gossiped with the neighbors over WJZ's Blue Network from New York. It may be we have been outdistanced by the more brilliant young artists of the present, and we shall prove a complete dudd. But we've got to go through with this broadcast tonight anyway.

Health Director to Take Needed Vacation

Any person before the "mike" with as great a following as that of Arthur Bagley, director of the Tower Health Exercises, is always worth space in a newspaper; in this case, at least. Tomorrow, Saturday, Arthur leaves his quivering, gesticulating, would-be-lean audience for a two weeks' sojourn out in the great open spaces. During his vacation the bedroom acrobats will bow and scrape to the promptings of R. W. "Dick" Weed, supervisor of NBC engineers, who has pinch-hit for Bagle for the past three years.



VA ON A VACATION TOO!

Good, if not appropriate is the music to be played by the Gold Medal Fast Freighters in their melodious dedication to Wichita, Kansas. From WNAC at 10:30 tonight, the organ will start by "Painting the Clouds with Sunshine," shift to "The Waters of the Minnetonka" and will terminate by "Going Up." The quartet will repeat the yo yo "Yodel."

Walter Raleigh takes a deep bow, abandons his title and becomes Ol' Massa Raleigh tonight on the Raleigh Review from WEEI at 10 o'clock when the program goes decidedly Southern. No less than seven states will be "Mammy-ed" and "Take Me Back-ed" by the orchestra and vocalists. The Rovers will sing a medley which calls plaintively for Kentucky, Alabama and Virginia in that order. The orchestra seems to be devoted to another section for they send up prayers of thanks for Georgia, Louisiana, Tennessee and Mississippi. Ohman and Arden refuse to be converted; they adhere to Broadway by administering a piano duet called "Cheer Up."

Continuing the dedication spirit, Mary and Bob, the True Story pair, commemorate their tonight's broadcast from WNAC at 9 o'clock, to the "Ignominious Order of Sky Widows." They present a dramatized true story entitled "My Sky-Had Husband," which deals with the difficulties of a wife whose spouse spent his time flitting about the clouds in his airplane. Golf widows have passed into oblivion, welcome to the new society.

AND HE SAID HE'D NEVER TAKE ANOTHER DROP!

Seven Per Cent on Your Money

With a Possibility of 10 Per Cent. on Hearst Publications Preferred Stock

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Those interested in profitable investment should know that the Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., offers 7 per cent, cumulative, preferred stock, in Mr. Hearst's publishing business, which is the biggest in the world.

In addition to 7 per cent return on their investment, the holders of preferred stock will share equally with the common stockholders, up to an additional 3 per cent after payment of $1.75 on the common stock.

Such an investment today makes possible, above the assured 7 per cent, an additional earning of 3 per cent, raising the total income to 10 per cent.

The important fact is that the properties from which this preferred stock draws the first dividend, have, during the last four years, earned more than three times 7 per cent on the total issue.

The properties on which the stock is issued include the New York Evening Journal, the Chicago Evening American, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pitt Building Company, Detroit Times, San Francisco Examiner, Oakland Post-Enquirer, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Evening Herald, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, American Weekly, American Newsprint Company.

Application will be made to list the stock on the New York Curb, the Chicago Stock Exchange, the San Francisco Stock Exchange and the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

The stock now offered, based on properties highly profitable, may be purchased at any of the offices of the National City Company throughout the country, the Bank of Italy, the Crocker First National Bank of San Francisco, the Anglo & London Paris Bank of San Francisco, Continental and Illinois Bank & Trust Company of Chicago and the Bank of America of California, as well as the cashier's office of any Hearst newspaper or corporation in the United States.

Of a total issue of 2,000,000 shares now offered, 400,000 shares are reserved for officers and employes of the Hearst organization. An important part of Mr. Hearst's plan in offering this stock issue is to promote "employe stock ownership," which has been found so desirable in modern business methods.

Under the arrangement, Mr. Hearst, personally, will not draw a cent of dividends from the properties involved until 7 per cent has been paid on all the preferred stock.

This issue of stock, having as security the greatest publishing business in the United States, earning sufficient to pay the dividends more than three times over, affords an opportunity to invest small or large amounts at a 7 per cent return on the money, plus the possibility of an additional return of 3 per cent, which would make net earnings 10 per cent.

Those wishing to purchase this stock should not delay, as the readers of the various newspapers involved represent a great buying power.

The profits on these publications have increased steadily, from $10,000,806 in 1926 to $12,854,627 last year, when dividend requirements were earned 3.67 times.

The purchase of this preferred stock by those desiring a safe investment, and a good return on their money, is recommended to our readers.

Are Wives Their Husband's Keepers?

THERE ARE 3,649,756 letters saying: "My husband doesn't make me happy. What shall I do about it?"

Elsie Robinson

Corra Harris that wise, rich soul has written the perfect answer to that plaint.

"Every wife," says Mrs. Harris, "is the keeper of her husband, and is more responsible for their mutual peace and happiness than he is."

And immediately, if not sooner, I can hear Tillie the Toiler say: "What hooey? Why should I be any man's keeper even if I'm married to him? Haven't I had enough punishment keeping bosses smiling pretty for the last ten years, without getting myself responsible for mutual peace and happiness with some peevish husband?

"And why should husbands be peevish anyway? Why should a big grown-up man have to have his wife as a keeper? Why can't he manage to consume his own smoke without some woman petting him along?

"Maybe that stuff went when Mrs Harris was a girl — when women had to marry to eat. Then if you didn't like your husband's pouts you were just outta luck. But nowadays there are just about a million easier ways of earning your three pers than by marrying some sorehead. If I gotta rassel a living that way I'll stay in an office where a girl gets paid for grief."

That's Tillie's side of it——Tillie's tired, tight way of reasoning after weary office years. And if you're a working girl yourself you may sympathize with Tillie rather than with Corra Harris. Yet Mrs Harris is right. Even for the selfish ends of the Gimme Girl, she's right.

A wife is her husband's keeper. Don't ask me why husbands need keeping, or why husbands may pout and wives mustn't. I don't know. I didn't invent natural history and I refuse to be responsible for it. I only know that husbands do pout, but that the female of the species was so constituted that she can stand it—if she will.

For every woman is two things to her husband. She is his wife. And she is his mother. She is his wife in order to love him. And she is his mother in order to live with him. And if she has the sense God gave a gooseberry, she'll never drop the mother role.

For job, or no job, a woman's happiness depends on her husband as much in 1930 as it ever did. Tillie can, it is true, find freedom and funds in a job. But she cannot find the priceless possessions of love and pride and deepening content which only marriage brings.

The stenog who lets office irritations get her goat and won't bother to keep the boss in a good humor is a sap.

BUT THE WIFE WHO LETS HOME IRRITATIONS GET HER GOAT AND REFUSES TO BE RESPONSIBLE FOR HER HUSBAND'S HARMONY IS AN ABSOLUTE FOOL.

FOR TILLIE THE MISSIS HAS INFINITELY GREATER TREASURE AT STAKE THAN TILLIE THE TOILER—

AND IT'S UP TO HER TO MAKE GOOD.

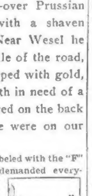
McINTYRE ABROAD .-:- By O. O. McIntyre

COLOGNE—First crack out of the box in Germany we ran afoul of a left-over Prussian petty officer with a shaven square head. Near Wesel he was in the middle of the road, helmeted and roped with gold, a guttural Goliath in need of a David. I shivered on the back seat, wishing he were on our side.



Our cars were labeled with the "F" for France. He demanded everything, from passports to a sample of dandruff, rushed up and down like a hydrophobic dog until I thought the war had begun all over again. Finally he hopped into the lead car and escorted us to the town caboose, a portrait of swollen rage.

There we paraded like dumb sheep before the local burgomeister, who, in contrast, was as polite as a dancing teacher. It developed one of the chauffers, a placid young Holland Hans, had no local driver's license. It was straightened out after two hours, during which the entire village dropped around to gape and see the fun.

At Duisbourg, the next stop, we dined at the new three million dollar hotel, designed completely in the modernistic mode from facade to ash trays by one man. Afterward we began the leisurely journey along the Rhine, halting at dusk for a moment to see the bustling city of Dusseldorf.

We reached Cologne at midnight, dog tired but thankful not to have spent the night in durance vile. At 6 a. m. we were aroused by the clanging chimes of the celebrated Cologne cathedral across the street from our hotel—the Dom. It produced the head roar of a triple dose of quinine.

A big fete day was on and the cathedral steps were massed with surpliced choir boys, nuns and bareheaded priests, holding aloft crosses. Out of Cologne's 800,000 population, 85 per cent are of the Catholic faith. From a flowered and pebbled hotel portico we watched proceedings.

Cologne is the home of the perfumed concoction, eau de cologne, and has a history stained with the blood of religious conflict. I exploited my German on a 14-year-old hotel page boy. He ventured modestly: "I speak a little English." He spoke better English than I—which, come to think of it, is a high in left-handed compliments.

The famous Rhine is an unruffled ribbon of green. On its scowling hillsides are the castle ruins of feudal barons, and every few miles a quaint villiage, outlined like those fluted and frosted ginger cakes of years agone. For miles the bowl-shaped banks are a patchwork of vineyards for the stupendous output of wines. It is the longest river in Germany, and alive with shipping. Along footpaths were nature-loving students, some with tiny feathered hats of the Tyrol, pursuing the custom of learning their country afoot and pitching a pup tent wherever night falls.

* * *

A brand new passenger packet churned by bearing the name Kaiser Wilhelm II. Many streets, hotels and cafes also bear his name—a name that has not been scratched out, at least along the Rhine. At Bonn, near Wiesbaden, we passed the modest cottage of Beethoven.

* * *

My wife is somewhat a student of Rhine legends, and was so lost in reverie she was silent from Cologne to Mainz—dreaming doubtless of the lure of the fabled Lorelei and Siegried "doing his stuff." But ruined castles and picturesque greensward are to me just so much more dry stuff for guide books.

* * *

As we swung into Bingen I began to recite with gesture and to the utter boredom of everybody, "Bingen, Fair Bingen on the Rhine," just as I did at the Gallia Academy years ago. Bingen sidewalks were crowded with children arm in arm and six in a row, German fashion, skipping and singing home from school. On one Bingen doorstep was a long and languid lady dachshund with whom Billy flirted outrageously, squatting so firmly on his haunches I had to yank him up and carry him away.

* * *

What interests me more is that German porters wear green aprons, magazines and newspapers are displayed and sold in hotel elevators, and all motor signs are yellow and black because German efficiency discovers the color combination easiest to read.

* * *

The day has been such a whirl that I have little room for the stop at Coblenz, now evacuated by the American army of occupation. It drowsed, drearily, its streets so deserted that you couldn't get run over if you were despondent. On a tree in the rear of a cafe were carved the names "Tim and Alex, Toledo, O." In the public square an old ice cream pedlar said: "We miss the boys."

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

IN THESE plants, then, there is inheritance in which the nucleus is not immediately concerned. It is inheritance through the rest of the cell. And it also differs from Mendelian inheritance in that the male parent has very little say in the matter, because his gamete is practically all nucleus.

H. G. Wells

The question naturally arises, do such phenomena exist elsewhere outside this little group of patchwork plants? In animals, is the whole of heredity due to the nuclei of the sperm and egg? Does the rest of the egg protoplasm (cytoplasm) play no part at all?

We cannot answer with an absolute No. Recent research has produced instances that seem to establish cytoplasmic inheritance in certain types, but the weight of the evidence seems to be that these instances are very exceptional and that the bulk of racial qualities in all the metazoa at least are transmitted by genes according to the Mendelian principle.

We must remember that in the simplest living things, the bacteria, there is no definite nucleus and no sexual process, so there cannot possibly be Mendelian heredity.

Here, then, is a very large group of organisms, in which apparently inheritance must be non-nuclear. It is possible to look upon the cromosome mechanism as a later evolution, a thing added to this non-nuclear inheritance, co-existing in the higher animals and plants with a more ancient mode.

There are authorities (of whom the late Jacques Loeb was the most distinguished exponent) who hold this view. They believe in two different methods of inheritance—the "species" method and the "variety" method; the former, they suppose, is something more basal, co-existing with the latter, and presumably carried on the cytoplasm.

According to these dualists it is usually by this former, the cytoplasmic or "species" method, that the race evolves.

A similar dualism, it may be, presents itself in the development of the embyro from the fertilized egg. It is probable that the nuclei do not begin to play a part in shaping the growing embyro until the first stage in development is over and the rough form of the future person is already planned out.

Let's Get Rid of Our Undesirable Aliens

Poor Uncle Sam Has Enough Home-Grown Troubles to Keep Him Busy

We have tightened up our immigration laws. It isn't so easy for undesirable aliens to get into the United States.

Tens of thousands of extremely undesirable aliens are finding it easy to STAY in this country—and that is costing big-hearted Uncle Sam a pretty penny.

It costs huge sums of tax money to maintain these aliens in asylums, prisons, poorhouses. It costs MORE than money to fight the activities of foreign gangsters and racketeers. Too frequently it costs HUMAN LIVES.

But when we try to get rid of this alien riff-raff we run into a labyrinth of legal red tape designed to protect the alien at the expense of United States citizens.

We need to cut through that mass of red tape.

We need to tighten up our deportation laws just as drastically as we tightened up our immigration laws. When Congress convenes again it should tackle that job. In the meantime intelligent American citizens should work for the passage of a law providing for the summary deportation of all aliens who are undesirable for any sound reason.

He has to worry about the Volstead law, creating criminals in wholesale lots. He has to worry about unemployment. He has to worry about the alarming increase in narcotic addiction. He has to worry about the terrible increase in the burden of caring for public charges in asylums and almshouses.

He should NOT have to worry about imported foreign troubles.

The thing to do is to DEPORT THEM.

But the United States has always dealt gently with the aliens within its borders. That has been part of a fine tradition—the tradition of giving sanctuary to political exiles, of offering a haven of liberty to the oppressed people of other countries.

We are proud of that tradition. We should maintain it.

But offering a haven to gangsters, racketeers, narcotic addicts and pedlars, the physically and mentally diseased—that is SOMETHING ELSE again, something DANGEROUS to the welfare of this nation.

In the last few years Congress has passed many fine, useful laws regulating the entry of undesirables into the country. The alien law of 1924, providing for the deportation of aliens who give false statements at entry; the Jones-Miller law of 1922 providing for the deportation of aliens caught smuggling narcotics across the border; the Johnson act of 1924, providing for the medical examination of aliens seeking entry—these are all good laws as far as they go.

But they DON'T GO FAR ENOUGH!

We should have the right to deport aliens who become public charges AFTER they enter.

At present we cannot do that unless we can prove that the causes leading up to delinquency originated within five years of their entry. So we have in our midst a horde of aliens, impossible as citizenship material, who prey upon this country, who burden it with taxes, who break its laws—and who defy us to put them out.

Many of them entered the country by smuggling themselves across the border. But only recently were aliens entering through regular channels provided with certificates showing that they were legal residents. So under present laws it is almost impossible to distinguish between aliens who are here legally and those who are here illegally. Compulsory registration of all aliens would change that.

This country welcomes honest, hard-working aliens—the kind that become good citizenship material. While tightening up on the undesirable aliens in this country, it would be highly desirable for the Government officials to use more care in admitting aliens to citizenship. As the law is at present administered, it is entirely too easy for applicants to become citizens. It should be made more difficult.

Maine to Celebrate

Massachusetts Joins in Intercentenary

Governor Allen and other Massachusetts dignitaries will tour through Maine on August 11 to participate in that State's celebration of the Tercentenary of Massachusetts Bay. For generations before she attained State sovereignty, Maine was an integral and formidable part of Massachusetts and her eagerness to revive the recollections of that historical affiliation is graceful. We have much to be proud of in New England and we need to promote the harmony of New England mindedness in order to secure our common political and economic rights.
